Senate Again Defeats Efforts To Trim Taxes

2 Attempts Beaten Down By Big Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate balked again Friday at immediate income and excise tax cuts to beef up buying power and battle the recession.

Senators rejected the reductions in two separate packages on the way to passing and sending to the White House a bill to save life insurance companies 124 million dollars on 1957 taxes.

The bill was passed Friday night, 61-19, with most of the debate centered not on it but on general tax reductions and the idea of increasing payments for people out of work.

Members shouted down a $2,200,000,000 slash in federal sales taxes—applying to items varying from fountain pens and whisky to cars and trucks.

Rebuffs Yarborough

And by a 64-19 vote, it rebuffed an attempt by Sen. Yarborough (D-Tex) to hike the individual income tax exemption from $600 to $800 for the rest of this year. Yarborough figured this would have provided $3,750,000,000 in tax relief.

The tax formula for insurance companies in the bill passed is the same that applied to them in 1955 and 1956. Corporate taxes are due Saturday.

Under the formula, life insurance companies are taxed at the regular 52 per cent corporation rate on 12½ per cent of the first million of net investment income, and 15 per cent of such income above a million.

Unless the bill becomes law, the companies would be taxed for 1957 under a 1942 formula which would bring about 415 million dollars to the Treasury as compared with 291 million under the formula in the bill.

Effort Earlier

The rejection of the cut in excise levies came early in the proceedings.

Specific maneuvers to end the tax on passenger and freight traffic and slash in half the 10 per cent tax on cars and trucks were

Newsman Hints A-Sub Contacts With Russians

EDITORS NOTE: Elton C. Fay, Associated Press military affairs reporter, has just returned from a cruise aboard the atomic submarine Seawolf. The cruise was to have been part of a routine training maneuver along the East Coast. A suspected Russian submarine contact reported after the Seawolf had put out to sea quickly ripped away the routine training category. It became a deadly serious game of hide and seek played in the ocean depths. It was the first time a reporter ever had participated in such a venture. Security considerations preclude telling the entire story. What can be told is related here.

ABOARD NUCLEAR SUBMARINE SEAWOLF (AP) — This submarine is searching the depths for suspected Soviet undersea prowlers off the American East Coast—the first time the Navy has ordered an atomic submersible into an operation closely akin to war patrol.

The cruise started out to be another routine training operation, a tame game, a routine test of one American weapon against other weapons of the Navy.

A radioed order, flashed a few hours after the Seawolf sailed from an East Coast port Tuesday, changed things.

Looking For Sub

The Seawolf is looking for an unidentified submarine—or submarines — believed to have been sighted in this area.

In itself, the presence of a Russian submarine out here, well beyond the three-mile limit, would not be an act of hostility. For half a decade, there have been reports of unidentified subs off both coasts.

What interests the military guardians of American military security are these factors:

What is the mission of such a submarine, what information is it gathering?

How do the Russians operate their submersibles?

And what kind of a submarine is it?

Especially the latter — what kind?

A Soviet captain, on long patrol, could react nervously to a sudden contact, could launch a torpedo.

The orders under which American defense forces — sea, air and ground — operate is to defend themselves if attacked.

The Seawolf is ready.

When this submarine put out from port for the planned routine training operation the torpedoes were ranked in storage racks in the forward compartment. Go down and look now. The previously crowded compartment is half empty. The fish are in the tubes. On each tube hangs a metal plate. It says:

Morrison And Howard Win LMA Honors

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Municipal Assn. Friday night selected Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans as "Mayor of the Year for 1957."

A selection committee said Morrison was chosen for his "leadership, municipal program development and outstanding public relations."

Members named two honorary mayors of the year—W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe and Roy R. Theriot of Abbeville.

(Mayor W. L. "Jack" Howard, contacted for comment late last night, said "I consider the opportunity of serving as mayor of Monroe a very high honor, and a sincere privilege. . . through the complete cooperation of the many employes who serve the people of the city, and the splendid cooperation that has existed between the members of the city council, the achievements that have been made are the result of the spirit and earnest desire on the part of employes and the city council to serve the citizens of Monroe to the very best of our ability.")

Rebels In Indonesia Attacking

Claim Number Of Paratroopers Being Captured

SINGAPORE (UP) — Rebel forces counter-attacked Pakanbaru Friday and inflicted "heavy casualties" on the central government paratroopers who seized the Central Sumatran oil town Wednesday, the rebel radio reported.

Revolutionary commander Lt. Col. Achmad Hussein, broadcasting over Bukittinggi Radio, said a number of the government paratroopers had been captured.

In Jakarta, central government Premier Djuanda said investigation showed the arms dropped to the rebels around Pakanbaru on Wednesday were "American-made." He declined to speculate on who may have dropped them.

An Indonesian newspaper said an airplane with royal Australian air force markings delivered the arms. An Australian embassy spokesman in Jakarta emphatically denied it.

Dutch Accused

Antara news agency said central government Foreign Ministry sources accused the Dutch of aiding the rebels in Central Sumatra.

Hussein claimed in his broadcast that Tapanuli, a province in North Sumatra which had been neutral, had joined the rebels. He said the Jakarta - appointed military commander had fled and three battalions of troops had deserved the central government.

Registrars Given Pledge Of Support

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — The state registrar of voters today promised parish registrars the backing of the state in opposing any pressure groups.

State Registrars Douglas Fowler told the state Registrars of Voters Assn., registrars have obligations to all of the people and not to any minority groups and warned against pressure groups.

"Pressure groups are going to tell you who to register, but it's time we stiffen our backs," Fowler said.

He said the Citizens Councils, Southern Gentlemen and police juries are placing pressure on registrars on one hand, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and recent federal court opinions on the other.

Will Back Them

"You do the right thing," Fowler said, "and I'll back you."

"We have no way to exercise the great civil right of voting unless we register," Fowler said.

He said pressure groups "are going to tell you who to register and who not to register, but it's time we stiffen our backs."

Fowler said only the State Board of Registration is the only agency that can fire the parish registrar, and added "There's no one who can push your governor around."

James McLemore, state voting machine custodian, told the registrars that, despite press charges to the contrary, his department is "operating on less money than it did last year and two years ago."

Cites Expenses

He cited the recent district attorney race in New Orleans as an example of department expenses. He had to keep employes guarding machines until last night, he said, because of a suit contesting the election.

McLemore said his office will open bids Monday on special trailers to transport voting machines. Presently, he said, the transportation of machines must be paid by towns holding municipal elections.

No Immediate Refunds Seen On Gas Rates

Increased gas rates in Monroe will remain in effect — with no refunds being made to customers —until the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision becomes final, it was clarified yesterday.

Date for a final decision was uncertain and the gas case appeared as if it could linger indefinitely.

A reporter learned from attorneys that the Court of Appeals decision in favor of the City of Monroe could become final in 21 days after the ruling was handed down, which was last Wednesday.

In event, the rates would be returned to the former lower standard and refunds would be in order for customers of United Gas Co. in Monroe.

An announcement from the company concerning possible further legal action had not been made late yesterday.

The much-tried case of Monroe versus United Gas took another turn in favor of the city Wednesday when the Court of Appeals in New Orleans ruled out an injunction filed in Federal Court which allowed the company to install higher rates.

Step Possible

United Gas could take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court to determine whether the injunction should be ruled valid or improper in the case.

However, under the provisions of the law, United Gas has 21 days to ask for a rehearing in the Court of Appeals.

3-Stage Rocket Climbs 6,140 Feet Before Misfiring

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Jittery on-lookers hugged ground in a field near here yesterday while a three-stage rocket shot 6,140 feet upward before misfiring and falling to earth.

Travelling 400 m.p.h., it rose and fell in 40 seconds and made members of the Crossett Rocket Club dig in when it began falling from its lofty perch of over a mile in the sky.

Faculty sponsor B. C. Dodson said the force of the first-stage explosion caused the second and third stages to veer off at an "unsafe angle."

He termed the experiment a "partial success," but sounded a warning to other rocket clubs against firing rockets without overhead protection.

It was the second rocket firing for the high school club members here. A two-stage rocket launched February 18th, although traveling faster, went only 2,210 feet in the air.

Mock Satellite

Equipped with a miniature-mock satellite, the seven-foot rocket was built in three sections. It weighed 32 pounds and was designed to fire the second section from the first and the third from the second as it climbed upward.

But the second and third stages failed to fire and shot away from the first section. A pendulum-type switch set off a "safety" explosion to send the two "un-

FAREWELL PUNCH

Heavy Snowfall Paralyzes East

By UNITED PRESS

Winter threw a farewell punch at the nation's East Friday, crippling big city traffic and cutting off power to thousands of homes with wet, heavy snows.

Spring was only six days away, scheduled to bow in on March 20, but a three-day snow storm was spending its strength on the Atlantic coastline.

The storm center surged along the New Jersey shore and pressed inland, with winds up to 70 miles per hour. Parts of Pennsylvania and Connecticut were under 10 inches of snow, 6 to 11 inches of snow were in store for New York state areas, and the forecast was for 10 inches of snow in interior New England.

Eleven Dead

A United Press count since the storm got its start in Oklahoma Wednesday showed a total of 11 weather-caused deaths. Two men and a 10-year-old boy died when their plane, carrying the lad to a hospital, crashed in a Utah storm. Snows were also blamed for a car-train crash in Indiana, which killed four persons, while single weather deaths were counted in Illinois, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas.

The eastern snows were mushy, ideal for slowing New York traffic to a crawl, causing monumental traffic pileups in other areas, and snapping power lines.

New York and its northern suburbs measured 6 to 10 inches of snow by mid - afternoon. The storm cancelled 87 domestic air flights and delayed plane landings one to three hours. Commuter trains fought in vain to deliver office workers to their jobs in time.

Power Fails

The Long Island Lighting Co. reported more than 5,000 consumers without power at various times, while 79 power lines were down in Queens alone. It was the same in Pennsylvania's Bucks

Policeman Says Kohler Workers Feared Attacks

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Sheboygan, Wis., police chief said Friday his attempts to halt the wave of violence in the Kohler Co. strike were crippled because non-strikers feared retaliation.

The officer, Steem W. Heimke, also told the Senate Rackets Committee that both the sheriff and mayor were stumbling blocks to the police force in its peace efforts.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) accused Sheboygan officials of failing to do their duty in trying to pin down blame for the violence and vandalism. He said they should have convened a grand jury.

Obtained One Conviction

Heimke testified he obtained only one conviction out of more than 900 complaints of vandalism in the four-year old United Auto Workers strike against the Wisconsin plumbing firm. He said it involved a non-striker accused of "decorating" a striker's car.

The chief said he believed the

Substitute Gas Measure Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Long (D-La) introduced Friday a bobtailed version of the controversial natural gas bill to exempt more than 5,000 small, independent producers from price regulation by the Federal Power Commission.

He conceded in an address to the Senate that broader legislation, extending the exemption to the big producers, is "as dead as a door nail" for this session of Congress.

Senators Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Clark (D-Pa), who fought bitterly against the bill which was passed in 1956 and vetoed by President Eisenhower because of what he described as the "arrogance" of the lobbyists, joined Long and Senator Yarborough (D-Tex) in sponsoring today's watered-down substitute.

Douglas' Bill

Long said it was "identical" to the substitute offered by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) at the time of the 1956 debate.

Long said he still favored the original bill exempting big and little producers alike, but declared that it has been "dead as a door nail" ever since Jack Porter, GOP national committeeman from Texas, sent out requests for a $100,000 fund-raising dinner for Rep. Joe Martin (R-Mass), the House minority leader, a supporter of that measure.

Long said that in joining him in the measure, Kefauver and Clark

Four Uninjured As Jet Trainers Collide In Air

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Two jet trainers collided about 25 miles west of here Friday but no one was hurt. Two fliers bailed out of one plane and the other aircraft, badly crippled, came back here safely.

A formation of four T-33 trainers from the Greenville Air Force Base was flying over the Dermott, Ark., area when two ships collided. No reason was known for the collision.

First Lts. Thomas J. Mannion, 25, of St. Louis, Mo., and John N. Lawrence, 28, Cleveland, Ohio, parachuted unhurt while their plane crashed into a bayou northwest of Dermott. The men were picked up and returned here by helicopter.

Second Lt. Dennis LaFarlette, 22, Palo Alto, Calif., piloted the other plane back although much of the right wing had been ripped off. Flying safety officials at the base said LaFarlette "did an incredible job of bringing back the crippled aircraft."

Aviation Cadet Kenneth C. Brooks, 24, of Needham, Mass., was the other occupant of the damaged craft.

Two Men Killed In Hotel Blaze At Waco, Texas

WACO (UP) — Two men died Friday in a fire that swept through the 58-year-old New Waverly hotel.

The dead, charred beyond recognition, were identified through papers as Robert D. Sparks, 63, of Austin, and H. E. Peters, 64, of Waco.

Three persons were injured. Aubrey Brock, 47, received severe burns and a fractured skull. Cicero Lambert, 70, broke his leg when he jumped out a window and Godfrey Newton, 39, suffered from shock and partial suffocation.

The fire demolished the hotel, which occupies the second floor of the two - story building. Six business places below it were damaged.

Police said 24 guests were in the 33-room hotel when it caught fire. No reason was immediately found for the fire, authorities said.

The building was erected in 1900 and remodeled in 1920. Severe damage from the 1953 tornado caused another remodeling job.

Firemen said the bodies were found under beds and where walls had caved in.

Professor Sees Booming Economy

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A Louisiana State University professor Friday predicted "vigorous prosperity and growth" following the present national recession.

Dr. Stephen McDonald, head of the LSU department of finance, told the first annual study conference of junior bankers the slump will taper off in the next month or two, giving way to recovery some time in the third quarter of 1958.

He said this is the time to "gather strength for the 1960's, when with the marriages and family formations of the 'war babies, we shall have at least the potential of the greatest boom in our history."

Fund Contributions Jump $345 In Day

The memorial fund for Dr. William L. Bendel Sr., dedicated to the building of a Little League baseball park to bear the name of the late doctor, took a $345 jump yesterday to a new total of $3,694.

The latest tabulated contributions came from Central Trans port Company, officers of The Palace, M. S. Greenblatt, C. E. Barton, Mrs. C. T. Simmons, John Clay, Dr. D. R. Hamilton, W. C. Leigh, Henry L. Billingsley of Ciba, J. W. Blanchard Jr., Ouida G. Elder, and two more "Friends."

But the fund still needs much more assistance to bring into reality a park structure of durability that will provide a lasting memorial for Dr. Bendel who gave fully of his energies and fortune to all youth endeavors of this area for over thirty years.

All contributions should be sent to "Monroe Little League, P. O. Box 1293, Monroe, La." Some donors do not want their names listed, and it is the desire of the press, radio, and TV to join Little League and the fund's trustees in honoring these wishes in the interest of the youth program. Youth Saved From Cold Bayou Waters

Gasping but unharmed, Mickey Durham, 16-year-old Ouachita High School sophomore was pulled from the chilly waters of Bayou DeSiard after his boat capsized about 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

The youth explained he had just drifted some 125 feet from the shoreline at Edgewater Dam and DeSiard Road, when his 12-foot aluminum craft began to overflow before flipping over. Vincent Marsala Jr., of 2108 Pargoud Blvd., and J. L. Harrison, who rescued the youth, reported the water was about 10 feet deep.

Marsala said he was fishing on the dam about half-way across the bayou and that Harrison was working near DeSiard Road. Both men plunged into the water to rescue the tiring youth.

The Durham youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Durham, 3722 Lionel St. The boy explained he was attempting to start a seven and one-half horsepower outboard motor attached to the boat, when the accident occurred. The boat dipped, then overturned, Durham said.

According to the rescued lad, he could swim "only a little,"

Registrars Given Pledge Of Support

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — The state registrar of voters today promised parish registrars the backing of the state in opposing any pressure groups.

State Registrars Douglas Fowler told the state Registrars of Voters Assn., registrars have obligations to all of the people and not to any minority groups and warned against pressure groups.

"Pressure groups are going to tell you who to register, but it's time we stiffen our backs," Fowler said.

He said the Citizens Councils, Southern Gentlemen and police juries are placing pressure on registrars on one hand, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and recent federal court opinions on the other.

Will Back Them

"You do the right thing," Fowler said, "and I'll back you."

"We have no way to exercise the great civil right of voting unless we register," Fowler said.

He said pressure groups "are going to tell you who to register and who not to register, but it's time we stiffen our backs."

Fowler said only the State Board of Registration is the only agency that can fire the parish registrar, and added "There's no one who can push your governor around."

James McLemore, state voting machine custodian, told the registrars that, despite press charges to the contrary, his department is "operating on less money than it did last year and two years ago."

Cites Expenses

He cited the recent district attorney race in New Orleans as an example of department expenses. He had to keep employes guarding machines until last night, he said, because of a suit contesting the election.

McLemore said his office will open bids Monday on special trailers to transport voting machines. Presently, he said, the transportation of machines must be paid by towns holding municipal elections.

A panel discussion later in the

3-Stage Rocket Climbs 6,140 Feet Before Misfiring

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Jittery on-lookers hugged ground in a field near here yesterday while a three-stage rocket shot 6,140 feet upward before misfiring and falling to earth.

Travelling 400 m.p.h., it rose and fell in 40 seconds and made members of the Crossett Rocket Club dig in when it began falling from its lofty perch of over a mile in the sky.

Faculty sponsor B. C. Dodson said the force of the first-stage explosion caused the second and third stages to veer off at an "unsafe angle."

He termed the experiment a "partial success," but sounded a warning to other rocket clubs against firing rockets without overhead protection.

It was the second rocket firing for the high school club members here. A two-stage rocket launched February 18th, although traveling faster, went only 2,210 feet in the air.

Mock Satellite

Equipped with a miniature-mock satellite, the seven-foot rocket was built in three sections. It weighed 32 pounds and was designed to fire the second section from the first and the third from the second as it climbed upward.

But the second and third stages failed to fire and shot away from the first section. A pendulum-type switch set off a "safety" explosion to send the two "un-

Senate Again Defeats Efforts To Trim Taxes

2 Attempts Beaten Down By Big Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate balked again Friday at immediate income and excise tax cuts to beef up buying power and battle the recession.

Senators rejected the reductions in two separate packages on the way to passing and sending to the White House a bill to save life insurance companies 124 million dollars on 1957 taxes.

The bill was passed Friday night, 61-19, with most of the debate centered not on it but on general tax reductions and the idea of increasing payments for people out of work.

Members shouted down a $2,200,000,000 slash in federal sales taxes—applying to items varying from fountain pens and whisky to cars and trucks.

Rebuffs Yarborough

And by a 64-19 vote, it rebuffed an attempt by Sen. Yarborough (D-Tex) to hike the individual income tax exemption from $600 to $800 for the rest of this year. Yarborough figured this would have provided $3,750,000,000 in tax relief.

The tax formula for insurance companies in the bill passed is the same that applied to them in 1955 and 1956. Corporate taxes are due Saturday.

Under the formula, life insurance companies are taxed at the regular 52 per cent corporation rate on 12½ per cent of the first million of net investment income, and 15 per cent of such income above a million.

Unless the bill becomes law, the companies would be taxed for 1957 under a 1942 formula which would bring about 415 million dollars to the Treasury as compared with 291 million under the formula in the bill.

Effort Earlier

The rejection of the cut in excise levies came early in the proceedings.

Specific maneuvers to end the tax on passenger and freight traffic and slash in half the 10 per cent tax on cars and trucks were

Four Uninjured As Jet Trainers Collide In Air

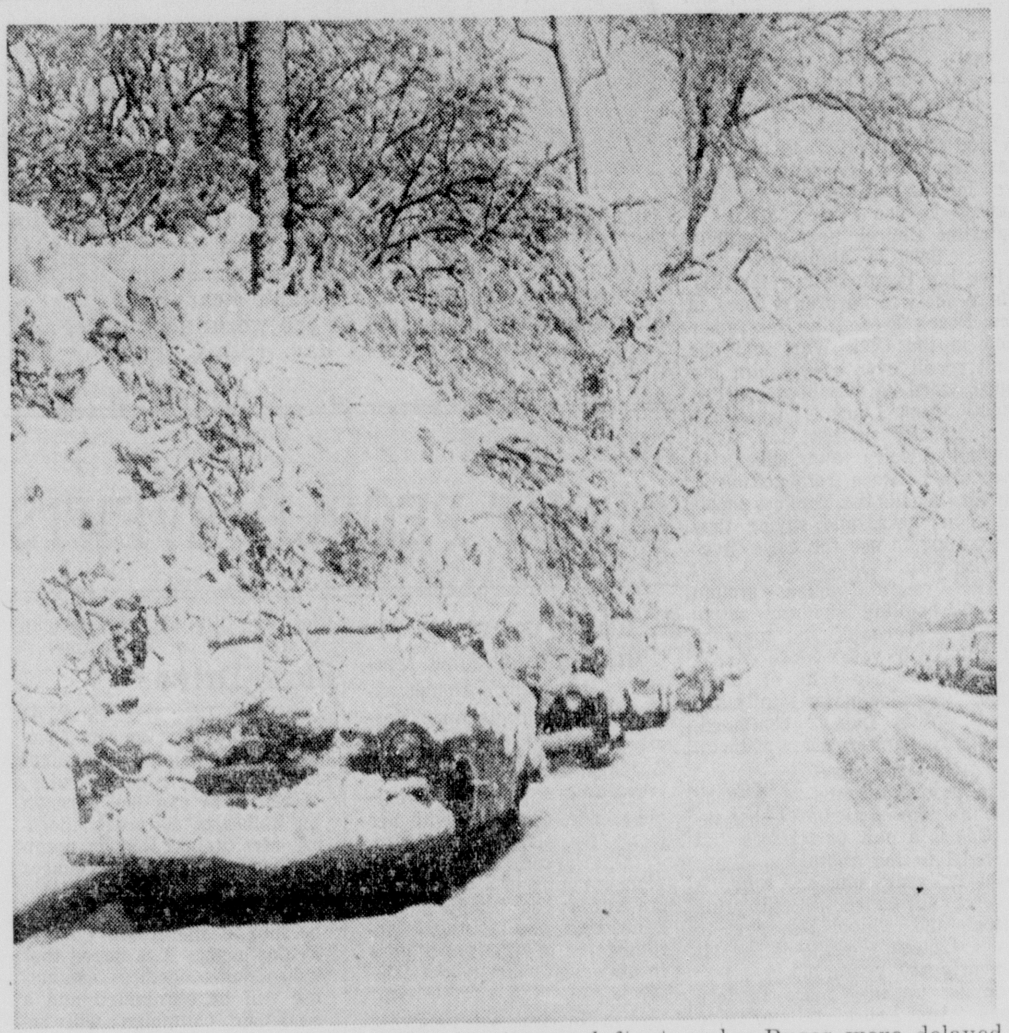
GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Two jet trainers collided about 25 miles west of here Friday but no one was hurt. Two fliers bailed out of one plane and the other aircraft, badly crippled, came back here safely.

A formation of four T-33 trainers from the Greenville Air Force Base was flying over the Dermott, Ark., area when two ships collided. No reason was known for the collision.

First Lts. Thomas J. Mannion, 25, of St. Louis, Mo., and John N. Lawrence, 28, Cleveland, Ohio, parachuted unhurt while their plane crashed into a bayou northwest of Dermott. The men were picked up and returned here by helicopter.

Second Lt. Dennis LaFarlette, 22, Palo Alto, Calif., piloted the other plane back although much of the right wing had been ripped off. Flying safety officials at the base said LaFarlette "did an incredible job of bringing back the crippled aircraft."

Aviation Cadet Kenneth C. Brooks, 24, of Needham, Mass., was the other occupant of the damaged craft.



HEAVY SNOW SLOWS TRAFFIC—An unexpected seven inches of heavy, wet snow snarled traffic in Louisville and central Kentucky. Casual traffic was all but eliminated as most private cars were left at curbs. Buses were delayed up to 1½ hours and the airport was closed for four hours. FAREWELL PUNCH

Heavy Snowfall Paralyzes East

By UNITED PRESS

Winter threw a farewell punch at the nation's East Friday, crippling big city traffic and cutting off power to thousands of homes with wet, heavy snows.

Spring was only six days away, scheduled to bow in on March 20, but a three-day snow storm was spending its strength on the Atlantic coastline.

The storm center surged along the New Jersey shore and pressed inland, with winds up to 70 miles per hour. Parts of Pennsylvania and Connecticut were under 10 inches of snow, 6 to 11 inches of snow were in store for New York state areas, and the forecast was for 10 inches of snow in interior New England.

Eleven Dead

A United Press count since the storm got its start in Oklahoma Wednesday showed a total of 11 weather-caused deaths. Two men and a 10-year-old boy died when their plane, carrying the lad to a hospital, crashed in a Utah storm. Snows were also blamed for a car-train crash in Indiana, which killed four persons, while single weather deaths were counted in Illinois, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas.

The eastern snows were mushy, ideal for slowing New York traffic to a crawl, causing monumental traffic pileups in other areas, and snapping power lines.

New York and its northern suburbs measured 6 to 10 inches of snow by mid - afternoon. The storm cancelled 87 domestic air flights and delayed plane landings one to three hours. Commuter trains fought in vain to deliver office workers to their jobs in time.

Power Fails

The Long Island Lighting Co. reported more than 5,000 consumers without power at various times, while 79 power lines were down in Queens alone. It was the same in Pennsylvania's Bucks

Policeman Says Kohler Workers Feared Attacks

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Sheboygan, Wis., police chief said Friday his attempts to halt the wave of violence in the Kohler Co. strike were crippled because non-strikers feared retaliation.

The officer, Steem W. Heimke, also told the Senate Rackets Committee that both the sheriff and mayor were stumbling blocks to the police force in its peace efforts.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) accused Sheboygan officials of failing to do their duty in trying to pin down blame for the violence and vandalism. He said they should have convened a grand jury.

Obtained One Conviction

Heimke testified he obtained only one conviction out of more than 900 complaints of vandalism in the four-year old United Auto Workers strike against the Wisconsin plumbing firm. He said it involved a non-striker accused of "decorating" a striker's car.

The chief said he believed the

Substitute Gas Measure Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Long (D-La) introduced Friday a bobtailed version of the controversial natural gas bill to exempt more than 5,000 small, independent producers from price regulation by the Federal Power Commission.

He conceded in an address to the Senate that broader legislation, extending the exemption to the big producers, is "as dead as a door nail" for this session of Congress.

Senators Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Clark (D-Pa), who fought bitterly against the bill which was passed in 1956 and vetoed by President Eisenhower because of what he described as the "arrogance" of the lobbyists, joined Long and Senator Yarborough (D-Tex) in sponsoring today's watered-down substitute.

Douglas' Bill

Long said it was "identical" to the substitute offered by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) at the time of the 1956 debate.

Long said he still favored the original bill exempting big and little producers alike, but declared that it has been "dead as a door nail" ever since Jack Porter, GOP national committeeman from Texas, sent out requests for a $100,000 fund-raising dinner for Rep. Joe Martin (R-Mass), the House minority leader, a supporter of that measure.

Long said that in joining him in the measure, Kefauver and Clark

Youth Saved From Cold Bayou Waters

Gasping but unharmed, Mickey Durham, 16-year-old Ouachita High School sophomore was pulled from the chilly waters of Bayou DeSiard after his boat capsized about 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

The youth explained he had just drifted some 125 feet from the shoreline at Edgewater Dam and DeSiard Road, when his 12-foot aluminum craft began to overflow before flipping over. Vincent Marsala Jr., of 2108 Pargoud Blvd., and J. L. Harrison, who rescued the youth, reported the water was about 10 feet deep.

Marsala said he was fishing on the dam about half-way across the bayou and that Harrison was working near DeSiard Road. Both men plunged into the water to rescue the tiring youth.

The Durham youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Durham, 3722 Lionel St. The boy explained he was attempting to start a seven and one-half horsepower outboard motor attached to the boat, when the accident occurred. The boat dipped, then overturned, Durham said.

According to the rescued lad, he could swim "only a little," and was losing strength from bobbing up and down in the water. Artificial respiration was not necessary, rescuers said.

Marsala explained that he and Harrison laid the boy atop the overturned boat and pulled it to shore. The L. B. Faulk Post 13 American Legion rescue truck was dispatched from the Monroe

Woman Observes Century Of Life

By LYNN GARRETT
Staff Writer

She was 7 years old when the Civil War ended, and had long had grown children when the Doughboys marched off to World War I.

Yet she lives in the time of Sputniks and television, frozen foods and high-powered cars, with a calm acceptance.

Today is her 100th birthday.

Rounding out a century of living is Mrs. Laura Dortch of West Monroe.

"Aunt Laura" has never been in a hospital in her life, and says she has never been "really sick" but once. When she was 96 she had a bout with pneumonia. But four years later she is still making her own bed each morning, and reading the headlines in the newspaper.

Reads Newspaper

"I can't see the fine print, and I don't hear well, but I do read the headlines," she says.

Her appetite is good and she is able to eat whatever she pleases, including her daily cup of coffee —a habit of extremely long standing.

At 90 "Aunt Laura" was still doing housework, cooking, and working in her garden. She has since given that up, but walks without help and occassionally takes a short stroll on the walk in front of her house.

She has long been interested in Red Cross work, and until the past few years she remained active in the organization. "Aunt Laura" is also a member of the Palestine Church near Columbia.

Born in Alabama

Her life began March 15, 1858, where she was born on a farm in Low Peach Tree, Ala. Her father died in the Civil War, and she can't recall ever seeing him but twice, when he was home on furlough. "Aunt Laura" remembers watching her mother and sister burying jewelry and silver, to keep the Yankees from getting it. She also recalls the Yankees shooting their cows, and saying they were going to use the cows' liver "to fish with."

"There were Yankees around us, but I didn't see any actual fighting," she said. "I remember the Civil War years more clearly than I remember a lot of things since," she added. Her family had slaves, "Aunt Laura" continued, and she remembers some of them.

Antiques

She has two items of by-gone days that she particularly cherishes. One is a pair of scissors that belonged to her mother and are about 125 years old. The other is a coffee mill which will still grind coffee, and which belonged to "Aunt Laura's" grandmother. It is nearly 200 years old.

Coming up into more modern times, "Aunt Laura" tells of going to a picture show—her first and last—when she was about 30 years old. "I didn't like it," she declares, "so I never went to another."

"Aunt Laura" lived in Alabama until 1888, when she moved to this area. She had married in 1875, at the age of 17. Her husband died in 1896, leaving her with two daughters and three sons. They are Miss Daisy Dortch and Willie Dortch, with whom she lives; Oscie Dortch and Mrs. Angie Coslet, also of West Monroe, and E. R. Dortch of Winnfield.

She also has 6 grandchildren; 9 great-grandchildren, and 12 great-great-grandchildren.

Birthday Dinner

Her daughter, Miss Daisy Dortch says her mother is "very easy to please." "She sleeps well, enjoys eating, and never complains," she said. "We are planning a little birthday dinner for her today," she added.

"Aunt Laura" has received several birthday cards, among them one signed by President Eisenhower, which she proudly displayed.

She has lived through one of the most turbulent centuries ever, and has accepted each change philosophically. Perhaps that is the secret of her long and healthy life.

LUMBERTON, N. C. (UP)—Two Ku Klux Klansmen were sentenced to prison Friday for inciting an Indian riot. A spokesman for the Lumbee Indians said the sentences will restore racial peace to Robeson County.

James W. Cole, 33, of Marion, S.C., grand wizard of the North Carolina Knights of the KKK, was sentenced to 18 to 24 months.

James Garland Martin, 37, Klan titan (sergeant-at-arms), a Reidsville tobacco plant worker, drew a six to 12 months sentence.

Both gave notice of appeal and were released under bond.

Before passing sentence, Judge Clawson L. Williams remarked, "When you're dealing with racial prejudice, you are scraping the very foundations of a man's pride."

The trial stemmed from a KKK rally held near Maxton the night of Jan. 18 which was broken up by several hundred shouting Indians who fired guns into the air. The burning of two crosses by the Klan in front of two Indian houses six days earlier set the stage for the melee.

Simeon Oxendine, an Indian Leader, who participated in the raid, said, "I think the Indians are satisfied with the verdict and judgment."

No Indians were charged in connection with the riot but Judge Williams observed, "Indians are not altogether free from blame."

Cole, a Southern Free Will Baptist minister, said he will continue holding rallies pending the outcome of his appeal.

Negro Swindled Out Of Savings

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Police said Friday a father of 11 children was swindled out of $2,000 in an envelope switching confidence game.

The cash, they said, was all but $200 of the life savings of Demas Martin, 52-year-old Negro carpenter's helper.

Martin told police a Negro woman tricked him, after offering him a job if he would withdraw his money in one bank and put it in another.

While at the second bank, he said, the money was placed in a sealed envelope which she handed him to hold, then disappeared.

DA Says Too Much Attention Paid Gambling

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dist. Atty. Ferd C. Claiborne said Friday "everybody is too concerned with gambling to see the important issues."

The veteran 18th Judicial District official in New Roads was asked whether he had noticed any console slot machines in operation in his three parishes.

They are not the automatic payoff type. But they have been ruled illegal, although Dist. Judge Coleman Lindsey's ruling here is on appeal.

"We all gamble in everything we do," Claiborne said. "One of our congressmen made a brilliant address in Congress last week on states rights in regard to the segregation issue.

"A newspaper put the story way in the back section and gave big headlines to somebody else's slot machines being picked up."

ON INTEGRATION

Millsaps Urged To State Stand

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—President Ellis Wright of the Citizens Council warned Friday that Millsaps College would be branded as favoring racial integration unless the board of trustees makes "a clear statement of policy" on segregation.

The pro-segregation Citizens Council called upon the Methodist College's board of trustees for an answer on "the one all-important question" after college president Ellis Finger refused to answer a previous letter on grounds he was answerable only to the board.

Last week, W. J. Simmons, administrator of the State Assn. of Citizens Councils and secretary of the Jackson group, stated publicly that Millsaps College's Christian Council, a student organization had invited an integrationist to address a student group.

The next day, the inter-denomination group canceled the invitation of Rev. Glenn Smiley, field secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

In addition, Wright objected to the address of Dr. Ernst Borinski, white professor at Tougaloo Southern Christian (Negro) College, operated by Congregational and Disciples of Christ churches, who told the same discussion group that segregation violates Christian premises.

Wright's letter to the Millsaps board said in part:

"Dr. Finger has not stated where he and his faculty stand on the one all-important question.

"A great many irrevelant remarks have been made concerning academic freedom and freedom of speech. No one has the slightest question about these matters.

"But the public contributors to the college, its friends, students and parents of students want to know, and we want to know the answer to the one simple question. Where does the administration stand on segregation?

"It is my judgment that your failure to make a clean statement of policy will be interpreted as supporting racial integration."

Dr. Finger's letter to Wright March 9 said in part:

"College students have a right to hear various points of view. They are more mature in their judgement than they are sometimes credited with. It is far better in a democracy and in a Christian college to allow opportunities for different points of view to be heard than to forbid them to be presented.

"It is better to have freedom of speech abused now and then than not to have it at all."

Hutto Returned To Huntsville

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — A New Orleans businessman who came to Texas to see his infant grandson was returned to state prison at Huntsville, Tex., Friday after almost 33 years of freedom.

William Porter Hutto, 51, a used car lot operator, was arrested at his daughter's home in Lyford, Tex., Wednesday. A minor traffic violation Tuesday led to his arrest.

State Highway Patrolman R. C. Dumas said he stopped Hutto for failing to yield the right of way on the Lyford main street. Dumas said Hutto was not carrying a driver's license and he asked for the criminal record check on a hunch.

Records in Austin revealed that Hutto failed to return to the state prison after a furlough in 1925.

Hutto claimed he had contacted several officials in 1925 and he thought he had received a parole. Arresting officers said Hutto appeared to be surprised when they told him he was under arrest as a parole violator.

Hutto was sent to Huntsville in 1924 on a 5- to 15-year sentence for rape from Dallas County.

Both gave notice of appeal and were released under bond.

Before passing sentence, Judge Clawson L. Williams remarked, "When you're dealing with racial prejudice, you are scraping the very foundations of a man's pride."

The trial stemmed from a KKK rally held near Maxton the night of Jan. 18 which was broken up by several hundred shouting Indians who fired guns into the air. The burning of two crosses by the Klan in front of two Indian houses six days earlier set the stage for the melee.

Simeon Oxendine, an Indian Leader, who participated in the raid, said, "I think the Indians are satisfied with the verdict and judgment."

No Indians were charged in connection with the riot but Judge Williams observed, "Indians are not altogether free from blame."

Cole, a Southern Free Will Baptist minister, said he will continue holding rallies pending the outcome of his appeal.

Negro Swindled Out Of Savings

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Police said Friday a father of 11 children was swindled out of $2,000 in an envelope switching confidence game.

The cash, they said, was all but $200 of the life savings of Demas Martin, 52-year-old Negro carpenter's helper.

Martin told police a Negro woman tricked him, after offering him a job if he would withdraw his money in one bank and put it in another.

While at the second bank, he said, the money was placed in a sealed envelope which she handed him to hold, then disappeared.

DA Says Too Much Attention Paid Gambling

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dist. Atty. Ferd C. Claiborne said Friday "everybody is too concerned with gambling to see the important issues."

The veteran 18th Judicial District official in New Roads was asked whether he had noticed any console slot machines in operation in his three parishes.

They are not the automatic payoff type. But they have been ruled illegal, although Dist. Judge Coleman Lindsey's ruling here is on appeal.

"We all gamble in everything we do," Claiborne said. "One of our congressmen made a brilliant address in Congress last week on states rights in regard to the segregation issue.

"A newspaper put the story way in the back section and gave big headlines to somebody else's slot machines being picked up."

COLUMBUS, Miss. (AP) — The president of Mississippi State College for Women said Friday architects are putting the finishing touches on plans for 24 faculty apartments.

Plans call for three buildings, one containing 16 apartments and two with four apartments each. The loan will be repaid from rental over the next 40 years.

ON INTEGRATION

Millsaps Urged To State Stand

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—President Ellis Wright of the Citizens Council warned Friday that Millsaps College would be branded as favoring racial integration unless the board of trustees makes "a clear statement of policy" on segregation.

The pro-segregation Citizens Council called upon the Methodist College's board of trustees for an answer on "the one all-important question" after college president Ellis Finger refused to answer a previous letter on grounds he was answerable only to the board.

Last week, W. J. Simmons, administrator of the State Assn. of Citizens Councils and secretary of the Jackson group, stated publicly that Millsaps College's Christian Council, a student organization had invited an integrationist to address a student group.

The next day, the inter-denomination group canceled the invitation of Rev. Glenn Smiley, field secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

In addition, Wright objected to the address of Dr. Ernst Borinski, white professor at Tougaloo Southern Christian (Negro) College, operated by Congregational and Disciples of Christ churches, who told the same discussion group that segregation violates Christian premises.

Wright's letter to the Millsaps board said in part:

"Dr. Finger has not stated where he and his faculty stand on the one all-important question.

"A great many irrevelant remarks have been made concerning academic freedom and freedom of speech. No one has the slightest question about these matters.

"But the public contributors to the college, its friends, students and parents of students want to know, and we want to know the answer to the one simple question. Where does the administration stand on segregation?

"It is my judgment that your failure to make a clean statement of policy will be interpreted as supporting racial integration."

Dr. Finger's letter to Wright March 9 said in part:

"College students have a right to hear various points of view. They are more mature in their judgement than they are sometimes credited with. It is far better in a democracy and in a Christian college to allow opportunities for different points of view to be heard than to forbid them to be presented.

"It is better to have freedom of speech abused now and then than not to have it at all."

Hutto Returned To Huntsville

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — A New Orleans businessman who came to Texas to see his infant grandson was returned to state prison at Huntsville, Tex., Friday after almost 33 years of freedom.

William Porter Hutto, 51, a used car lot operator, was arrested at his daughter's home in Lyford, Tex., Wednesday. A minor traffic violation Tuesday led to his arrest.

State Highway Patrolman R. C. Dumas said he stopped Hutto for failing to yield the right of way on the Lyford main street. Dumas said Hutto was not carrying a driver's license and he asked for the criminal record check on a hunch.

Records in Austin revealed that Hutto failed to return to the state prison after a furlough in 1925.

Hutto claimed he had contacted several officials in 1925 and he thought he had received a parole. Arresting officers said Hutto appeared to be surprised when they told him he was under arrest as a parole violator.

Hutto was sent to Huntsville in 1924 on a 5- to 15-year sentence for rape from Dallas County.

LAMB OUTLOOK GOOD

Cattle Breeder Dies At Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP)—R. D. Wilmans, Newport, Ark., businessman and operator of one of the largest Angus cattle breeding enterprises in this area, died at a Memphis hospital Friday.

Wilmans, 81, was admitted to the hospital several days ago after suffering what was believed to be an attack of flu.

Wilmans headed R. D. Wilmans & Sons, Inc., a firm that operated numerous farms in Jackson County, Ark., as well as the cattle breeding operation. Its spring cattle sales attracted Angus buyers from all sections of the country.

Survivors include his widow, two sons and five daughters.

Life expectancy for the average American worker is now 69 years. This is almost 4 years better than in 1948.

Hope Joking His Way To Moscow

NEW YORK (UP)—Bob Hope wisecracked his way toward Moscow Friday to make two filmed television shows featuring Russian entertainers.

The comedian left New York by air Thursday. He will switch to a Soviet airliner at Copenhagen and is due in the Russian capital today.

Hope said he expected no language difficulties "unless they ask me something." He plans a six-day visit but quipped that he wasn't sure how long the Russians would let him stay. Pointing to the visa on his passport he said, "I don't know Russian, but I think at the bottom of this thing it says 'Yank, go home.'"

Hope said he jokingly considers himself a "cultural exchange." Some of the "culture" he will display there includes a movie, "Paris Holiday," in which Anita Ekberg is his co-star.

He plans to come home with enough film for two television shows that will be aired in April. (By NBC.)

The temperature in Djibouti, French Somaliland, on the north coast of Africa varies between 77 and 113 degrees.

A USEFUL ART

JACKSON, Miss. (UP) — Judge Leon Hendricks gave Sam Mason a two-year sentence for burglary but suspended it on condition that the defendant "get some practice in the art of walking." Mason had been accused of committing the theft to get money for cab fare.

PHYSICIAN CLAIMS

Non-Worriers Best Presidents

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Non-worriers make the best presidents in the opinion of Dr. Ross T. McIntyre, former White House physician for the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

McIntyre, here to attend the International Congress of Surgeons, said Thursday he thought the best way for a chief executive to stay healthy was to say to himself:

"I've done my best—delegated my authority. Now it's out of my hands."

Both Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman had great power of decision in the role of chief executive, McIntyre said in evaluation of six presidents he has known.

"President Roosevelt was a non-worrier who was a master politician," the doctor said. "He had great power of decision—right or wrong."

McIntyre, a former vice admiral, said Truman could make decisions and "didn't burn the candle at both ends."

He said he felt President Eisenhower's golf relaxation "makes him a better president."

Summarizing the approach of past president to office he said:

—President Calvin Coolidge "didn't worry, but he didn't do anything."

—President Herbert Hoover "inherited a bad situation from Coolidge, knew it, and never stopped worrying about it. He took things too seriously but is a great statesman today."

—President Warren Harding "delegated too much responsibility."

WEST MONROYAN

Woman Observes Century Of Life

By LYNN GARRETT
Staff Writer

She was 7 years old when the Civil War ended, and had long had grown children when the Doughboys marched off to World War I.

Yet she lives in the time of Sputniks and television, frozen foods and highpowered cars, with a calm acceptance.

Today is her 100th birthday. Rounding out a century of living is Mrs. Laura Dortch of West Monroe.

"Aunt Laura" has never been in a hospital in her life, and says she has never been "really sick" but once. When she was 96 she had a bout with pneumonia. But four years later she is still making her own bed each morning, and reading the headlines in the newspaper.

Reads Newspaper

"I can't see the fine print, and I don't hear well, but I do read the headlines," she says.

Her appetite is good and she is able to eat whatever she pleases, including her daily cup of coffee —a habit of extremely long standing.

At 90, "Aunt Laura" was still doing housework, cooking, and working in her garden. She has since given that up, but walks without help and occassionally takes a short stroll on the walk in front of her house.

She has long been interested in Red Cross work, and until the past few years she remained active in the organization. "Aunt Laura" is also a member of the Palestine Church near Columbia.

Born in Alabama

Her life began March 15, 1858, where she was born on a farm in Low Peach Tree, Ala. Her father died in the Civil War, and she can't recall ever seeing him but twice, when he was home on furlough. "Aunt Laura" remembers watching her mother and sister burying jewelry and silver, to keep the Yankees from getting it. She also recalls the Yankees shooting their cows, and saying they were going to use the cows' liver "to fish with."

"There were Yankees around us, but I didn't see any actual fighting," she said. "I remember the Civil War years more clearly than I remember a lot of things since," she added. Her family had slaves, "Aunt Laura" continued, and she remembers some of them.

Antiques

She has two items of by-gone days that she particularly cherishes. One is a pair of scissors that belonged to her mother and are about 125 years old. The other is a coffee mill which will still grind coffee, and which belonged to "Aunt Laura's" grandmother. It is nearly 200 years old.

Moving up into more modern times, "Aunt Laura" tells of going to a picture show—her first and last—when she was about 80 years old. "I didn't like it," she declares, "so I never went to another."

"Aunt Laura" lived in Alabama until 1888, when she moved to this area. She had married in 1875, at the age of 17. Her husband died in 1899, leaving her with two daughters and three sons. They are Miss Daisy Dortch and Willie Dortch, with whom she lives; Oscie Dortch and Mrs. Angie Coslet, also of West Monroe, and E. R. Dortch of Winnfield.

She also has 6 grandchildren; 9 great - grandchildren, and 12 great - great - grandchildren.

Birthday Dinner

Her daughter, Miss Daisy Dortch says her mother is "very easy to please." "She sleeps well, enjoys eating, and never complains," she said. "We are planning a little birthday dinner for her today," she added.

"Aunt Laura" has received several birthday cards, among them one signed by President Eisenhower, which she proudly displayed.

She has lived through one of the most turbulent centuries ever, and has accepted each change philosophically. Perhaps that is the secret of her long and healthy life.

Klansmen Get Prison Terms In Riot Case

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—Two Ku Klux Klansmen were sentenced to prison Friday for inciting an Indian riot. A spokesman for the Lumbee Indians said the sentences will restore racial peace to Robeson County.

James W. Cole, 33, of Marion, S.C., grand wizard of the North Carolina Knights of the KKK, was sentenced to 18 to 24 months.

James Garland Martin, 37, Klan titan (sergeant-at-arms), a Reidsville tobacco plant worker, drew a six to 12 months sentence.

Both gave notice of appeal and were released under bond.

Before passing sentence, Judge Clawson L. Williams remarked, "When you're dealing with racial prejudice, you are scraping the very foundations of a man's pride."

The trial stemmed from a KKK rally held near Maxton the night of Jan. 18 which was broken up by several hundred shouting Indians who fired guns into the air. The burning of two crosses by the Klan in front of two Indian houses six days earlier set the stage for the melee.

Simeon Oxendine, an Indian Leader, who participated in the raid, said, "I think the Indians are satisfied with the verdict and judgment."

No Indians were charged in connection with the riot but Judge Williams observed, "Indians are not altogether free from blame."

Cole, a Southern Free Will Baptist minister, said he will continue holding rallies pending the outcome of his appeal.

Negro Swindled Out Of Savings

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Police said Friday a father of 11 children was swindled out of $2,000 in an envelope switching confidence game.

The cash, they said, was all but $200 of the life savings of Demas Martin, 52-year-old Negro carpenter's helper.

Martin told police a Negro woman tricked him, after offering him a job if he would withdraw his money in one bank and put it in another.

While at the second bank, he said, the money was placed in a sealed envelope which she handed him to hold, then disappeared.

DA Says Too Much Attention Paid Gambling

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dist. Atty. Ferd C. Claiborne said Friday "everybody is too concerned with gambling to see the important issues."

The veteran 18th Judicial District official in New Roads was asked whether he had noticed any console slot machines in operation in his three parishes.

They are not the automatic pay-off type. But they have been ruled illegal, although Dist. Judge Coleman Lindsey's ruling here is on appeal.

"We all gamble in everything we do," Claiborne said. "One of our congressmen made a brilliant address in Congress last week on states rights in regard to the segregation issue.

"A newspaper put the story way in the back section and gave big headlines to somebody else's slot machines being picked up."

German Measles Hits University

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Seventy cases of German measles have been treated at the Louisiana State University infirmary since Feb. 1.

Dr. Eula Palmer, infirmary director, said it is not an epidemic. Most cases have been mild.

Faculty Housing Near Completion In Mississippi

COLUMBUS, Miss. (AP) — The president of Mississippi State College for Women said Friday architects are putting the finishing touches on plans for 24 faculty apartments.

Dr. Charles P. Hogarth said the project go-ahead came when he was notified by Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy (D-Miss) that the Community Facilities Administration in Washington had approved MSCW's request for a $240,000 loan.

Plans call for three buildings, one containing 16 apartments and two with four apartments each. The loan will be repaid from rental over the next 40 years.

ON INTEGRATION

Millsaps Urged To State Stand

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—President Ellis Wright of the Citizens Council warned Friday that Millsaps College would be branded as favoring racial integration unless the board of trustees makes "a clear statement of policy" on segregation.

The pro-segregation Citizens Council called upon the Methodist College's board of trustees for an answer on "the one all-important question" after college president Ellis Finger refused to answer a previous letter on grounds he was answerable only to the board.

Last week, W. J. Simmons, administrator of the State Assn. of Citizens Councils and secretary of the Jackson group, stated publicly that Millsaps College's Christian Council, a student organization had invited an integrationist to address a student group.

The next day, the inter-denomination group canceled the invitation of Rev. Glenn Smiley, field secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

In addition, Wright objected to the address of Dr. Ernst Borinski, white professor at Tougaloo Southern Christian (Negro) College, operated by Congregational and Disciples of Christ churches, who told the same discussion group that segregation violates Christian premises.

Wright's letter to the Millsaps board said in part:

"Dr. Finger has not stated where he and his faculty stand on the one all-important question.

"A great many irrevelant remarks have been made concerning academic freedom and freedom of speech. No one has the slightest question about these matters.

"But the public contributors to the college, its friends, students and parents of students want to know, and we want to know the answer to the one simple question. Where does the administration stand on segregation?

"It is my judgment that your failure to make a clean statement of policy will be interpreted as supporting racial integration."

Dr. Finger's letter to Wright March 9 said in part:

"College students have a right to hear various points of view. They are more mature in their judgement than they are sometimes credited with. It is far better in a democracy and in a Christian college to allow opportunities for different points of view to be heard than to forbid them to be presented.

"It is better to have freedom of speech abused now and then than not to have it at all."

Hutto Returned To Huntsville

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — A New Orleans businessman who came to Texas to see his infant grandson was returned to state prison at Huntsville, Tex., Friday after almost 33 years of freedom.

William Porter Hutto, 51, a used car lot operator, was arrested at his daughter's home in Lyford, Tex., Wednesday. A minor traffic violation Tuesday led to his arrest.

State Highway Patrolman R. C. Dumas said he stopped Hutto for failing to yield the right of way on the Lyford main street. Dumas said Hutto was not carrying a driver's license and he asked for the criminal record check on a hunch.

Records in Austin revealed that Hutto failed to return to the state prison after a furlough in 1925.

Hutto claimed he had contacted several officials in 1925 and he thought he had received a parole. Arresting officers said Hutto appeared to be surprised when they told him he was under arrest as a parole violator.

Hutto was sent to Huntsville in 1924 on a 5- to 15-year sentence for rape from Dallas County.

LAMB OUTLOOK GOOD

Cattle Breeder Dies At Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP)—R. D. Wilmans, Newport, Ark., businessman and operator of one of the largest Angus cattle breeding enterprises in this area, died at a Memphis hospital Friday.

Wilmans, 81, was admitted to the hospital several days ago after suffering what was believed to be an attack of flu.

Wilmans headed R. D. Wilmans & Sons, Inc., a firm that operated numerous farms in Jackson County, Ark., as well as the cattle breeding operation. Its spring cattle sales attracted Angus buyers from all sections of the country.

Survivors include his widow, two sons and five daughters.

Life expectancy for the average American worker is now 69 years. This is almost 4 years better than in 1948.

WEST MONROYAN

Woman Observes Century Of Life

By LYNN GARRETT
Staff Writer

She was 7 years old when the Civil War ended, and had long had grown children when the Doughboys marched off to World War I.

Yet she lives in the time of Sputniks and television, frozen foods and highpowered cars, with a calm acceptance.

Today is her 100th birthday.

Rounding out a century of living is Mrs. Laura Dortch of West Monroe.

"Aunt Laura" has never been in a hospital in her life, and says she has never been "really sick" but once. When she was 96 she had a bout with pneumonia. But four years later she is still making her own bed each morning, and reading the headlines in the newspaper.

Reads Newspaper

"I can't see the fine print, and I don't hear well, but I do read the headlines," she says.

Her appetite is good and she is able to eat whatever she pleases, including her daily cup of coffee—a habit of extremely long standing.

At 90, "Aunt Laura" was still doing housework, cooking, and working in her garden. She has since given that up, but walks without help and occassionally takes a short stroll on the walk in front of her house.

She has long been interested in Red Cross work, and until the past few years she remained active in the organization. "Aunt Laura" is also a member of the Palestine Church near Columbia.

Born in Alabama

Her life began March 15, 1858, where she was born on a farm in Low Peach Tree, Ala. Her father died in the Civil War, and she can't recall ever seeing him but twice, when he was home on furlough. "Aunt Laura" remembers watching her mother and sister burying jewelry and silver, to keep the Yankees from getting it. She also recalls the Yankees shooting their cows, and saying they were going to use the cows' liver "to fish with."

"There were Yankees around us, but I didn't see any actual fighting," she said. "I remember the Civil War years more clearly than I remember a lot of things since," she added. Her family had slaves, "Aunt Laura" continued, and she remembers some of them.

Antiques

She has two items of by-gone days that she particularly cherishes. One is a pair of scissors that belonged to her mother and are about 125 years old. The other is a coffee mill which will still grind coffee, and which belonged to "Aunt Laura's" grandmother. It is nearly 200 years old.

Moving up into more modern times, "Aunt Laura" tells of going to a picture show—her first and last—when she was about 80 years old. "I didn't like it," she declares, "so I never went to another."

"Aunt Laura" lived in Alabama until 1888, when she moved to this area. She had married in 1875, at the age of 17. Her husband died in 1899, leaving her with two daughters and three sons. They are Miss Daisy Dortch and Willie Dortch, with whom she lives; Oscie Dortch and Mrs. Angie Coslet, also of West Monroe, and E. R. Dortch of Winnfield.

She also has 6 grandchildren; 9 great - grandchildren, and 12 great - great - grandchildren.

Birthday Dinner

Her daughter, Miss Daisy Dortch says her mother is "very easy to please." "She sleeps well, enjoys eating, and never complains," she said. "We are planning a little birthday dinner for her today," she added.

"Aunt Laura" has received several birthday cards, among them one signed by President Eisenhower which she proudly displayed.

She has lived through one of the most turbulent centuries ever, and has accepted each change philosophically. Perhaps that is the secret of her long and healthy life.

Klansmen Get Prison Terms In Riot Case

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP)—Two Ku Klux Klansmen were sentenced to prison Friday for inciting an Indian riot. A spokesman for the Lumbee Indians said the sentences will restore racial peace to Robeson County.

James W. Cole, 33, of Marion, S.C., grand wizard of the North Carolina Knights of the KKK, was sentenced to 18 to 24 months.

James Garland Martin, 37, Klan titan (sergeant-at-arms), a Reidsville tobacco plant worker, drew a six to 12 months sentence.

Both gave notice of appeal and were released under bond.

Before passing sentence, Judge Clawson L. Williams remarked, "When you're dealing with racial prejudice, you are scraping the very foundations of a man's pride."

The trial stemmed from a KKK rally held near Maxton the night of Jan. 18 which was broken up by several hundred shouting Indians who fired guns into the air. The burning of two crosses by the Klan in front of two Indian houses six days earlier set the stage for the melee.

Simeon Oxendine, an Indian Leader, who participated in the raid, said, "I think the Indians are satisfied with the verdict and judgment."

No Indians were charged in connection with the riot but Judge Williams observed, "Indians are not altogether free from blame."

Cole, a Southern Free Will Baptist minister, said he will continue holding rallies pending the outcome of his appeal.

Negro Swindled Out Of Savings

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Police said Friday a father of 11 children was swindled out of $2,000 in an envelope switching confidence game.

The cash, they said, was all but $200 of the life savings of Demas Martin, 52-year-old Negro carpenter's helper.

Martin told police a Negro woman tricked him, after offering him a job if he would withdraw his money in one bank and put it in another.

While at the second bank, he said, the money was placed in a sealed envelope which she handed him to hold, then disappeared.

PHYSICIAN CLAIMS

Non-Worriers Best Presidents

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Non-worriers make the best presidents in the opinion of Dr. Ross T. McIntyre, former White House physician for the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

McIntyre, here to attend the International Congress of Surgeons, said Thursday he thought the best way for a chief executive to stay healthy was to say to himself:

"I've done my best—delegated my authority. Now it's out of my hands."

Both Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman had great power of decision in the role of chief executive, McIntyre said in evaluation of six presidents he has known.

"President Roosevelt was a non-worrier who was a master politician," the doctor said. "He had great power of decision—right or wrong."

McIntyre, a former vice admiral, said Truman could make decisions and "didn't burn the candle at both ends."

He said he felt President Eisenhower's golf relaxation "makes him a better president."

Summarizing the approach of past president to office he said:

—President Calvin Coolidge "didn't worry, but he didn't do anything."

—President Herbert Hoover "inherited a bad situation from Coolidge, knew it, and never stopped worrying about it. He took things too seriously but is a great statesman today."

—President Warren Harding "delegated too much responsibility."

SPACE AGE

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Hollywood has caught up with the space age. Gene Fowler Jr., who last directed "I Was a Teen-Age Werewolf," will produce and direct "I Married a Monster from Outer Space."

Hope Joking His Way To Moscow

NEW YORK (UP)—Bob Hope wisecracked his way toward Moscow Friday to make two filmed television shows featuring Russian entertainers.

The comedian left New York by air Thursday. He will switch to a Soviet airliner at Copenhagen and is due in the Russian capital today.

Hope said he expected no language difficulties "unless they ask me something." He plans a six-day visit but quipped that he wasn't sure how long the Russians would let him stay. Pointing to the visa on his passport he said, "I don't know Russian, but I think at the bottom of this thing it says 'Yank, go home.'"

Hope said he jokingly considers himself a "cultural exchange." Some of the "culture" he will display there includes a movie, "Paris Holiday," in which Anita Ekberg is his co-star.

He plans to come home with enough film for two television shows that will be aired in April. (By NBC.)

The temperature in Djibouti, French Somaliland, on the north coast of Africa varies between 77 and 113 degrees.

ANOTHER FOREIGN PROBLEM SOLVED—The State Department has found a partial solution to its parking problem by setting up this "small cars only" section. Several parkers clean away wet snow from their junior size autos. Officials said the new system permits parking of 25 cars, mostly of foreign manufacture, in the space formerly allotted to 18 standard size cars. (AP Wirephoto.)

Hope Joking His Way To Moscow

NEW YORK (UP)—Bob Hope wisecracked his way toward Moscow Friday to make two filmed television shows featuring Russian entertainers.

The comedian left New York by air Thursday. He will switch to a Soviet airliner at Copenhagen and is due in the Russian capital today.

Hope said he expected no language difficulties "unless they ask me something." He plans a six-day visit but quipped that he wasn't sure how long the Russians would let him stay. Pointing to the visa on his passport he said, "I don't know Russian, but I think at the bottom of this thing it says 'Yank, go home.'"

Hope said he jokingly considers himself a "cultural exchange." Some of the "culture" he will display there includes a movie, "Paris Holiday," in which Anita Ekberg is his co-star.

He plans to come home with enough film for two television shows that will be aired in April. (By NBC.)

PHYSICIAN CLAIMS

Non-Worriers Best Presidents

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Non-worriers make the best presidents in the opinion of Dr. Ross T. McIntyre, former White House physician for the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

McIntyre, here to attend the International Congress of Surgeons, said Thursday he thought the best way for a chief executive to stay healthy was to say to himself:

"I've done my best—delegated my authority. Now it's out of my hands."

Both Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman had great power of decision in the role of chief executive, McIntyre said in evaluation of six presidents he has known.

"President Roosevelt was a non-worrier who was a master politician," the doctor said. "He had great power of decision—right or wrong."

McIntyre, a former vice admiral, said Truman could make decisions and "didn't burn the candle at both ends."

He said he felt President Eisenhower's golf relaxation "makes him a better president."

Summarizing the approach of past president to office he said:

—President Calvin Coolidge "didn't worry, but he didn't do anything."

—President Herbert Hoover "inherited a bad situation from Coolidge, knew it, and never stopped worrying about it. He took things too seriously but is a great statesman today."

—President Warren Harding "delegated too much responsibility."

Action Needed Now

Vice-President Nixon appears to be taking a more realistic attitude toward the necessity for decisive action to bring an end to the current recession than do many leaders of both the Republican and the Democratic party. The vice-president thinks the income tax rate should be cut for the purpose of throwing more money into the economy and to stimulate business incentive. In this he is undoubtedly right.

It has been demonstrated that the government can curb homebuilding and other construction and can slow down business activity and expansion by the simple expedient of causing a tight money situation. It has not been shown that it can immediately reverse the trend by loosening up on credit.

Once the downward spiral has been started people may not want to run the risk of building expensive homes and business may not want to take the chances that it would have willingly incurred a year or two ago.

This means that it takes more power to stop economy from going down hill than it does from going up. Going downhill, it increases its momentum and that must be offset by action over and beyond a mere return to an easy money policy.

Vice-President Nixon apparently realizes this fact. He has called for a reduction in income taxes, rather than a mere boost in government expenditures.

Showing his interest in getting renewed construction under way, the vice-president voted in the senate to break a 47-47 tie in favor of an increase of one-fourth of one per cent in the interest rate charged to veterans who buy homes.

There may be a good many who think an increase in the rate charged to veterans is unfair and who are opposed to such legislation, yet the change might benefit the veterans. President Eisenhowr has said the present interest rate is so low that there is no private market for mortgages at the lower figure. This would mean that money could not be obtained for financing the construction of homes for veterans.

Since it is virtually certain that the American economy will get back on its feet within the next few months or will drop to lower levels, it behooves the government of this country, including the congress, to see that the necessary action is taken now to halt the downward trend.

Probably a majority of the people in this country, and especially the government officials, would rather not receive any suggestions from Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO, but many of the people would like to see one of his suggestions put into effect and it might do a lot of good. Reuther suggested that the government eliminate withholding taxes for a period of three months.

That would give both the workers and the employers a lot of extra money. Employes on an average would receive from $8 to $20 a week more pay and an equal amount would be received by the employers for every employe on their payrolls. This would let the businesses show a nice jump in profits and would bring a big spending spree on the part of the public. Combined, these things might be enough to start the economy spiral back upward.

In the matter of economy, the United States is practically carrying the world on its shoulders. Western Europe believes it can avoid a recession if the United States' vast economy gets back into high gear this spring. If this hope is borne out, the economics of western Europe will have gotten through a tricky financial winter with almost no damage. Economists agree that an improvement in the American situation must come soon. Otherwise western Europe will feel the full blast of depressing business influences.

All of these things show how important it is for the government to act now. A month or two later it might be twice as hard to stop the downward trend.

Sigler Still Going

Maurice Sigler, warden at the Louisiana state penitentiary at Angola, seems to be mowing down the opposition at a regular pace. First the man immediately beneath him in authority and then the man immediately above bowed out of their state positions.

The fact that Mr. Sigler has remained is a tribute to the excellent record he has made as a prison administrator. The prison setup was one thing that Governor Earl K. Long did not change when he took over from Governor Robert F. Kennon as head of the state administration. Governor Long said he was told that the prison was one thing that was operating more satisfactorily than it had at any time in its previous history and for that reason he did not disturb the personnel, although ordinarily he would have filled the positions with men who had supported him.

Both Edward Grant, director of institutions, and Warden Sigler were kept in their positions along with other personnel at the prison.

Now Mr. Grant has resigned, following a dispute with Mr. Sigler over the same issue that caused L. E. Knox, assistant to Mr. Sigler to resign recently. Mr. Knox resigned, presumably at the request of the board of institutions, because of a complaint made by Mr. Knox against Mr. Sigler. The board felt that because of the complaint the two men could not work together in harmony.

Mr. Knox had complained of the use by Mr. Sigler of a former New Orleans strip-teaser as his private secretary. The ex-strip-teaser was a prisoner in the institution.

Although Mr. Knox was forced out by the dispute, Mr. Grant, the institutions director, agreed that the use by Mr. Sigler of the strip-teaser as his private secretary was unwise, if not indiscreet. Mr. Sigler also was said to have agreed that this was an unwise practice and to have stated he would remove the woman from his office. It was later reported that he had not done so.

It was Mr. Grant's insistence that the woman be removed and Mr. Sigler's refusal to take such action that brought their disagreement to a showdown. Mr. Sigler again was the winner.

In a nutshell, it appears to have been a case of two good state employes, one of them in a high position, having been forced out because of a dispute over a woman and a dispute in which the two ousted men were undoubtedly and admittedly right.

It was a case of "cherchez la femme," except that in this case the woman was easy to find—too easy, in fact.

Cut In Income Taxes Would Mean Big Spur To Business

Let's say congress decides a tax cut is imperative to restimulate business now and it agrees to do this by voting a "quickie" tax relief bill for individuals.

Under one plan, it might vote a cut of one-half in the withholding tax on your pay — reduce the withholding rate from 18 per cent to nine per cent — for a six-month period.

Over the six months, this would cut the taxes of a single worker earning $100 a week by $204; it would cut the taxes of a married couple in the $150 a week bracket by $290; it would slash the taxes of a family of four in the $200 a week class by $346.

The plan — which would provide for adjustments for taxpayers not subject to withholding—would increase the purchasing power of wage-earners by about $1.2 billion a month, thus would be a great spur to spending and to business in general.

Or let's say congress decides a tax cut is imperative, but it agrees to achieve this by cutting present tax law rates in all income brackets by 2 percentage points.

Over a year, this would reduce the taxes of a married couple in the $5,000 bracket by $76. It would cut the taxes of that same couple in the $25,000 bracket by $476.

This seemingly minor percentage cut of 2 per cent in rates would slash taxes by more than 3.1 billion.

But less than a quarter of the tax decrease would go to the under $5,000 taxpayer. The biggest benefit would be to individuals in the middle and upper-middle brackets.

A tax reduction is becoming increasingly likely as the grim unemployment-production-income-profits statistics hit the front pages. For as this third week of March begins, there still are no convincing signs that the recession is giving way to recovery.

The crucial period for decision is, as Vice-President Nixon now has said publicly, 'the next few weeks." If the economic picture isn't brightening perceptibly very soon, the administration has pledged that a tax cut will be "the next big step" and the Democratic leadership in congress well may beat the GOP on the move.

What's more, even the most devoted budget-balancers in congress are no longer insisting that a tax cut must be shelved because it would plunge the federal budget into an ocean of red ink.

With the jobless total in mid-February officially set at almost 5.2 million and additional millions working only three or four days a week, the American public is in no mood right now to place a balanced budget ahead of a strong business stimulant.

So, if business is still sliding in April, the question will not be whether a tax cut. The question will be only what kind of tax cut. And the "what kind" will determine the impact of the reduction on your own family and on business.

To suggest the variety of tax-cutting proposals already being pushed, the staff of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation of congress prepared a couple of weeks ago, an outline of 20 different tax-reducing schemes actually presented to congress. Above, I've given you two of them. Here's another:

Plan: Increase the present $600 per capita exemption to $700.

This would relieve 4,200,000 taxpayers from all liability under the income tax law.

It would reduce taxes by about 2.8 billion — giving all except 13 per cent of the decrease to taxpayers in the brackets up to $5,000 and between $5,000 and $10,000.

As an illustration, the raise in exemption would cut the tax of a married couple with two children, earning $4,000, by 25 per cent or $80. It would cut the tax of that couple in the $25,000 bracket by only 2½ per cent or $152.

There are other highly favored tax-reduction proposals which undoubtedly will be pushed in congress this session. In the next two columns, I'll give you key details on plans of vital interest to you.

Congress To Look Into Troop Plane Shortage

Congress is getting ready to make a sweeping investigation to find out why the United States does not have enough airplanes to fly troops overseas in event of war. Among other things investigators will want to learn why the Defense Department has failed to act to correct this serious shortcoming.

Recent testimony made before the House appropriations committee on overall defense department policy shows there is a marked difference of opinion in the Pentagon on the military airlift question.

The position taken by the Joint Chiefs of Staff is that the combination of active and reserve tactical airlift is considered to be adequate for the Army's need at this time. This position, taken over a year ago, continues to be substantially the same according to Air Force secretary James H. Douglas.

Committee members and others, however, do not share the view of the joint chiefs — the President's top military advisers — and in fact have urged immediate action to remedy the situation.

In its special report on International Security the Rockefeller Brothers Fund said the Nation's military airlift was inadequate despite the Joint Chiefs' statement to the contrary.

During the Senate preparedness committee's space and missile inquiry in January a leading aircraft company executive told the group the United States was rapidly falling behind the Soviet Union's air logistics system, especially in airlift.

Donald Douglas, Jr., president of Douglas aircraft, said that the U. S. has not built a single transport plane with the ton-knot capacity of the Russian's latest transports.

He pointed out that the Soviet air force has cargo planes in operation with twice the payload capacity of the largest similar U. S. aircraft in operation today.

The Douglas company in 1955 had an air force contract to build a huge cargo and troop carrier aircraft, the C-132, but the work was halted last year because the project did not have sufficient priority to continue under a reduced spending budget.

According to company estimate the C-132 would have been capable of hauling up to 200,000 pounds under wartime conditions over a distance of 3,500 miles The plane, which only reached the mock-up stage at the company's Tulsa, Oklahoma plant, cost the Air Force about $70 million before it was canceled.

Some members of the appropriations committee have expressed doubts over the joint chiefs stand that mass troop movements could be carried on by air in the event of war.

Rep. Daniel Flood, D., Pa., a member of the Defense Department appropriations subcommittee, assailed witnesses' contentions that the Air Force is willing and ready to transport Army divisions by air. Through questioning he brought out the facts that there was no money in last year's budget for the purchase of cargo or jet transports because of budgetary limitations.

Flood argued that the Pentagon is relying on "third class" World War II vintage air and sea transports to move troops in the event of another war. He expressed fear of a disaster unless the situation improves.

While there has been no date set for a hearing on the airlift situation, the matter has been discussed at length in at least three separate hearings. Besides the House appropriations preliminary study of defense policy and the Senate's missile inquiry, the House government operations committee probed the airlift situation briefly last month during an investigation of Military Air Transport Service.

Testimony on the airlift before the House group is expected to be made public later this month. It is expected to show the increasing dependence by the Air Force on commercial-type aircraft for troop movements rather than specifically-designed troop carrier planes.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

People Fight Over 10 Commandments

It is curious what men will fight over. In the New York State Legislature a bill has been introduced authorizing the posting of the Ten Commandments in each school. There is nothing subversive in the Ten Commandments. There is nothing in them to impair the morals of the young. Actually the Ten Commandments in one form or another is the foundation of most religions and of most ethical systems. It is a statement in simple form of the basic moral law of the human race.

Why should men quarrel over that? Are our children so perfect, are their lives so righteous that it is unnecessary for them to have further instruction? Well, the atheists raise the old argument about church and state. It is permissible to teach the young rock-n-roll but not the word of God in any translation. As the Ten Commandments come down to us, in our civilization, they are translated from the Hebrew in Deuteronomy 5. Anything that is translated from one language to another, or by one author or another, may have some slight variations. I have read the Hebrew, Protestant and Catholic versions and they all come to the same thing.

No matter how you state, "Thou shalt not kill," it means precisely that. Of course, "Thou shalt not commit adultery" may be offensive to some folks. The daughter of a broken home with a father or mother on the make, might ask what is adultery to the great embarrassment of either parent. But there can be no misunderstanding as to what the meaning is and no one has ever stated the case in simpler terms.

"Honor thy father and thy mother" may run counter to some current sociological notions about all parents being jealous of their children and all about Oedipus complexes and other rubbish. But the fact is that when the family system is strong, society is sound; when the family system collapses, we get such teen-age horrors as we now suffer from. Thus far, man has found no substitute for the family system.

There is some slight difference in words but not in meaning between the Revised Edition of the Protestants and the Douay version of the Roman Catholics. I shall here give the three versions in English of the commandment about honoring parents:

1. The Jewish Publication Society version in English (1917):

"Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God commanded thee; that thy days may be long, and that it may go well with thee, upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

2. Revised Edition of King James version, Oxford University Press, Protestant:

"Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

3. Douay version, Catholic Book Publishing Company, Roman Catholic:

"Honor thy father and mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee, that thou mayest live a long time, and it may be well with thee in the land, which the Lord thy God will give thee."

And if my teletypewriter could manage it, I would quote it in the original text in Hebrew and you would find that the translations are not bad at all. At any rate, they convey the idea pretty clearly and if the child asked an intelligent adult what it all meant, the adult ought to be able to explain it to him without withdrawing the child from the parents' beliefs, disbeliefs, superstitions or agnosticisms.

It is hardly believable that in this day men should quarrel over exposing children to the sight of the Ten Commandments, but they do. They do not object to their children looking at vulgar exhibitions of sex on television, but if a child sees the Ten Commandments posted in a classroom without the symbols of particular faiths, without crucifix or menorah, somehow it is an impairment of the First Amendment to the Constitution, which surely does not appear in the English of the Constitution, or maybe, we no longer use English. Maybe we use some combination of tongues as they did in the Tower of Babel.

At any rate, the more one thinks in terms of our children, the more confusing are the views held by the authors of our present teen-age distress.

DR. CRANE SAYS

Words Needed To Win Sweetheart

Harry wants to know the secrets for winning a sweetheart. I devoted 35 pages in Chapter 6 of my college textbook "Psychology Applied" to this vital topic, but you can get the gist of that chapter in the simple 2-step process below. So scrapbook this case and memorize this technique for it wins clients and customers as well as sweethearts, too!

Case X;354: Harry B., aged 23, is the introverted college graduate who feels shy when he meets a coed.

"Dr. Crane, I never took any psychology in college," he added, "so I must rely on your column to bolster that weak spot in my education.

"Will you please tell me the basic strategy for winning a sweetheart?"

2 Laws For Popularity

Yes, I'll gladly tell all of you, and as briefly as possible.

If you wish a longer discussion go to your public library and borrow a copy of my college textbook "Psychology Applied" and study Chapter 6 therein.

There are 2 simple but very fundamental steps to becoming popular.

First, tactfully gain all the prestige and importance you can by deft indirect methods outlined below. But don't stop there!

Second, by all means utilize that prestige to give added weight to the honest compliments you then offer your companions!

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT," is the motto indelibly tattooed across the chest of every newborn baby, male and female.

So when Harry meets Betty, they both are branded with that tattoo.

But somebody must break the ice, for if they start tooting their own horns by lavish self-praise, they will drive each other away.

So Harry should start out with a smile, for a smile is a non-verbal compliment. It says, in effect:

"I am very happy to see you for you are an attractive, charming person I'd like to know better."

Obviously, his smile itself has thus made Betty feel more important, so she is becoming prejudiced in Harry's behalf, even before he speaks a word.

Women Want Words!

But a smile is not enough social ammunition to win a sweetheart.

Women want words! Especially pleasant, complimentary terms that help boost their ego even further.

So Harry should pick out some attractive trait about Betty and then phrase a compliment thereon.

"I hope you will not think me unduly forward," he can graciously wave aside the fact they have never been formally introduced, "but I certainly admire that yellow dress you are wearing . . . and, of course, the attractive figure in it!"

If he is unduly shy, he may not have the nerve to add the personalizing final phrase" . . . and, of course, the attractive figure in it!"

But experienced men soon learn that they can get upon a personal plane in their first sentence, if they smile and use language which labels them as cultured gentlemen.

Now any sincere compliment counts, even if it comes from a bootblack. But if Harry has attained any extra prestige, the latter will then add further weight to the value of his compliment.

So it is legitimate to toot your own horn if you do it deftly and immediately convert the added leverage into further weight for the words of praise you deliver to your companion.

Deft Self-Advertising

"Wasn't it sweet of Janice," my cousin's girl friend innocently exclaimed, "to give me this hand painted recipe box for my birthday?"

But Janice didn't say that "innocently." She was diverting Bill's attention to the supposed generosity of Janice.

But meanwhile she was slipping across the idea "I can cook, or I wouldn't need a recipe box, so look me over with the aim of matrimony!"

Send for my "Compliment Club Booklet," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20c. It outlines other techniques that work like a charm.

High Temperature Sometimes Faked

I'll never forget the 17-year-old girl who threw the hospital into an uproar. Her appendix had been removed, and the day before she was scheduled to leave, her temperature jumped to 105 degrees F. She was returned to bed rest but a careful examination revealed no complications.

Fever varied from 101 to 106 degrees during the next 10 days. Sometimes it was high in the morning and low in the afternoon or vice versa. The pulse rate remained the same and she never felt overly warm or perspired profusely, though the thermometer said she was burning up.

We were suspicious and a nurse was instructed to stand at the bedside while the temperature was taken. Normal readings were obtained. This young lady was feigning illness and when confronted with the evidence, called her dad and asked to be taken home.

Pretending illness by fooling with the thermometer is easy to do. The nurse usually makes the rounds of the floor, placing the thermometer in the mouths of the patients as she goes from room to room. Then she returns over the same territory recording the temperatures on the charts.

While the nurse is out of the room the malingerer holds the thermometer next to a steam pipe, light bulb, flame, or hot water bag. We suspected our gal of creating friction at the end of the thermometer by rubbing it briskly against the sheets; or she may have held it upside down to shake the mercury up instead of down. Other methods include taking the temperature after swallowing hot coffee, tea, or water, or manipulating the instrument against the teeth, gums, or rectal sphincter.

The clews that suggest factitious fever appear within a few days. The individual otherwise is healthy; the pulse fails to quicken as the temperature goes up; the pattern of a bona fide fever is highest in the afternoon and lowest in the morning; and temperatures in excess of 106 degrees are rare.

The majority of these patients leave the hospital without giving the physician an opportunity to determine the cause of their malingering. Some go from hospital to hospital, pulling the stunt over and over again. These people need psychiatric care.

Tomorrow: Reactions to hospitalization.

ANESTHESIA IN CHILDBIRTH

L. J. writes: What are the dangers of painless childbirth?

Reply

None, so far as the mother is concerned, but when she is given an anesthetizing drug, the unborn baby is affected by it also. He may come into the world so groggy he does not breathe.

TB of Colon

M. E. B. writes: What are the symptoms of intestinal tuberculosis?

Reply

Diarrhea and colicky pain usually are present. Many victims also have the general symptoms of tuberculosis, including weight loss, indigestion, and anemia.

Low Residue Foods

J. N. writes: Are there any constipating foods?

Reply

No, as all foods stimulate intestinal activity. But some are digested more completely than others and those that leave the most residue have a greater stimulating effect on the wall of the intestine. Individual differences also occur. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on bland foods.

Good Blood

C. D. writes: Is a hemoglobin of 98 in a man good or too high?

Reply

It's perfect, if you refer to 98 per cent.

Action Needed Now

Vice-President Nixon appears to be taking a more realistic attitude toward the necessity for decisive action to bring an end to the current recession than do many leaders of both the Republican and the Democratic party. The vice-president thinks the income tax rate should be cut for the purpose of throwing more money into the economy and to stimulate business incentive. In this he is undoubtedly right.

It has been demonstrated that the government can curb homebuilding and other construction and can slow down business activity and expansion by the simple expedient of causing a tight money situation. It has not been shown that it can immediately reverse the trend by loosening up on credit.

Once the downward spiral has been started people may not want to run the risk of building expensive homes and business may not want to take the chances that it would have willingly incurred a year or two ago.

This means that it takes more power to stop economy from going down hill than it does from going up. Going downhill, it increases its momentum and that must be offset by action over and beyond a mere return to an easy money policy.

Vice-President Nixon apparently realizes this fact. He has called for a reduction in income taxes, rather than a mere boost in government expenditures.

Showing his interest in getting renewed construction under way, the vice-president voted in the senate to break a 47-47 tie in favor of an increase of one-fourth of one per cent in the interest rate charged to veterans who buy homes.

There may be a good many who think an increase in the rate charged to veterans is unfair and who are opposed to such legislation, yet the change might benefit the veterans. President Eisenhowr has said the present interest rate is so low that there is no private market for mortgages at the lower figure. This would mean that money could not be obtained for financing the construction of homes for veterans.

Since it is virtually certain that the American economy will get back on its feet within the next few months or will drop to lower levels, it behooves the government of this country, including the congress, to see that the necessary action is taken now to halt the downward trend.

Probably a majority of the people in this country, and especially the government officials, would rather not receive any suggestions from Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO, but many of the people would like to see one of his suggestions put into effect and it might do a lot of good. Reuther suggested that the government eliminate withholding taxes for a period of three months.

That would give both the workers and the employers a lot of extra money. Employes on an average would receive from $8 to $20 a week more pay and an equal amount would be received by the employers for every employe on their payrolls. This would let the businesses show a nice jump in profits and would bring a big spending spree on the part of the public. Combined, these things might be enough to start the economy spiral back upward.

In the matter of economy, the United States is practically carrying the world on its shoulders. Western Europe believes it can avoid a recession if the United States' vast economy gets back into high gear this spring. If this hope is borne out, the economics of western Europe will have gotten through a tricky financial winter with almost no damage. Economists agree that an improvement in the American situation must come soon. Otherwise western Europe will feel the full blast of depressing business influences.

All of these things show how important it is for the government to act now. A month or two later it might be twice as hard to stop the downward trend.

Sigler Still Going

Maurice Sigler, warden at the Louisiana state penitentiary at Angola, seems to be mowing down the opposition at a regular pace. First the man immediately beneath him in authority and then the man immediately above bowed out of their state positions.

The fact that Mr. Sigler has remained is a tribute to the excellent record he has made as a prison administrator. The prison setup was one thing that Governor Earl K. Long did not change when he took over from Governor Robert F. Kennon as head of the state administration. Governor Long said he was told that the prison was one thing that was operating more satisfactorily than it had at any time in its previous history and for that reason he did not disturb the personnel, although ordinarily he would have filled the positions with men who had supported him.

Both Edward Grant, director of institutions, and Warden Sigler were kept in their positions along with other personnel at the prison.

Now Mr. Grant has resigned, following a dispute with Mr. Sigler over the same issue that caused L. E. Knox, assistant to Mr. Sigler to resign recently. Mr. Knox resigned, presumably at the request of the board of institutions, because of a complaint made by Mr. Knox against Mr. Sigler. The board felt that because of the complaint the two men could not work together in harmony.

Mr. Knox had complained of the use by Mr. Sigler of a former New Orleans strip-teaser as his private secretary. The ex-strip-teaser was a prisoner in the institution.

Although Mr. Knox was forced out by the dispute, Mr. Grant, the institutions director, agreed that the use by Mr. Sigler of the strip-teaser as his private secretary was unwise, if not indiscreet. Mr. Sigler also was said to have agreed that this was an unwise practice and to have stated he would remove the woman from his office. It was later reported that he had not done so.

It was Mr. Grant's insistence that the woman be removed and Mr. Sigler's refusal to take such action that brought their disagreement to a showdown. Mr. Sigler again was the winner.

In a nutshell, it appears to have been a case of two good state employes, one of them in a high position, having been forced out because of a dispute over a woman and a dispute in which the two ousted men were undoubtedly and admittedly right.

It was a case of "cherchez la femme," except that in this case the woman was easy to find—too easy, in fact.

Cut In Income Taxes Would Mean Big Spur To Business

Let's say congress decides a tax cut is imperative to restimulate business now and it agrees to do this by voting a "quickie" tax relief bill for individuals.

Under one plan, it might vote a cut of one - half in the withholding tax on your pay — reduce the withholding rate from 18 per cent to nine per cent — for a six-month period.

Over the six months, this would cut the taxes of a single worker earning $100 a week by $204; it would cut the taxes of a married couple in the $150 a week bracket by $290; it would slash the taxes of a family of four in the $200 a week class by $346.

The plan — which would provide for adjustments for taxpayers not subject to withholding—would increase the purchasing power of wage - earners by about $1.2 billion a month, thus would be a great spur to spending and to business in general.

Or let's say congress decides a tax cut is imperative, but it agrees to achieve this by cutting present tax law rates in all income brackets by 2 percentage points.

Over a year, this would reduce the taxes of a married couple in the $5,000 bracket by $76. It would cut the taxes of that same couple in the $25,000 bracket by $476.

This seemingly minor percentage cut of 2 per cent in rates would slash taxes by more than 3.1 billion.

But less than a quarter of the tax decrease would go to the under $5,000 taxpayer. The biggest benefit would be to individuals in the middle and upper - middle brackets.

A tax reduction is becoming increasingly likely as the grim unemployment - production - income-profits statistics hit the front pages. For as this third week of March begins, there still are no convincing signs that the recession is giving way to recovery.

The crucial period for decision is, as Vice - President Nixon now has said publicly, 'the next few weeks." If the economic picture isn't brightening perceptibly very soon, the administration has pledged that a tax cut will be "the next big step" and the Democratic leadership in congress well may beat the GOP on the move.

What's more, even the most devoted budget - balancers in congress are no longer insisting that a tax cut must be shelved because it would plunge the federal budget into an ocean of red ink.

With the jobless total in mid-February officially set at almost 5.2 million and additional millions working only three or four days a week, the American public is in no mood right now to place a balanced budget ahead of a strong business stimulant.

So, if business is still sliding in April, the question will not be whether a tax cut. The question will be only what kind of tax cut. And the "what kind" will determine the impact of the reduction on your own family and on business.

To suggest the variety of tax-cutting proposals already being pushed, the staff of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation of congress prepared a couple of weeks ago, an outline of 20 different tax-reducing schemes actually presented to congress. Above, I've given you two of them. Here's another:

Plan: Increase the present $600 per capita exemption to $700.

This would relieve 4,200,000 taxpayers from all lialibility under the income tax law.

It would reduce taxes by about 2.8 billion — giving all except 13 per cent of the decrease to taxpayers in the brackets up to $5,000 and between $5,000 and $10,000.

As an illustration, the raise in exemption would cut the tax of a married couple with two children, earning $4,000, by 25 per cent or $80. It would cut the tax of that couple in the $25,000 bracket by only 2½ per cent or $152.

There are other highly favored tax - reduction proposals which undoubtedly will be pushed in congress this session. In the next two columns, I'll give you key details on plans of vital interest to you.

Congress To Look Into Troop Plane Shortage

Congress is getting ready to make a sweeping investigation to find out why the United States does not have enough airplanes to fly troops overseas in event of war. Among other things investigators will want to learn why the Defense Department has failed to act to correct this serious shortcoming.

Recent testimony made before the House appropriations committee on overall defense department policy shows there is a marked difference of opinion in the Pentagon on the military airlift question.

The position taken by the Joint Chiefs of Staff is that the combination of active and reserve tactical airlift is considered to be adequate for the Army's need at this time. This position, taken over a year ago, continues to be substantially the same according to Air Force secretary James H. Douglas.

Committee members and others, however, do not share the view of the joint chiefs — the President's top military advisers — and in fact have urged immediate action to remedy the situation.

In its special report on International Security the Rockefeller Brothers Fund said the Nation's military airlift was inadequate despite the Joint Chiefs' statement to the contrary.

During the Senate preparedness committee's space and missile inquiry in January a leading aircraft company executive told the group the United States was rapidly falling behind the Soviet Union's air logistics system, especially in airlift.

Donald Douglas, Jr., president of Douglas aircraft, said that the U. S. has not built a single transport plane with the ton-knot capacity of the Russian's latest transports.

He pointed out that the Soviet air force has cargo planes in operation with twice the payload capacity of the largest similar U. S. aircraft in operation today.

The Douglas company in 1955 had an air force contract to build a huge cargo and troop carrier aircraft, the C-132, but the work was halted last year because the project did not have sufficient priority to continue under a reduced spending budget.

According to company estimate the C-132 would have been capable of hauling up to 200,000 pounds under wartime conditions over a distance of 3,500 miles The plane, which only reached the mock-up stage at the company's Tulsa, Oklahoma plant, cost the Air Force about $70 million before it was canceled.

Some members of the appropriations committee have expressed doubts over the joint chiefs stand that mass troop movements could be carried on by air in the event of war.

Rep. Daniel Flood, D., Pa., a member of the Defense Department appropriations subcommittee, assailed witnesses' contentions that the Air Force is willing and ready to transport Army divisions by air. Through questioning he brought out the facts that there was no money in last year's budget for the purchase of cargo or jet transports because of budgetary limitations.

Flood argued that the Pentagon is relying on "third class" World War II vintage air and sea transports to move troops in the event of another war. He expressed fear of a disaster unless the situation improves.

While there has been no date set for a hearing on the airlift situation, the matter has been discussed at length in at least three separate hearings. Besides the House appropriations preliminary study of defense policy and the Senate's missile inquiry, the House government operations committee probed the airlift situation briefly last month during an investigation of Military Air Transport Service.

Testimony on the airlift before the House group is expected to be made public later this month. It is expected to show the increasing dependence by the Air Force on commercial-type aircraft for troop movements rather than specifically - designed troop carrier planes.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

People Fight Over 10 Commandments

It is curious what men will fight over. In the New York State Legislature a bill has been introduced authorizing the posting of the Ten Commandments in each school. There is nothing subversive in the Ten Commandments. There is nothing in them to impair the morals of the young. Actually the Ten Commandments in one form or another is the foundation of most religions and of most ethical systems. It is a statement in simple form of the basic moral law of the human race.

Why should men quarrel over that? Are our children so perfect, are their lives so righteous that it is unnceessary for them to have further instruction? Well, the atheists raise the old argument about church and state. It is permissible to teach the young rock-n-roll but not the word of God in any translation. As the Ten Commandments come down to us, in our civilization, they are translated from the Hebrew in Deuteronomy 5. Anything that is translated from one language to another, or by one author or another, may have some slight variations. I have read the Hebrew, Protestant and Catholic versions and they all come to the same thing.

No matter how you state, "Thou shalt not kill," it means precisely that. Of course, "Thou shalt not commit adultery" may be offensive to some folks. The daughter of a broken home with a father or mother on the make, might ask what is adultery to the great embarrassment of either parent. But there can be no misunderstanding as to what the meaning is and no one has ever stated the case in simpler terms.

"Honor thy father and thy mother" may run counter to some current sociological notions about all parents being jealous of their children and all about Oedipus complexes and other rubbish. But the fact is that when the family system is strong, society is sound; when the family system collapses, we get such teen-age horrors as we now suffer from. Thus far, man has found no substitute for the family system.

There is some slight difference in words but not in meaning between the Revised Edition of the Protestants and the Douay version of the Roman Catholics. I shall here give the three versions in English of the commandment about honoring parents:

1. The Jewish Publication Society version in English (1917): "Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God commanded thee; that thy days may be long, and that it may go well with thee, upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

2. Revised Edition of King James version, Oxford University Press, Protestant:

"Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

3. Douay version, Catholic Book Publishing Company, Roman Catholic:

"Honor thy father and mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee, that thou mayest live a long time, and it may be well with thee in the land, which the Lord thy God will give thee."

And if my teletypewriter could manage it, I would quote it in the original text in Hebrew and you would find that the translations are not bad at all. At any rate, they convey the idea pretty clearly and if the child asked an intelligent adult what it all meant, the adult ought to be able to explain it to him without withdrawing the child from the parents' beliefs, disbeliefs, superstitions or agnosticisms.

It is hardly believable that in this day men should quarrel over exposing children to the sight of the Ten Commandments, but they do. They do not object to their children looking at vulgar exhibitions of sex on television, but if a child sees the Ten Commandments posted in a classroom wthout the symbols of particular faiths, without crucifix or menorah, somehow it is an impairment of the First Amendment to the Constitution, which surely does not appear in the English of the Constitution, or maybe, we no longer use English. Maybe we use some combination of tongues as they did in the Tower of Babel.

At any rate, the more one thinks in terms of our children, the more confusing are the views held by the authors of our present teenage distress.

Words Needed To Win Sweetheart

Harry wants to know the secrets for winning a sweetheart. I devoted 35 pages in Chapter 6 of my college textbook "Psychology Applied" to this vital topic, but you can get the gist of that chapter in the simple 2-step process below. So scrapbook this case and memorize this technique for it wins clients and customers as well as sweethearts, too!

Case X;354: Harry B., aged 23, is the introverted college graduate who feels shy when he meets a coed.

"Dr. Crane, I never took any psychology in college," he added, "so I must rely on your column to bolster that weak spot in my education.

"Will you please tell me the basic strategy for winning a sweetheart?"

2 Laws For Popularity

Yes, I'll gladly tell all of you, and as briefly as possible.

If you wish a longer discussion go to your public library and borrow a copy of my college textbook "Psychology Applied" and study Chapter 6 therein.

There are 2 simple but very fundamental steps to becoming popular.

First, tactfully gain all the prestige and importance you can by deft indirect methods outlined below. But don't stop there!

Second, by all means utilize that prestige to give added weight to the honest compliments you then offer your companions!

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT," is the motto indelibly tattooed across the chest of every newborn baby, male and female.

So when Harry meets Betty, they both are branded with that tattoo.

But somebody must break the ice, for if they start tooting their own horns by lavish self-praise, they will drive each other away.

So Harry should start out with a smile, for a smile is a nonverbal compliment. It says, in effect:

"I am very happy to see you for you are an attractive, charming person I'd like to know better."

Obviously, his smile itself has thus made Betty feel more important, so she is becoming prejudiced in Harry's behalf, even before he speaks a word.

Women Want Words!

But a smile is not enough social ammunition to win a sweetheart.

Women want words! Especially pleasant, complimentary terms that help boost their ego even further.

So Harry should pick out some attractive trait about Betty and then phrase a compliment thereon.

"I hope you will not think me unduly forward," he can graciously wave aside the fact they have never been formally introduced, "but I certainly admire that yellow dress you are wearing . . . and, of course, the attractive figure in it!"

If he is unduly shy, he may not have the nerve to add the personalizing final phrase" . . . and, of course, the attractive figure in it!"

But experienced men soon learn that they can get upon a personal plane in their first sentence, if they smile and use language which labels them as cultured gentlemen.

Now any sincere compliment counts, even if it comes from a bootblack. But if Harry has attained any extra prestige, the latter will then add further weight to the value of his compliment.

So it is legitimate to toot your own horn if you do it deftly and immediately convert the added leverage into further weight for the words of praise you deliver to your companion.

"Wasn't it sweet of Janice," my cousin's girl friend innocently exclaimed, "to give me this hand painted recipe box for my birthday?"

But Janice didn't say that "innocently." She was diverting Bill's attention to the supposed generosity of Janice.

But meanwhile she was slipping across the idea "I can cook, or I wouldn't need a recipe box, so look me over with the aim of matrimony!"

High Temperature Sometimes Faked

I'll never forget the 17-year-old girl who threw the hospital into an uproar. Her appendix had been removed, and the day before she was scheduled to leave, her temperature jumped to 105 degrees F. She was returned to bed rest but a careful examination revealed no complications.

Fever varied from 101 to 106 degrees during the next 10 days. Sometimes it was high in the morning and low in the afternoon or vice versa. The pulse rate remained the same and she never felt overly warm or perspired profusely, though the thermometer said she was burning up.

We were suspicious and a nurse was instructed to stand at the bedside while the temperature was taken. Normal readings were obtained. This young lady was feigning illness and when confronted with the evidence, called her dad and asked to be taken home.

Pretending illness by fooling with the thermometer is easy to do. The nurse usually makes the rounds of the floor, placing the thermometer in the mouths of the patients as she goes from room to room. Then she returns over the same territory recording the temperatures on the charts.

While the nurse is out of the room the malingerer holds the thermometer next to a steam pipe, light bulb, flame, or hot water bag. We suspected our gal of creating friction at the end of the thermometer by rubbing it briskly against the sheets; or she may have held it upside down to shake the mercury up instead of down. Other methods include taking the temperature after swallowing hot coffee, tea, or water, or manipulating the instrument against the teeth, gums, or rectal sphincter.

The clews that suggest factitious fever appear within a few days. The individual otherwise is healthy; the pulse fails to quicken as the temperature goes up; the pattern of a bona fide fever is highest in the afternoon and lowest in the morning; and temperatures in excess of 106 degrees are rare.

The majority of these patients leave the hospital without giving the physician an opportunity to determine the cause of their malingering. Some go from hospital to hospital, pulling the stunt over and over again. These people need psychiatric care.

Tomorrow: Reactions to hospitalization.

ANESTHESIA IN CHILDBIRTH

Reply

None, so far as the mother is concerned, but when she is given an anesthetizing drug, the unborn baby is affected by it also. He may come into the world so groggy he does not breathe.

TB of Colon

M. E. B. writes: What are the symptoms of intestinal tuberculosis?

Reply

Diarrhea and colicky pain usually are present. Many victims also have the general symptoms of tuberculosis, including weight loss, indigestion, and anemia.

Low Residue Foods

J. N. writes: Are there any constipating foods?

Reply

No, as all foods stimulate intestinal activity. But some are digested more completely than others and those that leave the most residue have a greater stimulating effect on the wall of the intestine. Individual differences also occur. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on bland foods.

Male Heir Born To Grace, Prince

MONTE CARLO (UP)—Princess Grace Friday gave birth to a strapping, "perfectly formed" boy with chestnut hair who automatically became heir to the throne of Monaco.

The tiny country went wild with joy.

Grace was delivered of the 8 pound, 11 ounce baby at 10:50 a.m. in a room of the pink and white palace converted into a miniature hospital. Delivery was normal and without any anesthesia or drugs.

Both mother and son were doing splendidly. Grace was permitted to see the squalling infant for a few moments before he was placed in his big white, empire-styled crib. He was named Albert Alexandre Louis Pierre and was 20.5 inches long at birth.

Prince Rainier saw his wife for a few moments, kissed her, and attended a private Mass of thanksgiving said by his personal chaplain, the Rev. Francis Tucker of Wilmington, Del.

A 101-gun salute from two old palace cannons thumped out the news officially to Monegasques. But most of them in the 368-acre principality on the Riviera heard it by word of mouth—when an excited young woman stuck her head out a palace window and shouted "It's a boy, it's a boy."

Yachts and fishing boats in the teacup-shaped harbor tooted their whistles. The country's eight churches pealed their bells. Red and white Monaco flags and the Stars and Stripes—in honor of the Philadelphia - born movie queen who became a real-life princess—flapped on poles and buildings.

Champagne parties were hastily organized. School children got the day off. Prince Rainier prepared to grant amnesty to five of the six prisoners in the local lockup. He sent $238 and a layette to the only other child born in Monaco Friday—a boy, Daniel, the fourth child of house painter Louis Joniaux and his wife, Marie Louise.

Shouting children outside the palace caused Rainier to appear with little Princess Caroline. now a pretty, blond 14-month-old toddler, on the palace balcony. He held her hands up, boxer fashion and the crowd roared.

The three physicians attending Grace said the baby was "perfectly formed" and "cried as soon as he was born. Neither medication nor anesthesia were used."

Rainier and Grace had wanted a boy. In the usual European fashion, Albert automatically takes precedence over baby Caroline as the next in succession to the throne of the Grimaldi family, which took power in Monaco in 1927.

Negro Registers At Wrong Place

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A young Negro asked the man if he was in the right place to register.

This set off a registration procedure including numerous questions and extensive forms. After 25 minutes the Negro said:

"If it takes this much time and trouble just to register, I'll probably never find time to actually vote."

"Vote?" said police identification officer B. S. Griffis, "I just registered you as an ex-convict."

Police said they directed the young man to the voter registration office in the courthouse across the street.

'SAVED LIVES'

Truman Defends Atomic Bombing

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—The dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima cost some 200,000 lives but saved more than twice that many Japanese casualties, former President Harry Truman told his critics Friday.

The man who gave the order for the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki made public at a news conference a letter he has sent to the City Council of Hiroshima. The council passed a resolution criticizing recent statements of Truman that he "had no compunction whatever after directing the bombing." The council also had asked Truman to retract a statement that hydrogen bombs would be used if necessary.

The ex-president, after calling attention to the bombing of Pearl Harbor that came without warning, said that this act "murdered thousands of young American sailors and civilians."

"The feeling of the people of your city is easily understood," Truman wrote, "and I am not in any way offended . . ." But he said military authorities have estimated a quarter of a million of an invasion force and a like number of Japanese would have been killed in an invasion of Japan if the atomic bombs had not brought about surrender. Twice that many on each side would have been maimed for life if the Allied forces had invaded, he added.

"The need for such a fateful decision (to drop the bomb) never would have arisen had we not been shot in the back by Japan at Pearl Harbor," Truman wrote. In spite of this, he said, "the United States has been willing to help in every way the restoration of Japan as a great and prosperous nation."

Heirless Shah Gives Up Wife

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The handsome Shah of Iran gave up the woman he loved Friday — beautiful Queen Soraya — because she had not given him an heir to the throne.

A court communique said the 38-year-old monarch "ignored his personal feelings for the sake of the nation's high-level interests" and divorced the green - eyed queen. She is 26.

The communique said the Shah's advisers believe the heir to the throne must be a son, not a stepbrother of the Shah, an alternative the ruler had considered.

Court sources reported that the Shah is downcast because of the end of his seven-year marriage to Soraya. Officials said he probably would not marry again in the near future and there was no hint of who his next bride might be.

The Shah will make a trip to Japan, Formosa and the United States in May.

The communique said Soraya's divorce settlement is $134,000. She gave up the crown jewels but kept several million dollars worth of jewels which the Shah had given her during their marriage.

She has been staying with her parents and her brother in Cologne. Her father, Khalil Esfandiary, is Iranian ambassador to West Germany.

Soraya remained in seclusion but said in a statement distributed by the West German press office that she had consented to the divorce "in the interests of the future of the nation and for the welfare of the people."

The statement added: "I am prepared to sacrifice my own happiness because his majesty the Shah considers it necessary that the constitutional monarchy be perpetuated through succession to the throne in a direct line of sons from generation to generation."

A German friend who visited the queen's mother said she was convinced Soraya and the Shah "love each other as much as ever."

Moslem men, except where state laws prohibit it, may divorce their wives without consulting them beforehand and without citing any reasons. But the Shah sent a divorce document to Soraya in Germany. She returned it signed Friday. That completed the divorce.

Imam Jomeh of the court clergy is understood to have read a divorce sermon.

The Shah is 1948 divorced his first wife, Princess Fawzia of Egypt, because she had given him only a daughter. Women cannot succeed to the thrones of Moslem countries.

He married Soraya, whose name means "star," Feb. 12, 1951.

As the months went by the country waited in vain for a royal birth. The queen began visiting doctors in Switzerland in 1953 and two years later she and the Shah consulted New York doctors in hopes of ending their childlessness.

A court envoy visited Soraya in Germany recently, reportdly with a proposal that the Shan take an additional wife. But the young queen — the daughter of a German woman, educated in Europe and instilled with Western ideas apparently refused to allow it.

Another proposal was that the Shah name his stepbrother, Prince Gholam Reza, or his 9-year-old nephew, Ali Patrik, as crown prince. But court advisers felt the throne would be safer if it passed from father to son.

CRIME UP

NEW ORLEANS — UP —Crime rose here in nine major categories during February as compared with the same month last year. However, it dropped since January of this year, according to a comparative crime report released by Police Supt. Provosty A. Dayries. Auto thefts and burglary headed the list, showing a marked increase.

George Washington said in his Farewell Address on Sept. 17, 1796, that "the nation which indulges toward another an habitual hatred or an habitual fondness is in some degree a slave."

Sale Of 84 Liquidated Cars Probed

AUSTIN (UP) — Hints of international traffic in automobiles sold through the state insurance liquidator's division developed Friday as Senate investigators probed operations of the controversial office.

Mart Digby, a former automobile sales agent for the liquidation division and now an Austin used car auctioneer, was recalled briefly to the stand.

Digby testified Thursday that he operated under an agreement with the liquidation division that paid him a commission ranging from $6 to $7.50 for each receivership car he auctioned off.

"How many of those automobiles did you ship into Mexico?" Sen. Frank Owen of El Paso, a member of the Senate Investigating Committee, asked.

"I don't know, I didn't ship any," the witness replied.

"The cars I sold that went to Mexico were all old on this side (of the border)," he added.

Both Owen and Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo, another committee member, had casually inquired of earlier witnesses about movement of cars, taken over with the assets of U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co., into Mexico. These witnesses said they hadn't heard of any such thing.

Owen did not press further questioning of Digby. Called back to provide answers to questions he couldn't answer Thursday, Digby said he received "between $1,300 and $1,400" for his auctioneering.

Committee members, spearheaded by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, chairman, continued their inquiry into the questioned disposition of 84 automobiles. These were repossessed cars, originally sold by U.S. Automotive Service, that were taken back by the liquidator as part of the assets of U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co., of Waco.

Collapse of U.S. Trust and Guaranty, U.S. Automotive's parent firm, in December, 1955 spurred a state - wide investigation that uncovered the insurance scandals. A. B. Shoemake, head of U.S. Trust and Guaranty, sought to commit suicide by firing a bullet into his brain. An invalid, he lives today.

Ora Davis, an assistant state auditor, testified in detail on what liquidation records showed. Davis searched the records on orders of the investigating committee. He said his study showed 759 cars were covered by receivership court orders. But records were incomplete, he said, on 84. On these, Davis said, he could not determine who bought the cars, nor what the sale price was.

DISSENSION IN THEIR BUSINESS HOUSEHOLD—Advertising executive Tom Lewis, husband of television actress Loretta Young, both shown above, accuses Miss Young and their partner, Robert F. Shewalter, of "dishonesty, mismanagement and unfairness." Lewis filed a civil suit to dissolve their company, Lewislor Films, Inc. Lewis said in New York the suit is "a corporate matter" and has "no personal implication." He and Miss Young have been married 17½ years. (AP Wirephoto)

Male Heir Born To Grace, Prince

MONTE CARLO (UP)—Princess Grace Friday gave birth to a strapping, "perfectly formed" boy with chestnut hair who automatically became heir to the throne of Monaco.

The tiny country went wild with joy.

Grace was delivered of the 8 pound, 11 ounce baby at 10:50 a.m. in a room of the pink and white palace converted into a miniature hospital. Delivery was normal and without any anesthesia or drugs.

Both mother and son were doing splendidly. Grace was permitted to see the squalling infant for a few moments before he was placed in his big white, empire-styled crib. He was named Albert Alexandre Louis Pierre and was 20.5 inches long at birth.

Prince Rainier saw his wife for a few moments, kissed her, and attended a private Mass of thanksgiving said by his personal chaplain, the Rev. Francis Tucker of Wilmington, Del.

A 101-gun salute from two old palace cannons thumped out the news officially to Monegasques. But most of them in the 368-acre principality on the Riviera heard it by word of mouth—when an excited young woman stuck her head out a palace window and shouted "It's a boy, it's a boy."

Yachts and fishing boats in the teacup-shaped harbor tooted their whistles. The country's eight churches pealed their bells. Red and white Monaco flags and the Stars and Stripes—in honor of the Philadelphia - born movie queen who became a real-life princess—flapped on poles and buildings.

Champagne parties were hastily organized. School children got the day off. Prince Rainier prepared to grant amnesty to five of the six prisoners in the local lockup. He sent $238 and a layette to the only other child born in Monaco Friday—a boy, Daniel, the fourth child of house painter Louis Joniaux and his wife, Marie Louise.

Shouting children outside the palace caused Rainier to appear with little Princess Caroline. now a pretty, blond 14-month-old toddler, on the palace balcony. He held her hands up, boxer fashion and the crowd roared.

The three physicians attending Grace said the baby was "perfectly formed" and "cried as soon as he was born. Neither medication nor anesthesia were used."

Rainier and Grace had wanted a boy. In the usual European fashion, Albert automatically takes precedence over baby Caroline as the next in succession to the throne of the Grimaldi family, which took power in Monaco in 1927.

Negro Registers At Wrong Place

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A young Negro asked the man if he was in the right place to register.

This set off a registration procedure including numerous questions and extensive forms. After 25 minutes the Negro said:

"If it takes this much time and trouble just to register, I'll probably never find time to actually vote."

"Vote?" said police identification officer B. S. Griffis, "I just registered you as an ex-convict."

Police said they directed the young man to the voter registration office in the courthouse across the street.

'SAVED LIVES'

Truman Defends Atomic Bombing

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—The dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima cost some 200,000 lives but saved more than twice that many Japanese casualties, former President Harry Truman told his critics Friday.

The man who gave the order for the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki made public at a news conference a letter he has sent to the City Council of Hiroshima. The council passed a resolution criticizing recent statements of Truman that he "had no compunction whatever after directing the bombing." The council also had asked Truman to retract a statement that hydrogen bombs would be used if necessary.

The ex-president, after calling attention to the bombing of Pearl Harbor that came without warning, said that this act "murdered thousands of young American sailors and civilians."

"The feeling of the people of your city is easily understood," Truman wrote, "and I am not in any way offended . . ." But he said military authorities have estimated a quarter of a million of an invasion force and a like number of Japanese would have been killed in an invasion of Japan if the atomic bombs had not brought about surrender. Twice that many on each side would have been maimed for life if the Allied forces had invaded, he added.

"The need for such a fateful decision (to drop the bomb) never would have arisen had we not been shot in the back by Japan at Pearl Harbor," Truman wrote. In spite of this, he said, "the United States has been willing to help in every way the restoration of Japan as a great and prosperous nation."

YOUR PROBLEMS

'A Wives Who Listen Club,' Marriage Must

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Dishes not done, beds not made, kids not dressed—but they can wait. I must write this letter.

That letter signed "Engaged to an Accountant" frosted me. The gal broke up with a pre-med student because she was "fed up on case histories". Well what is she going to talk to her accountant about?

I'm one of the millions of wives who is privileged to listen to a husband discuss his work. He's a steam fitter. I've made it my business to learn all I can about his job. I started a scrap book showing the buildings in which he's helped to install heating units the past 15 years. I know almost as much about boilers, pipes, fabricating and radiant heat as he does.

Every profession has "The Wives Who Listen Club," and let me tell Miss Engaged, she'd better grow up and join the group—or stay single. — MRS. CLINTON P.

Dear Mrs. C. P.: My hat is off to you. You've learned one of the real secrets of making a marriage work. Cheers!

Dear Ann: My girl and I are both 21 and we are getting married next month. We've known each other three years and have been officially engaged since last May. I'm sure our marriage will be a good one, although I must be truthful and admit we are rushing it a little because there's a baby on the way.

This is the problem: We have money saved and we've made a down-payment on a house that won't be completed for six months. We could get a nice nest-egg together if we didn't have to pay any rent for a while. Both my parents and hers have invited us to live with them.

We get along fine with both sets, but are undecided as to which place we should choose. Any suggestions or hints you could throw our way would be appreciated. — ORVILLE

Since it seems to be a toss-up I cast my vote with the parents of the bride. If two women must be in the same kitchen and share house-keeping chores, better it should be a mother and daughter, than the other combination.

Your fiance knows how her mother likes things done, and she would undoubtedly be more comfortable in her own home than in yours.

Dear Ann: I'm a boy 18 years of age who has never had a date. Although I've always worked after school and made money, my Mom needed it to keep the house going, so I got into the habit of handing over every cent, and never kept any for myself.

I've always been self-conscious about my clothes, and maybe this is another reason I never tried to have much social life.

Anyway, I'll be graduating from high school this Spring and I'm worried about my lack of social contacts. The girls at school are all nice and I can think of several I'd like to ask out, but how does a guy like me begin? The thought of it scares me. — JUST GEORGE

You're blossoming out a little late, fella,...but don't worry about it. All kids have butterflies flopping around when they begin to date.

Hold out enough money for a movie and pizza date now and then. This is only fair. And clothes don't matter. Look around you, most kids dress DOWN, not UP!) Ask one of your buddies to double with you, then get up your courage and invite the girl of your choice. Soon you'll be ready for a solo flight and you'll be perfectly at ease.

CONFIDENTIALLY: MAD MABLE: Don't tell the teacher. When she reads the exam papers, she'll know who copies from whom. When I went to school, the teachers told us how to sit to keep the copy-cats from picking our brains. (It works!).

GOLDIELOCKS: The scars of this love affair will last longer than the trophies. It's a bad bargain. Flee from Mr. Got-rocks and avoid him as you would the plague.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.)

YOUR BABY AND MINE

The Child Who Whines Often Is Frustrated

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The child who whines is often the frustrated child. Too much frustration leads to that attitude of hopelessness which in turn inspires whining. It is a hopeless sort of emotion which indicate the child is beaten before he starts.

Mrs. L. D. wonders why her 23-pound, well-fed, 13 - month - old child whines so much. A perusal of her diet shows that she is well-fed and has her vitamins in addition. She sleeps well at night and has a two-hour nap in the daytime. "But she whines an awful lot," writes her mother. "She can say Mama and Dada, but when she wants something she points and whines. As soon as her Dad comes home she whines. If you deny her something she whines. Is this a 'stage' she is going through? Am I doing something wrong?"

Answer

One can only guess that you do not give her enough personal attention. Just holding her, talking to her, reading nursery rhymes, singing to her, might satisfy this craving she has for notice. The whining seems to be her best way to get it. But since you don't want her to develop that tendency, try to supply the notice she needs so she does not have to get it in this disagreeable way.

Perhaps, too, she needs more opportunity for physical exercise, a place to creep, a place to climb, more freedom to play with the objects she sees. It is quite possible to imagine a child of this age lifted in and out of a high chair, crib or playpen and with little or no freedom to roam about on her own and "get into" things which appeal to her. You have to choose the time for this free roaming — but, again, it may be what she needs.

Mrs. H.J.C., I'd give the 4-year-old a chance to rest for one hour in daytime and then at the end of that time take him up. Children do outgrow their tendency to nap, but they need a quiet, rest period just the same. One hour is enough.

Make a game with the children of picking up their toys. Call them elves picking up leaves; or just a "Papa and Mama" tidying up after the day's play — anything to harness their interest. Go along with them, timing their activity by offering some slight reward for the first one through.

As for dressing them, give them the opportunity to do this and when it is time for them to be dressed step in and finish the process. You are right, this is the ordinary conduct of children and it will be outgrown in a year or so. The incentive to get dressed will be greater then.

If you would like our leaflet "Helping the Slow Child" which is designed for poky children, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 63. Address Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Mrs. Shirley Holds Meeting For Bosco HDC

How to eliminate fatigue by correcting our posture was demonstrated by Mrs. Enon Boyette of Bosco at the Progressive Home Demonstration Club meeting held in the home of Mrs. Mary Alice Shirley.

Mrs. Boyette gave the amount of energy we use for different things such as sitting, standing, walking and working. She stated, with a little thought we could correct the way we do these things and save energy and therefore feel less tired.

After presiding over a brief business session Mrs. Mildred Chapman, club president, extended an invitation to all members and non-members to attend the Natchez Pilgrimage which will be held on Wednesday, March 19th. Persons interested must have their reservation in by Saturday the 15th by calling Mrs. L. J. Bower FA 3-5909.

Mrs. Charles Guraedy, vice - president, called for reports from the nutrition and food preparation leaders.

The host served a refreshment course to guests Mrs. Boyette and Mrs. James Pender both from Bosco, and members, Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mrs. R. S. Harrell, Mrs. James Fletcher, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Guraedy, Mrs. A. D. Roberson and new member Mrs. Gracie Guillory.

March Meeting Of The Gilbert Woman's Club

The Gilbert Woman's Club met for its March meeting in the home of Mrs. J. R. Jones. Her co-hostesses for this event were Mrs. J. H. Murphy and Mrs. Dave Chase.

During the business portion of the meeting, reports of the District meeting in Ferriday were made. Twenty - seven of the thirty-five clubs in the district were represented. Several members received awards for their handwork exhibited there and the club received recognition on their Press Book and Year Book.

The club made final plans concerning a table and chairs to be purchased and put in the community center. These will be bought with the money made on the skit presented in the fall.

The theme of the Gilbert club for the year has been "Famous Women of America." In keeping with this, the program consisted of the biographies of two famous women — Jane Addams, given by Mrs. J. N. Bostick, and Helen Keller, given by Mrs. Eva Holcomb.

Braided Rugs Achieve Early American Look

By BETTY LENAHAN

Q. — I am trying to achieve an Early American look in the living room of our bungalow at the shore. The furniture is maple and I am planning to get an oval braided rug. What colors would you suggest for the walls, rug, type and color curtains, upholstery for cushions on the furniture and accessories?

A. — Yellow would be a good color for the walls of your living room. You might get the oval braided rug with black, blue and red predominating and use red and blue for the upholstery colors. Cafe curtains in a vari-colored allover provincial print and brass, pewter, milk glass and colorful pottery accessories would add to the early American look.

Q. — We have just moved into an unfurnished apartment and would like some advice on the living room which is very large with light gray wallpaper and white woodwork. We are planning to buy second-hand furniture and paint it. What color would you suggest? Also, what colors would you suggest for the draperies, rug and upholstered pieces?

A. — An attractive scheme for your living room would be to paint the furniture black, get a gray rug, draperies with a pattern in black on a red background and cover the upholstered pieces in red, charcoal and chartreuse.

Q. — Will you tell me whether maple and mahogany furniture can be mixed? We have a combination living room and dining room with no divider. The tables and TV cabinet in the living room are mahogany but we would like to get maple furniture for the dining room. What is your opinion?

A. — There is no reason why you should not get maple furniture for the dining area of your living room. Maple and mahogany blend well together and the different finishes would add interest to the room.

It was reported that Monroe will participate in the Cleanest City campaign and the club agreed to cooperate.

"The Jewel Box" will be the theme for the May flower show of the club. Discussion of the State Flower Show was held and ideas for entry were presented.

After the close of the meeting, Mrs. H. F. Shepard talked to the ladies on dafodils, jonquils and narcicus. She showed charts of the many types of these bulbs with pictures in color of the blooms.

YOUR PROBLEMS

'A Wives Who Listen Club,' Marriage Must

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Dishes not done, beds not made, kids not dressed—but they can wait. I must write this letter.

That letter signed "Engaged to an Accountant" frosted me. The gal broke up with a pre-med student because she was "fed up on case histories". Well what is she going to talk to her accountant about?

I'm one of the millions of wives who is privileged to listen to a husband discuss his work. He's a steam fitter. I've made it my business to learn all I can about his job. I started a scrap book showing the buildings in which he's helped to install heating units the past 15 years. I know almost as much about boilers, pipes, fabricating and radiant heat as he does.

Every profession has "The Wives Who Listen Club," and let me tell Miss Engaged, she'd better grow up and join the group—or stay single. — MRS. CLINTON P.

The Child Who Whines Often Is Frustrated

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The child who whines is often the frustrated child. Too much frustration leads to that attitude of hopelessness which in turn inspires whining. It is a hopeless sort of emotion which indicate the child is beaten before he starts.

Mrs. L. D. wonders why her 23-pound, well-fed, 13-month-old child whines so much. A perusal of her diet shows that she is well-fed and has her vitamins in addition. She sleeps well at night and has a two-hour nap in the daytime. "But she whines an awful lot," writes her mother. "She can say Mama and Dada, but when she wants something she points and whines. Answer

One can only guess that you do not give her enough personal attention. Just holding her, talking to her, reading nursery rhymes, singing to her, might satisfy this craving she has for notice. The whining seems to be her best way to get it. But since you don't want her to develop that tendency, try to supply the notice she needs so she does not have to get it in this disagreeable way.

Perhaps, too, she needs more opportunity for physical exercise, a place to creep, a place to climb, more freedom to play with the objects she sees. It is quite possible to imagine a child of this age lifted in and out of a high chair, crib or playpen and with little or no freedom to roam about on her own and "get into" things which appeal to her. You have to choose the time for this free roaming — but, again, it may be what she needs.

Mrs. H.J.C., I'd give the 4-year-old a chance to rest for one hour in daytime and then at the end of that time take him up. Children do outgrow their tendency to nap, but they need a quiet, rest period just the same. One hour is enough.

Make a game with the children of picking up their toys. Call them elves picking up leaves; or just a "Papa and Mama" tidying up after the day's play — anything to harness their interest. Go along with them, timing their activity by offering some slight reward for the first one through.

As for dressing them, give them the opportunity to do this and when it is time for them to be dressed step in and finish the process. You are right, this is the ordinary conduct of children and it will be outgrown in a year or so. The incentive to get dressed will be greater then.

Daniel Asks Move To Save Texas Millions

ROSENBERG, Tex. (UP) — Gov. Price Daniel said Friday night Texas will lose millions of dollars if it fails to capitalize on its attractions to "industry, tourists and new residents."

This money, he told the annual banquet of the Rosenberg Chamber of Commerce, should be "flowing into the Texas economy and providing business and jobs for our people."

Daniel reminded his audience Texans will vote this November on an amendment allowing the state to advertise its assets.

"If adopted, this amendment will remove a provision in the constitution which for 80 years has prevented the state from advertising its resources and attractions like every other state in the nation is now doing," he said.

Profitable Investment

"From the experience of 45 other states it has been estimated that every dollar spent on state tourist programs alone brought back $22 in cash to the economy of the state involved. This is a sound investment which the state of Texas has been overlooking for too long," he said.

Earlier, speaking in Houston, Daniel charged that advocates of federal aid to education "are trying to make the public schools and colleges a scapegoat for failures of federal officials in the race for outer space."

"With federal financing and controls there is a greater possibility that over - emphasis would be placed on the science of warfare and destruction," he said in a speech to the Southeast Division of the Texas State Teachers Association.

"With state and local control there is more likelihood of a proper balance in our educational programs. This proper balance can meet the needs of national security without sacrificing the needs of human betterment and progress," Daniel told the group.

Educational Challenge

"The need for better education —from elementary school through college—is a challenge which the states and local school districts have met in the past, and they can do it in the future."

"All federal officials need do is to advise us in advance of the nation's special needs instead of waiting until a deficiency has been exposed, the governor said.

Daniel said Texas can meet its responsibilities "without federal funds and certainly without federal control if only the national government will lay hands off of our school lands and other sources of revenue."

He said the governors of most states agree that the only way to maintain local operation of public schools is for state and local governments to build their own schools and provide the best possible curricula and teaching resources possible without relying on federal funds.

Leopold En Route To Mission Work

CHICAGO (UP) — Nathan Leopold, his strength restored by rest in a "Gold Coast" apartment, paid a fleeting goodby to Chicago Friday before flying off to what he hopes is oblivion.

The 1924 thrill killer, paroled from Stateville Penitentiary Thursday after more than 33 years behind bars, leaves Friday night for the Puerto Rico mission hospital where he will become a $10-a-month X-ray technician.

His only companion was Dr. W. Harold Row, an official of the Church of the Brethren which operates the 30-bed hospital at Castaner, Puerto Rico. They were to stop briefly at New York to change planes and then fly indirectly to Puerto Rico.

Leopold has said it is his only wish that he be permitted to atone for his crimes and complete his five-year parole in peace. He begged reporters not to make him break his pledge to the parole board to avoid any form of publicity.

Freedom's first impact on Leopold wracked him with waves of nausea. He was forced to cancel plans to fly to Puerto Rico Thursday night while he calmed his jitters in the plush 15th floor apartment of an old college classmate, real estate man Abel Brown.

Friday, for the first time in a third of a century, Leopold tasted the luxury of sleeping late. He slept past the prison reveille hour of 6:15 and didn't get out of bed until two hours later.

Then Leopold embarked on another great adventure — a long walk in the open air.

Accompanied by his attorney, Elmer Gertz, the paunchy, 53-year-old parolee stepped briskly out of the Lake Shore Drive apartment house and covered a mile and a half in 35 minutes.

Leopold took his walk through the rich North Side "Gold Coast" area, miles from the South Side neighborhood where he and his friend, Richard Loeb, committed the "crime of the century" in 1924.

Leopold was a self - styled "intellectual savage" of 19 when he and Loeb decided that their brilliant minds and the wealth of their parents placed them above the laws of ordinary men.

Considering themselves "supermen," they plotted and executed what they hoped would be the perfect crime—the kidnaping and murder of a child chosen at random. They abducted 14-year-old Bobby Franks, a friend of the Leopold family, murdered him with a chisel blow to the head, and were captured within a matter of days.

A great defense lawyer, Clarence Darrow, saved the lives of Leopold and Loeb, but they went to prison for life with the siptulation that they should never be paroled. Loeb was killed by a fellow prisoner in 1936, but Leopold lived on to overcome the no-parole order and win freedom.

Measure Would Ban Airlines From Owning TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to prohibit the granting of television broadcast licenses to airlines was introduced Friday.

Sens. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Monroney (D-Okla), cosponsors of the bill, said Congress ought to legislate "now that the Federal Communications Commission is about to re-examine the validity of lines was granted a television its action by which National Airbroadcasting license on Channel 10 out of Miami, Fla.

They added in a joint statement: "We think it is obviously absurd for Congress to permit a law to stand under which an airline is eligible to receive a television license. Certificated airlines operate under the Civil Aronautics Act and draw compensation which may include a subsidy from the government. Television companies however, operate under the Federal Communications Act, an altogether different law.

"Operation of a television station is utterly different from operation of an airline. ... It could easily be that an airline with a television station as its subsidiary could obtain, for example, free advertising for itself which would be altogether unavailable to a competing airline. ...

"More important, one of the principle causes of the concentration of economic power, of the increase of monopolistic practices, and of the rising unemployment problem is the fact that the corporate device is being used in ever-increasing degree to fence our competition."

Columbia Buys Farm Surpluses

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced Friday it has agreed to sell Colombia $8,700,000 worth of farm surpluses. The figure includes ocean transportation costs.

The sale is being made under the agricultural trade development act, which authorizes the acceptance of foreign currencies as payment for surplus U. S. commodities.

The commodities include: Corn —$1,100,000; grain sorghums $500,000; Barley—$500,000; oats — $100,000; soybeans or cotton seed oil—$2,50,000; cotton—$2,800,000; dairy products—$200,000; and tobacco—$500,000.

Ocean transportation cost was estimated at $50,000.

The agreement provides that 25 per cent of the Colombian currency obtained for the products will be set aside for loans to U. S. and Colombian river enterprise in that country.

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Commerce and industry director Curt Siegelin said Friday a team of Louisiana industrial experts will attend the National Development Exposition in New York City April 7-11.

Senate Okays Speedup For Road Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to pump an extra 1½ billion dollars into a speeded-up highway building program this year was approved Friday by the Senate Public Works Committee.

[illegible] committee split over including a billboard control clause, however, will delay sending the measure to the Senate floor before March 22. This will prevent consideration of the bill next week as originally planned.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), chairman of the Public Roads subcommittee and chief sponsor of the meas[illegible] reporter he was confident it still could be passed in [illegible]. He said he was aiming for final congressional action be[illegible] the Easter recess early in April.

[illegible]erts on the Senate committee staff and in the Bureau of Public Roads estimated the extra funds could mean at least 88,000 more jobs this year.

They said the measure probably would result in the spending of 790 million dollars more on roads in 1958 than now is planned counting both federal and state money.

The bill would cause apportionment this year of $1,100,000,000 more in federal funds than now is planned for the interstate system, and 400 million more for the other federal-aid systems.

But not all of this would result in projects being put under contract in the 1958 calendar year. Some of it would set larger programs in motion for 1959.

The interstate is the 41,000-mile superhighway system on which intensive work has been started under the 1956 Highway Act. The others are the primary, secondary or farm-to-market, and urban systems.

The billboard control provision was kept in the bill only by a 7-6 vote.

Bill Would Alter Auditor's Title

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Sen. J. D. DeBlieux said Friday he will introduce in the 1958 Legislature a constitutional proposal to change the state auditor's title to comptroller.

The Baton Rouge lawmaker said he is proposing the step to correct what he believes is a misnomer in describing work of the auditor's office.

The major duty of the state auditor is to process warrants drawn on the Treasury by various state agencies against legislative appropriations.

Newsman Hints A-Sub Contacts With Russians

admiral or a Cabinet member or a president. The reason is simple: There wouldn't be time.

The system says he is Cmdr. Richard B. Laning, captain of the Seawolf, veteran of undersea battles of the Pacific. He can sit tilted back in a chair in the wardroom and laugh at little jokes, remember with a chuckle all the silly things that happened on ships at sea. Or he can stand taut and grim in the control room and snap incisive commands while he tries to guess what the captain of the other ship which might be out there is trying to do.

In these past few days since the search started there have been investigation of a number of possible "contacts." Most of them were "soft," the definition of vague electronic images.

But it was different the other night.

The Seawolf had her whip antenna up to hold radio talk with the other searchers. From a plane came the radioed voice of a pilot, telling of a suspected presence in the water below him.

The telegraph on the control room board had read "one-third ahead." The bell jangled as it moved up to full power, then to "flank" speed.

Lt. Cmdr. Charles S. Carlisle, executive officer — like Laning an undersea veteran of World War II fighting — kept a wary eye on everything: on the radar screen, on the sonar, on the ship's navigation, on the setting up of combat plotting equipment.

Now the area under the spotting plane is near. The Seawolf begins planning down.

The planesmen call out the progress of descent:

"Passing one hundred, sir.

"Passing two hundred, sir."

The deck in the control room slants sharply. Somewhere a dish slides from a table, shatters.

Down, down, hundreds of feet down. The sea is all around out there, squeezing at this steel tube with men in it, clutching at the hull with multiton force.

The steady march of the depth gauge stops; the level is reached. It is a long way to the surface—but also a long way to the bottom. Here is where we hunt.

The silent, creeping search is on.

"Rig for patrol quiet."

Then: "right for ultraquiet."

There is pervading stillness, with only the background sound of air surging through the ventilating system.

But there is, too, the voice of sonar, the cheeping, inquiring note of pinging sound going out into the water, to return in echo if it touches an object.

Sonar paints a visual picture, also. There is the screen where at each impulse a growing circle of green light swells out to the rim, like a wavelet from a pebble dropped into a translucent green pool.

"Battle station tracking party!"

Men hurry to their posts, clamp on headphones, peer intently at gadgets and gauges, start computing equipment. The illumination of the room is only faint red light. It paints shadow-lined faces.

At first, the suspected presence is far away. But the distance closes.

"Range?"

"Two five zero, sir," a man calls out.

Close, real close. Is that object there or there?

There! There! The sonar says, pointing with electronic finger.

Listen. What does the echo seem like on the second gear, what telltale noise is there?

Hear it? A faint whining sound like the hum of a reduction gear on propeller shafts? Or some kind of a strange fish life?

Is "he" out there? Or a big fish, or whale?

Sonar tries to say that it is "he," that he has a steel hide because the echo comes back so sharply.

And what then?

In the interests of security, this account must end without an answer.

committee set up four months ago to try to solve the differences between President Sukarno and his anti-Communist former vice president, Mohammed Hatta.

The action appeared to abolish any chance of a peaceful solution to Indonesia's internal troubles.

Despite the report of the heavy fighting at Pakanbaru, near the Caltex Pacific Oil Co. Headquarters in Central Sumatra, a Caltex spokesman in Singapore said the company was planning to return its employes to Dumai and Sungei Pakning soon.

They are locations of Caltex installations on the east coast of Central Sumatra. The Jakarta government claimed to have seized them both from the rebels.

There still was no confirmation of Jakarta newspaper reports that central government troops had landed on the west coast of Sumatra and were driving toward the key rebel city of Padang.

Registrars Given Pledge Of Support

day led by Fowler discussed the broad discretionary powers of registrars and outlined the procedure for challenging votes.

A registrar can decide not to challenge a voter's registration, the panel said, if the registrar believes the voter is registered legally.

It is necessary to have two affidavits signed by two voters in the parish to initiate a challenge. Then the registrar must issue a written citation to the person challenged and demand proof that the person is legally registered. If the proof is not forthcoming, the person's name can be erased from the voting rolls.

Fowler said if a registrar refuses to issue a challenge, the challenging parties may bring the matter before a court.

The panel decided a parish registrar may set a limit if he believes the number of challenges is disrupting the normal business of his office.

Postal Increases Would Affect City

Monroe residents will pay more than an estimated $100,000 yearly to send letters and packages through the mail, if bills now pending in Congress are made into law.

During the last fiscal year, postage sold from local postoffices amounted to $541,406. If a bill sponsored by the Senate is passed, the same amount of postage would cost approximately $188,600 more. Otherwise a proposal now in the House of Representatives would result in rates rising about $124,200.

Woman Hit By Auto, Injured

BASTROP (Special) — City Police last night said Mrs. Claudine Johnson Nutt, 19, of Bastrop was struck by an auto here about 11:15 a.m. yesterday.

Officials said the woman was hospitalized and complained of a headache, however no bones were reported broken.

According to officers, the woman was struck by a car driven by her husband, William R. Nutt, 21, when she apparently stepped from a car she had been driving.

The incident occurred near the couple's home at 711½ Larche, officials reported. No charges were filed following the woman's injury, police said.

John F. Keller Jr., 101 Delano Dr., said he was driving onto the dam and was flagged by a woman who reported Durham's plight. Keller said he did not enter the water since Marsala and Harrison were already near the struggling boy. He said he drove the boy home to change his wet clothing, and returned him to get his motor and bicycle.

Thanking his rescuers, the boy returned to his residence. He commented that yesterday was his first attempt at boating alone.

No Immediate Refunds Seen On Gas Rates

a rehearing in the Court of Appeals and still not turn toward the U.S. Supreme Court, the rates would be returned to the lower standard automatically.

However, should the company by-pass the possibility of obtaining a rehearing in the Court of Appeals and go to the U.S. Supreme Court, the now increased rates would remain in effect until the Supreme Court either granted the review or turned it down.

In either case, United Gas can block the return to lower rates until action is taken by the courts.

If United Gas asked for and was granted a rehearing in the Circuit Court of Appeals, the increased rates would remain in effect. Should it receive a review before the Supreme Court, the injunction allowing higher rates would remain in effect.

Statement Issued

When contacted in Shreveport late yesterday, Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard issued the following statement:

"It is my hopes that the present decision by the Court of Appeals will be final. In such case, United Gas will have to lower its rates and make refunds to the people of Monroe."

Howard, who is attending the annual convention of the Louisiana Municipal Association, said he did not infer by earlier remarks that lower rates were in effect currently.

"I want to clarify the facts so that there will be no misunderstanding with the people of Monroe," Howard sated. "The increased rates will remain in effect until the court decision is final."

The case went to court over a 1947 franchise. United Gas said the franchise was not valid in the matter of increasing its rates, while the City of Monroe said it was valid.

It first went to state court where the Louisiana Public Service Commission was ruled to have jurisdiction in controlling rates in the City of Monroe. The city took the case to the Louisiana Supreme Court.

Monroe won first; United Gas was awarded the court's second decision, but the city received the favorable ruling the third time the state Supreme Court was asked for a decision.

Praise

A great, good hearted man is Sam Orchard. He is ready to aid in any cause be it Catholic, Protestant or Jewish. To be sure he was raised in the last named faith, but he is one who feels that there is room for all no matter their faith so long as they follow an inmost urge.

Here's a way Sam goes about life with the fury and initiative of a youngster in his teens. When this year started, January was the month of March of Dimes. Sam was named chairman of March of Dimes and did a fine job. When February rolled round, he gave time and thought to that fine Jewish society that all love and respect, B'nai B'rith, and he was active in the selection of the five outstanding men in Jewish circles. Now in March, Sam is as busy as can be for he is on the speakers bureau of the Young Men's Christian association. Sam is the one to pick men to appear before clubs and explain this fine project. Often he fills the engagement himself.

Happy

Mrs. C. C. Lucky, member of two or more garden clubs, is never more happy than when March rolls 'round and her yard is alive with gorgeous camellias.

All through the year she tends these flowers as tenderly as a mother cares for her baby.

When the season comes there are so many flowers that Mrs. Lucky works hard to fill baskets for her neighbors, more distant friends and also she sees that hospitals and convalescent homes are supplied with the beauties.

Dodson said the same type fuels—zinc and sulphur—were used in both experiments. However, 14 pounds of fuels were used yesterday while only five were used in the first.

Morning World correspondent Janice Clark said the rocket shot upward at a "very slight" angle. It fell 20 yards from a blockhouse where Dodson and some of the club members took cover. Other members hid around the field.

Pillar of Smoke

"It rose out of a pillar of smoke," Mrs. Clark said. "At the countdown, there was a tremendous boom and then in a moment another boom."

"Mr. Dodson called out all over the field for the boys to lie flat," she explained. "After 60 seconds had elapsed, we realized the second and third stages weren't going to discharge."

Built of tubes of conduit steel, the rocket was launched from a platform made from a truck wheel. The three sections each had fins.

The ground-level discharge left off a puff of smoke. A second puff appeared in the air.

The second and third stages fell in opposite directions from the first section after the misfiring occurred. The rocket was designed by 17-year-old Jerald Johnson, Crossett High School senior.

AT BANQUET HERE

Founding Father And Guides Meet

The Indian Guides, gathered at the Longhouse were silent. The last of the original chiefs of their tribe — "Lone Wolf" founding father of their organization was about to speak.

The scene was the Parish House of the Grace Episcopal Church where a father and son banquet was being held for the 22 Twin - Cities YMCA Indian guide tribes and their fathers.

The speaker was Harold S. Keltner, retired YMCA secretary with 40 years experience in YMCA work. His subject was Indian stories, and here is why:

Keltner, in the '20's, while working with YMCA, at St. Louis, hit upon an idea to bring father and son together in YMCA work—the romantic Indian of the great outdoors.

While among the Indian tribes of Canada, he made friends with an Indian who he thought would make a perfect symbol.

An Indian trapper and guide, Joe Friday, member of the Ojibway tribe became interested in Keltner's plan. This is the Indian Keltner selected. Friday could neither read nor write.

Talked Convincingly

But he knew woodlore, and brotherhood, and when he talked, he was convincing.

So Keltner, with his Indian guide returned to St. Louis and in the year 1926, Friday began teaching the young boys of a YMCA group about the great outdoors.

Publicity poured from the YMCA chapter to the city papers. It became mandatory for the youthful Indians to have their fathers attend functions, unless of course there was an unadvoidable circumstance.

Movement Spread

The movement spread, more tribes were established into the YMCA program. It spread throughout the city, into other towns and cities and finally, during the last 10 years for the most part, became accepted throughout the country as a vital part of YMCA work.

"Lone Wold," speaking to the boys at the Parish House, had a room full of admiring sons. And brothers. In reality, he has no sons hence the Indian name "Lone Wolf."

Keltner, who is retired from YMCA work, still travels around the country speaking to YMCA groups, "because I'm the last of the original chiefs," lives in St. Louis, vacations in Florida and owns a farm in Missouri.

Joe Friday, the Indian Guide has been dead since three years ago. But he kept at his adapted job of teaching brotherhood and the ways of the outdoors for many years.

To Keltner, the young boys are pals. Purpose of the guides is to foster companionship of father and son. Its slogan, "Pals forever."

Morrison And Howard Win LMA Honors

served as mayor of New Orleans for 12 years. Last month he was elected to his fourth consecutive term by a majority of better than 24,000 votes.

Progress Cited

City progress during his administration included a new railroad passenger terminal building that allowed elimination of 120 grade crossings and 24 over-and-under passes, construction of the 65 million dollar Mississippi River bridge and elimination of 27,000 sub-standard homes.

The selection committee included Mrs. Margaret Dixon, managing editor of The Baton Rouge Morning Advocate; Clarence Faulk, publisher of The Ruston Daily Leader; Kenneth Walker, immediate past president of the Louisiana Press Assn.; and Charles Richardson of the LMA.

Earlier today the LMA voted unanimously to ask the May Legislature to give cities more operating revneue by boosting the state liquor tax and re-apportioning the tobacco tax.

Under the group's proposals, the liquor tax would be increased 40 cents a gallon to produce an estimated $1,800,000 yearly in revenue, and the cigarette tax would be distributed to double cities' portions.

The proposals were among 13 legislative requests approved by members during the 21st annual convention.

Other proposals would change laws to:

Make annexation of land adjacent to municipalities easier, liberalize financing of public works projects, allow three-member commission forms of government to remain when a 40,000 population is reached, and reinstate cities' eligibility to participate in urban redevelopment to get federal money available for slum clearance.

The group also proposed amendments to the state constitution to:

Set up procedure for establishing and operating industrial districts under the state balance-agriculture-with-industry act, and raise the debt limit of political subdivisions from 10 to 17 per cent of the assessed evaluation of taxable property.

Inspection Of ROTC Slated At Northeast

Col. S. A. Ansel will head the inspecting officers from headquarters at San Antonio, Tex.

The visiting group will check cadet instruction and proficiency in drill, weapons, tactics and ROTC facilities.

A formal review and inspection in ranks, held on the drill field near Brown Stadium, will be the main feature of the day. The review is open to the public, officials said.

Mail Delivery In Monroe Extended To 1008 Persons

Starting today, mail delivery in Monroe is extended to approximately 1008 more persons, through establishment of an additional auxiliary route.

Woodrow W. Hathorn, Postmaster, announced the new routes yesterday, and added that residents had previously been notified to provide house numbers and mail boxes at their homes.

The new area includes blocks mainly on either side of DeSiard street.

"have demonstrated their sincerity in their repeated statements that they are willing to exempt the small independent producers" from FPC price regulation.

The bill would exempt producers who are selling less than two billion cubic feet of gas annually in interstate commerce.

"I an satisfied that this measure will pass Congress and become law unless the giant corporations of oil and gas see fit to vigorously oppose it," Long asserted.

He said it was in their own "long-range interest" to go along and not "put themselves in the position of being a dog in the manger."

Expansion Plans Of YMCA Cited By Sam Orchard

Plans for the YMCA expansion in the Twin Cities have been outlined by Sam A. Orchard, who cited figures of the organization, which was formed here in 1954.

He said there were 1,369 program sessions for "Y" members in the Twin Cities last year, and total attendance was 35,999. The operating budget grew from $15,575 to $$44,292 during 1957, he said, and 4,031 persons used the "Y" facilities during that year.

The proposed program of expansion will require a $1,250,000 "Y" building and resident youth camp, Orchard said. Solicitation will begin next month, he added.

Expenses of the solicitation program will be paid for by national headquarters.

Heavy Snowfall Paralyzes East

County where power lines snapped and lights went out in thousands of homes. Suburban trolley service in Delaware County, Pa., was likewise halted when high tension lines broke under the weight of the snow.

To the north, rain, sleet and snow iced highways and caused a 100-car tieup in Phillipston, Mass. Gale winds swept the coastline and hit 65 to 70 miles per hour over Nantucket Island. High tides were expected to create minor flooding.

Jockeys at Lincoln, R.I., decided the snow was too heavy for horseback riding at Lincoln Downs. Five minutes before post time, the 65 riders took a vote and announced they would not ride in the teeth of the whirling storm. About 4,000 racing fans had to turn around and go home.

To the west, an Army helicopter was enlisted to fly supplies to farm families marooned since Feb. 28 by successive blizzards in Kansas. Officials said almost continuous snows in the Smith Center area had blocked roads and kept families from going to town for supplies.

Policeman Says Kohler Workers Feared Attacks

wave of paint bombings and shotgun firings against non-strikers homes were the work of out-of-town "professionals well schooled in that technique." He charged they were brought into town for the strike.

However, he said all efforts to track them down were hampered by "one word—fear."

He said he didn't know for certain who the non-strikers were afraid of. But, he said, "it appears they were afraid of strikers retaliating against their homes, property and members of their families."

No Help From Sheriff

Heimke said he got little or no help from Sherif Theodore Mosch whom he implied was "obligated" to the UAW. He said Mosch—no longer in office — "censured" deputy sheriffs interested in investigating strike incidents and told them "to lay off."

He testified that during a fight that prevented a Kohler clayboat from unloading in 1955 he overheard Mayor Rudolph Ploetz—also no longer in office—ask Mosch: "How much are you obligated to the union for?"

Heimke said Mosch "stuttered and stammered" when he noticed who was listening and the two moved out of earshot.

Mosch has testified that he received a campaign contribution from the UAW.

Heimke, contending the police department "stood alone," said he put on special officers and authorized overtime in an attempt to stop the vandalism and violence.

But he said when "we concentrated on one area it stopped and moved to some other area." He said police believed the vandals were "getting information on our operations from somebody."

He said he appealed to the union for help, but it "refused to assist me in any way."

2 Attempts Beaten Down By Big Votes

called off for now. That was amid signs they didn't have a chance at this point and assurances they will be considered later in the congressional session.

Thus the Senate showed a strengthened inclination to go along with the Eisenhower administration on a let's-wait-and-see approach to using tax reductions for pumping up the sagging economy. The way was still open, however, for such reductions later, if considered advisable.

The Senate rejected Thursday night both a reduction in auto taxes and, by a 71-14 vote, a proposal by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to lop $5,200,000,000 off both excise and personal income taxes.

The Illinois Senator came back Friday with another proposal limited to excise levies. That was turned down on a voice vote.

Then the Senate rejected by a 64-19 roll call vote an amendment by Sen. Yarborough (D-Tex) to cut income taxes by raising individual exemptions from $600 to $800. This plan would have been effective for the remaining months of 1958 only and would have cost the Treasury an estimated 3¾ billion dollars.

It was Republican Sen. Potter of Michigan, where the auto industry is suffering recession and unemployment pangs, who advanced again with an auto tax cut proposal and fell back in the face of certain defeat. It would have cost some 500 million dollars in revenue.

Potter pleaded with the administration and the Senate leadership to take some action because "this is an emergency."

Ordinarily a strong backer of President Eisenhower, Potter told the Senate: "I have been extremely disappointed with the way the recession has been handled by our administration."

He withdrew his amendment when Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) told him it was doomed, and that excise taxes will be considered when the issue of extending them beyond their present June 30 expiration date comes up.

Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) agreed not to press an amendment to wipe out 700 millions in transportation taxes after Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee promised speedy hearings whenever the House Acts.

What the various senators were trying to do was tack some far-reaching riders onto a bill, already passed by the House, to give 124 million dollars of stop-gap relief to life insurance companies on their 1957 taxes.

173 Million Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau Friday estimated the country's population at 173,011,000 on Feb. 1.

This was a gain of 14½ per cent since the regular census in 1950 and an increase of 2,965,000, or 1.7 per cent, in the past year.

Then: "right for ultraquiet."

There is pervading stillness, with only the background sound of air surging through the ventilating system.

But there is, too, the voice of sonar, the cheeping, inquiring note of pinging sound going out into the water, to return in echo if it touches an object.

Sonar paints a visual picture, also. There is the screen where at each impulse a growing circle of green light swells out to the rim, like a wavelet from a pebble dropped into a translucent green pool.

"Battle station tracking party!"

Men hurry to their posts, clamp on headphones, peer intently at gadgets and gauges, start computing equipment. The illumination of the room is only faint red light. It paints shadow-lined faces.

At first, the suspected presence is far away. But the distance closes.

"Range?"

"Two five zero, sir," a man calls out.

Close, real close. Is that object there or there?

There! There! The sonar says, pointing with electronic finger.

Listen. What does the echo seem like on the second gear, what telltale noise is there?

Hear it? A faint whining sound like the hum of a reduction gear on propeller shafts? Or some kind of a strange fish life?

Is "he" out there? Or a big fish, or whale?

Sonar tries to say that it is "he," that he has a steel hide because the echo comes back so sharply.

And what then?

In the interests of security, this account must end without an answer.

Rebels In Indonesia Attacking

committee set up four months ago to try to solve the differences between President Sukarno and his anti-Communist former vice president, Mohammed Hatta.

The action appeared to abolish any chance of a peaceful solution to Indonesia's internal troubles.

Despite the report of the heavy fighting at Pakanbaru, near the Caltex Pacific Oil Co. Headquarters in Central Sumatra, a Caltex spokesman in Singapore said the company was planning to return its employes to Dumai and Sungei Pakning soon.

They are locations of Caltex installations on the east coast of Central Sumatra. The Jakarta government claimed to have seized them both from the rebels.

There still was no confirmation of Jakarta newspaper reports that central government troops had landed on the west coast of Sumatra and were driving toward the key rebel city of Padang.

Registrars Given Pledge Of Support

day led by Fowler discussed the broad discretionary powers of registrars and outlined the procedure for challenging votes.

A registrar can decide not to challenge a voter's registration, the panel said, if the registrar believes the voter is registered legally.

It is necessary to have two affidavits signed by two voters in the parish to initiate a challenge. Then the registrar must issue a written citation to the person challenged and demand proof that the person is legally registered. If the proof is not forthcoming, the person's name can be erased from the voting rolls.

Fowler said if a registrar refuses to issue a challenge, the challenging parties may bring the matter before a court.

The panel decided a parish registrar may set a limit if he believes the number of challenges is disrupting the normal business of his office.

Postal Increases Would Affect City

Monroe residents will pay more than an estimated $100,000 yearly to send letters and packages through the mail, if bills now pending in Congress are made into law.

During the last fiscal year, postage sold from local postoffices amounted to $541,406. If a bill sponsored by the Senate is passed, the same amount of postage would cost approximately $188,600 more. Otherwise a proposal now in the House of Representatives would result in rates rising about $124,200.

Woman Hit By Auto, Injured

BASTROP (Special) — City Police last night said Mrs. Claudine Johnson Nutt, 19, of Bastrop was struck by an auto here about 11:15 a.m. yesterday.

Officials said the woman was hospitalized and complained of a headache, however no bones were reported broken.

According to officers, the woman was struck by a car driven by her husband, William R. Nutt, 21, when she apparently stepped from a car she had been driving.

The incident occurred near the couple's home at 711½ Larche, officials reported. No charges were filed following the woman's injury, police said.

John F. Keller Jr., 101 Delano Dr., said he was driving onto the dam and was flagged by a woman who reported Durham's plight. Keller said he did not enter the water since Marsala and Harrison were already near the struggling boy. He said he drove the boy home to change his wet clothing, and returned him to get his motor and bicycle.

Thanking his rescuers, the boy returned to his residence. He commented that yesterday was his first attempt at boating alone.

No Immediate Refunds Seen On Gas Rates

a rehearing in the Court of Appeals and still not turn toward the U.S. Supreme Court, the rates would be returned to the lower standard automatically.

However, should the company by-pass the possibility of obtaining a rehearing in the Court of Appeals and go to the U.S. Supreme Court, the now increased rates would remain in effect until the Supreme Court either granted the review or turned it down.

In either case, United Gas can block the return to lower rates until action is taken by the courts.

If United Gas asked for and was granted a rehearing in the Circuit Court of Appeals, the increased rates would remain in effect. Should it receive a review before the Supreme Court, the injunction allowing higher rates would remain in effect.

Statement Issued

When contacted in Shreveport late yesterday, Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard issued the following statement:

"It is my hopes that the present decision by the Court of Appeals will be final. In such case, United Gas will have to lower its rates and make refunds to the people of Monroe."

Howard, who is attending the annual convention of the Louisiana Municipal Association, said he did not infer by earlier remarks that lower rates were in effect currently.

"I want to clarify the facts so that there will be no misunderstanding with the people of Monroe," Howard sated. "The increased rates will remain in effect until the court decision is final."

The case went to court over a 1947 franchise. United Gas said the franchise was not valid in the matter of increasing its rates, while the City of Monroe said it was valid.

It first went to state court where the Louisiana Public Service Commission was ruled to have jurisdiction in controlling rates in the City of Monroe. The city took the case to the Louisiana Supreme Court.

Monroe won first; United Gas was awarded the court's second decision, but the city received the favorable ruling the third time the state Supreme Court was asked for a decision.

Praise

A great, good hearted man is Sam Orchard. He is ready to aid in any cause be it Catholic, Protestant or Jewish. To be sure he was raised in the last named faith, but he is one who feels that there is room for all no matter their faith so long as they follow an inmost urge.

Here's a way Sam goes about life with the fury and initiative of a youngster in his teens. When this year started, January was the month of March of Dimes. Sam was named chairman of March of Dimes and did a fine job. When February rolled round, he gave time and thought to that fine Jewish society that all love and respect, B'nai B'rith, and he was active in the selection of the five outstanding men in Jewish circles. Now in March, Sam is as busy as can be for he is on the speakers bureau of the Young Men's Christian association. Sam is the one to pick men to appear before clubs and explain this fine project. Often he fills the engagement himself.

Happy

Mrs. C. C. Lucky, member of two or more garden clubs, is never more happy than when March rolls 'round and her yard is alive with gorgeous camellias.

All through the year she tends these flowers as tenderly as a mother cares for her baby.

When the season comes there are so many flowers that Mrs. Lucky works hard to fill baskets for her neighbors, more distant friends and also she sees that hospitals and convalescent homes are supplied with the beauties.

Dodson said the same type fuels —zinc and sulphur—were used in both experiments. However, 14 pounds of fuels were used yesterday while only five were used in the first.

Morning World correspondent Janice Clark said the rocket shot upward at a "very slight" angle. It fell 20 yards from a blockhouse where Dodson and some of the club members took cover. Other members hid around the field.

Pillar of Smoke

"It rose out of a pillar of smoke," Mrs. Clark said. "At the countdown, there was a tremendous boom and then in a moment another boom."

"Mr. Dodson called out all over the field for the boys to lie flat," she explained. "After 60 seconds had elapsed, we realized the second and third stages weren't going to discharge."

Built of tubes of conduit steel, the rocket was launched from a platform made from a truck wheel. The three sections each had fins.

The ground-level discharge left off a puff of smoke. A second puff appeared in the air.

AT BANQUET HERE

Founding Father And Guides Meet

The Indian Guides, gathered at the Longhouse were silent. The last of the original chiefs of their tribe — "Lone Wolf" founding father of their organization was about to speak.

The scene was the Parish House of the Grace Episcopal Church where a father and son banquet was being held for the 22 Twin - Cities YMCA Indian guide tribes and their fathers.

The speaker was Harold S. Keltner, retired YMCA secretary with 40 years experience in YMCA work. His subject was Indian stories, and here is why:

Keltner, in the '20's, while working with YMCA, at St. Louis, hit upon an idea to bring father and son together in YMCA work—the romantic Indian of the great outdoors.

While among the Indian tribes of Canada, he made friends with an Indian who he thought would make a perfect symbol.

An Indian trapper and guide, Joe Friday, member of the Ojibway tribe became interested in Keltner's plan. This is the Indian Keltner selected. Friday could neither read nor write.

Talked Convincingly

But he knew woodlore, and brotherhood, and when he talked, he was convincing.

So Keltner, with his Indian guide returned to St. Louis and in the year 1926, Friday began teaching the young boys of a YMCA group about the great outdoors.

Publicity poured from the YMCA chapter to the city papers. It became mandatory for the youthful Indians to have their fathers attend functions, unless of course there was an unadvoidable circumstance.

Movement Spread

The movement spread, more tribes were established into the YMCA program. It spread throughout the city, into other towns and cities and finally, during the last 10 years for the most part, became accepted throughout the country as a vital part of YMCA work.

"Lone Wold," speaking to the boys at the Parish House, had a room full of admiring sons. And brothers. In reality, he has no sons hence the Indian name "Lone Wolf."

Keltner, who is retired from YMCA work, still travels around the country speaking to YMCA groups, "because I'm the last of the original chiefs," lives in St. Louis, vacations in Florida and owns a farm in Missouri.

Joe Friday, the Indian Guide has been dead since three years ago. But he kept at his adapted job of teaching brotherhood and the ways of the outdoors for many years.

To Keltner, the young boys are pals. Purpose of the guides is to foster companionship of father and son. Its slogan, "Pals forever."

HAROLD S. KELTNER

served as mayor of New Orleans for 12 years. Last month he was elected to his fourth consecutive term by a majority of better than 24,000 votes.

Progress Cited

City progress during his administration included a new railroad passenger terminal building that allowed elimination of 120 grade crossings and 24 over-and-under passes, construction of the 65 million dollar Mississippi River bridge and elimination of 27,000 sub-standard homes.

The selection committee included Mrs. Margaret Dixon, managing editor of The Baton Rouge Morning Advocate; Clarence Faulk, publisher of The Ruston Daily Leader; Kenneth Walker, immediate past president of the Louisiana Press Assn.; and Charles Richardson of the LMA.

Earlier today the LMA voted unanimously to ask the May Legislature to give cities more operating revneue by boosting the state liquor tax and re-apportioning the tobacco tax.

Under the group's proposals, the liquor tax would be increased 40 cents a gallon to produce an estimated $1,800,000 yearly in revenue, and the cigarette tax would be distributed to double cities' portions.

The proposals were among 13 legislative requests approved by members during the 21st annual convention.

Other proposals would change laws to:

Make annexation of land adjacent to municipalities easier, liberalize financing of public works projects, allow three-member commission forms of government to remain when a 40,000 population is reached, and reinstate cities' eligibility to participate in urban redevelopment to get federal money available for slum clearance.

The group also proposed amendments to the state constitution to:

Set up procedure for establishing and operating industrial districts under the state balance-agriculture-with-industry act, and raise the debt limit of political subdivisions from 10 to 17 per cent of the assessed evaluation of taxable property.

Inspection Of ROTC Slated At Northeast

A general inspection of Northeast's Army Reserve Officers Training Corps will be made Wednesday when fourth army officials will be here as part of the annual procedure.

Col. S. A. Ansel will head the inspecting officers from headquarters at San Antonio, Tex.

The visiting group will check cadet instruction and proficiency in drill, weapons, tactics and ROTC facilities.

A formal review and inspection in ranks, held on the drill field near Brown Stadium, will be the main feature of the day. The review is open to the public, officials said.

Mail Delivery In Monroe Extended To 1008 Persons

Starting today, mail delivery in Monroe is extended to approximately 1008 more persons, through establishment of an additional auxiliary route.

Woodrow W. Hathorn, Postmaster, announced the new routes yesterday, and added that residents had previously been notified to provide house numbers and mail boxes at their homes.

The new area includes blocks mainly on either side of DeSiard street.

Substitute Gas Measure Introduced

"have demonstrated their sincerity in their repeated statements that they are willing to exempt the small independent producers" from FPC price regulation.

The bill would exempt producers who are selling less than two billion cubic feet of gas annually in interstate commerce.

"I an satisfied that this measure will pass Congress and become law unless the giant corporations of oil and gas see fit to vigorously oppose it," Long asserted.

He said it was in their own "long-range interest" to go along and not "put themselves in the position of being a dog in the manger."

Expansion Plans Of YMCA Cited By Sam Orchard

Plans for the YMCA expansion in the Twin Cities have been outlined by Sam A. Orchard, who cited figures of the organization, which was formed here in 1954.

He said there were 1,369 program sessions for "Y" members in the Twin Cities last year, and total attendance was 35,999. The operating budget grew from $15,575 to $$44,292 during 1957, he said, and 4,031 persons used the "Y" facilities during that year.

The proposed program of expansion will require a $1,250,000 "Y" building and resident youth camp, Orchard said. Solicitation will begin next month, he added.

Expenses of the solicitation program will be paid for by national headquarters.

Heavy Snowfall Paralyzes East

County where power lines snapped and lights went out in thousands of homes. Suburban trolley service in Delaware County, Pa., was likewise halted when high tension lines broke under the weight of the snow.

To the north, rain, sleet and snow iced highways and caused a 100-car tieup in Phillipston, Mass. Gale winds swept the coastline and hit 65 to 70 miles per hour over Nantucket Island. High tides were expected to create minor flooding.

Jockeys at Lincoln, R.I., decided the snow was too heavy for horseback riding at Lincoln Downs. Five minutes before post time, the 65 riders took a vote and announced they would not ride in the teeth of the whirling storm. About 4,000 racing fans had to turn around and go home.

To the west, an Army helicopter was enlisted to fly supplies to farm families marooned since Feb. 28 by successive blizzards in Kansas. Officials said almost continuous snows in the Smith Center area had blocked roads and kept families from going to town for supplies.

Policeman Says Kohler Workers Feared Attacks

wave of paint bombings and shotgun firings against non-strikers homes were the work of out-of-town "professionals well schooled in that technique." He charged they were brought into town for the strike.

However, he said all efforts to track them down were hampered by "one word—fear."

He said he didn't know for certain who the non-strikers were afraid of. But, he said, "it appears they were afraid of strikers retaliating against their homes, property and members of their families."

No Help From Sheriff

Heimke said he got little or no help from Sheriff Theodore Mosch whom he implied was "obligated" to the UAW. He said Mosch—no longer in office — "censured" deputy sheriffs interested in investigating strike incidents and told them "to lay off."

He testified that during a fight that prevented a Kohler clayboat from unloading in 1955 he overheard Mayor Rudolph Ploetz—also no longer in office—ask Mosch: "How much are you obligated to the union for?"

Heimke said Mosch "stuttered and stammered" when he noticed who was listening and the two moved out of earshot.

Mosch has testified that he received a campaign contribution from the UAW.

Heimke, contending the police department "stood alone," said he put on special officers and authorized overtime in an attempt to stop the vandalism and violence.

But he said when "we concentrated on one area it stopped and moved to some other area." He said police believed the vandals were "getting information on our operations from somebody."

He said he appealed to the union for help, but it "refused to assist me in any way."

2 Attempts Beaten Down By Big Votes

called off for now. That was amid signs they didn't have a chance at this point and assurances they will be considered later in the congressional session.

Thus the Senate showed a strengthened inclination to go along with the Eisenhower administration on a let's-wait-and-see approach to using tax reductions for pumping up the sagging economy. The way was still open, however, for such reductions later, if considered advisable.

The Senate rejected Thursday night both a reduction in auto taxes and, by a 71-14 vote, a proposal by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to lop $5,200,000,000 off both excise and personal income taxes.

The Illinois Senator came back Friday with another proposal limited to excise levies. That was turned down on a voice vote.

Then the Senate rejected by a 64-19 roll call vote an amendment by Sen. Yarborough (D-Tex) to cut income taxes by raising individual exemptions from $600 to $800. This plan would have been effective for the remaining months of 1958 only and would have cost the Treasury an estimated 3¾ billion dollars.

It was Republican Sen. Potter of Michigan, where the auto industry is suffering recession and unemployment pangs, who advanced again with an auto tax cut proposal and fell back in the face of certain defeat. It would have cost some 500 million dollars in revenue.

Potter pleaded with the administration and the Senate leadership to take some action because "this is an emergency."

Ordinarily a strong backer of President Eisenhower, Potter told the Senate: "I have been extremely disappointed with the way the recession has been handled by our administration."

He withdrew his amendment when Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) told him it was doomed, and that excise taxes will be considered when the issue of extending them beyond their present June 30 expiration date comes up.

Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) agreed not to press an amendment to wipe out 700 millions in transportation taxes after Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee promised speedy hearings whenever the House Acts.

What the various senators were trying to do was tack some far-reaching riders onto a bill, already passed by the House, to give 124 million dollars of stopgap relief to life insurance companies on their 1957 taxes.

173 Million Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau Friday estimated the country's population at 173,011,000 on Feb. 1.

This was a gain of 14½ per cent since the regular census in 1950 and an increase of 2,965,000, or 1.7 per cent, in the past year.

COTTON LETTER

Futures closed lower despite the rally late in the session as substantial profit taking and professional selling had to be absorbed. New crop months met increased support as they approached the 36.00 level. Clayton's brokers were offering May in New Orleans and bought around 5,000 bales of December in New York, believed a new position.

The New York Cotton Exchange estimated total cotton consumption for the four week period ending March 1 at 655,000 bales for a daily rate of 32,800 bales vs. 32,000 during the previous period.

The governments 30 day weather forecast from mid-March to mid-April predicts precipitation will exceed normal over the cottoon producing areas. There were notices of further mill curtailments from 6 days to 5 days due to increased inventories and slow business.

Stock Market Pares Its Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—In a cautious pre-weekend session the stock market Friday pared some of this week's gains.

Trading simmered down to 2,150,000 shares from yesterday's 2,830,000.

Key stocks declined fractions to a point or so. A selection of specialties bucked the trend and made good gains, illustrating statements by some analysts that this is an "opportunity" market.

To pick a winner was more difficult than on previous sessions this week as lowers outnumbered gainers by 509 to 370, a more unfavorable ratio than on the four other sessions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 30 cents to $163.70 with the industrials off 10 cents, the rails down 80 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks declined, 6 rose and 1 was unchanged. Meat packing issues continued to do well on Wall Street opinion that the industry is now in an advantageous price position.

Corporate bonds improved in light trading.

U. S. government bonds were higher in slow dealings over the counter.

COTTON

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures closed 30 to 65 cents a bale lower in slow dealings Friday although final prices were above earlier lows.

Commission house profit taking and hedging at one time extended losses to as much as $1.20 a bale. A partial recovery was helped by the purchase of a few thousand bales of December contracts by a leading Houston spot firm. This brought short covering by professional traders.

In addition, indications that profit taking may have run its course influenced some replacement buying. Switching operators were fairly active.

The Department of Agriculture authorized $960,000 for Finland to purchase 5,400 bales of cotton. The contracting period will end June 30 with Sept. 30 the final delivery date.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimated February cotton consumption at 655,000 bales compared with 688,000 in the similar period a year earlier. Indicated consumption so far this season for the 30-week period Aug. 4-March 1 approximated 4,828,000 bales against 5,249,000 in the 31-week period July 29 to March 2, 1957.

Futures closed 30 to 65 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

WOOL LETTER

Futures held in a narrow range with light new commission house and trade buying offset by unaggressive trade hedge selling. There were no notices issued yesterday with last notice day for the March contract Monday, March 24th.

There were no auctions held in Australia yesterday with New Zealand reporting that prices held very steady there. A cable from Japan stated that worsted yarn output may be cut an additional five per cent effective April 1st because of current overproduction in yarn.

Japanese officials indicated that when business improves they will increase their currency allocations for the purchase of raw wool in the Australian market. London futures, in moderately light trading closed virtually unchanged with operators evening up positions prior to the week end.

There have been a total of 40 notices issued in London against the March position which is somewhat less than had been anticipated. Their spot month was very steady yesterday.

Pair Claims Innocence In Robbery

MEMPHIS (AP)—A plea of innocent to a charge of robbery was entered in city court Friday by J. A. Sanders, 28, Covington, Tenn., and Mrs. Edna Cross, 42, Memphis. They were bound to the state.

They were arrested yesterday after a wild chase in which police shot out a rear tire of the fleeing car. Officers said Mrs. Cross was driving, with Sanders hidden in the trunk.

The chase started at an all-night restaurant. Officers said Sanders, using a toy pistol, held up the restaurant and had just gotten in the car trunk when a cruising police car came up.

COTTON LETTER

Courtesy of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith

Futures closed lower despite the rally late in the session as substantial profit taking and professional selling had to be absorbed. New crop months met increased support as they approached the 36.00 level. Clayton's brokers were offering May in New Orleans and bought around 5,000 bales of December in New York, believed a new position.

The New York Cotton Exchange estimated total cotton consumption for the four week period ending March 1 at 655,000 bales for a daily rate of 32,800 bales vs. 32,000 during the previous period.

The governments 30 day weather forecast from mid-March to mid-April predicts precipitation will exceed normal over the cottoon producing areas. There were notices of further mill curtailments from 6 days to 5 days due to increased inventories and slow business.

Stock Market Pares Its Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—In a cautious pre-weekend session the stock market Friday pared some of this week's gains.

Trading simmered down to 2,150,000 shares from yesterday's 2,830,000.

Key stocks declined fractions to a point or so. A selection of specialties bucked the trend and made good gains, illustrating statements by some analysts that this is an "opportunity" market.

To pick a winner was more difficult than on previous sessions this week as lowers outnumbered gainers by 509 to 370, a more unfavorable ratio than on the four other sessions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 30 cents to $163.70 with the industrials off 10 cents, the rails down 80 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks declined, 6 rose and 1 was unchanged. Meat packing issues continued to do well on Wall Street opinion that the industry is now in an advantageous price position.

Corporate bonds improved in light trading.

U. S. government bonds were higher in slow dealings over the counter.

COTTON

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures closed 30 to 65 cents a bale lower in slow dealings Friday although final prices were above earlier lows.

Commission house profit taking and hedging at one time extended losses to as much as $1.20 a bale. A partial recovery was helped by the purchase of a few thousand bales of December contracts by a leading Houston spot firm. This brought short covering by professional traders.

In addition, indications that profit taking may have run its course influenced some replacement buying. Switching operators were fairly active.

The Department of Agriculture authorized $960,000 for Finland to purchase 5,400 bales of cotton. The contracting period will end June 30 with Sept. 30 the final delivery date.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimated February cotton consumption at 655,000 bales compared with 688,000 in the similar period a year earlier. Indicated consumption so far this season for the 30-week period Aug. 4-March 1 approximated 4,828,000 bales against 5,249,000 in the 31-week period July 29 to March 2, 1957.

Futures closed 30 to 65 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

WOOL LETTER

Futures held in a narrow range with light new commission house and trade buying offset by unaggressive trade hedge selling. There were no notices issued yesterday with last notice day for the March contract Monday, March 24th.

There were no auctions held in Australia yesterday with New Zealand reporting that prices held very steady there. A cable from Japan stated that worsted yarn output may be cut an additional five per cent effective April 1st because of current overproduction in yarn.

Japanese officials indicated that when business improves they will increase their currency allocations for the purchase of raw wool in the Australian market. London futures, in moderately light trading closed virtually unchanged with operators evening up positions prior to the week end.

There have been a total of 40 notices issued in London against the March position which is somewhat less than had been anticipated. Their spot month was very steady yesterday.

They were arrested yesterday after a wild chase in which police shot out a rear tire of the fleeing car. Officers said Mrs. Cross was driving, with Sanders hidden in the trunk.

West Monroe Girls Cop Crown; Beat Terrebonne

HOUMA, La. (Special) — The West Monroe High basketball girls controlled the backboards, got some fancy shooting by Nancey Smith and Ann Chapman and showed the necessary defense to turn back Terrebonne here tonight in the state triple-A championship final. It was the second state title in five years of existence of the north Louisiana school.

Miss Smith, looking like a sure thing for all-state, counted 27 points on nine field baskets and nine gift shots for high scoring honors of the game. Miss Chapman supported her with 19 points. Judy Price, without benefit of a field goal, was high scorer for Terrebonne as she had a perfect night at the foul line, hooping 16 one-pointers. Judy Lirette was No. 2 for the Houma girls with 14.

West Monroe, given an even battle by Terrebonne in the first and last quarter, piled up its advantage in the middle periods by leading 13-10 in second quarter scoring and 10-5 in third quarter counting. The rivals were 13-13 for the first quarter and 14-14 for the final period.

Ruby McLin and Patricia May shared forward responsibilities for West Monroe which had excellent guarding from Glenda Goyne, Patsy Rigers, Ruth Gilbert, and Judy Hicks.

NAIA Schools Take Pro Football Rules

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Friday changed its football rules to conform with those of the professional game, including free substitution.

Heretofore, the NAIA football code generally paralleled that of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA).

The new rules also are used by junior colleges and high schools. Since 1957, the NAIA has been allied in all sports except football with the National Junior College Athletic Assn., and the National Federation of State High Schools Activities Assn.

The action, adopted at an NAIA membership meeting, completes the cooperative tie-up, known officially as the National Alliance Athletic Assn.

One of the strongest reasons for the rules alliance, an NAIA source said, is to achieve consistency.

"We have been teaching high school football players under one set of rules. When they got to college, they played under another set of rules. Then, when they graduated, if they became high school coaches they changed back to the rules they played under there. The same has been true if they entered professional football where the rules closely approximate those used in high school. It was highly confusing."

A noticeable difference in the new NAIA football code is the platoon system, or free substitution rule. The modified code also allows one player on a team to confer with a coach at the sideline during time outs; a fumble or backward pass may be recovered and advanced by any player, and a successful try-for - point after touchdown is scored as one point, no matter how made.

Mrs. Hagge Nabs Lead At Augusta

By JACK SIMMS

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Marlene Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla., rammed home an 18-foot putt on the 18th hole Friday to grab a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the 72-hole womens Titleholders Golf Tournament.

The 5-foot, 3-inch, professional covered the windswept Augusta Country Club course in 75 shots, three over men's par. Her opening round 74 gave the 24-year-old Mrs. Hagge a 149 total.

Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, was second with a 74-76—150.

Then came Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., at 154.

Gusty winds and cool weather combined to send more scores into the 80s.

Mrs. Hagge had her putter working to perfection. She took only 35 putts on the 6,290 - yard course. And she was on the green in the regulation number of strokes on all but three holes.

Miss Crocker, who was tied with Mrs. Hagge and Miss Dodd at 74 going into Friday's play, got home in 37 strokes after going out in 39. She had one birdie on a par-three hole to go with 5 bogies and 12 par holes.

Miss Berg stood a stroke off the pace with a 73 after the first round. She injured a knee and ankle when she fell shortly before the start. A doctor said the 40-year-old veteran sprained both the knee and ankle. He taped the injured areas and she played the round in 79.

Miss Hanson was limping badly with pain when she finished. The 5-9 blonde said the cold weather had brought on a recurrence of back ailment. She shot an 80.

The best round of the day came from the clubs of Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga. She shot a sizzling one-under par 35 on the back nine after going out in 39. Her 74 was one shot better than Mrs. Hagge's card.

Miss Faulk was second from the bottom in the field of 55. She was penalized 36 strokes for having more clubs in her bag during first round play than the limit of 14. Her card was 118-74—192.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., clung to her lead in the battle for amateur honors. She had a 75-83—158 for 10th position and five strokes ahead of the next amateur.

COAST-TO-COAST

Big League Weather Changes With Shift

By BOB MYERS

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The sharp contrast in weather between the East and Midwest and the West Coast may pose a problem, and the hardest hit might be the San Francisco Giants.

That was the prediction of Bob Scheffing, manager of the Chicago Cubs, who can speak with personal experience.

Big Bob was in and out of San Francisco in 1955-56 when he managed Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast League. And his major league experience includes the years 1941 to 1950 catching for the Cubs.

Scheffing doesn't intend to get into a controversy with any of the various chambers of commerce involved in the National League.

But since the Giants left New York for San Francisco and the Brooklyn Dodgers now are in Los Angeles, playing conditions will be different in the coast-to-coast circuit.

"It can get awfully hot and muggy in the summer in St. Louis or Philadelphia, and it can get very cold and windy in San Francisco," Scheffing observed.

"It won't be too bad for a club to go into a series on the Coast after bucking a heat wave in the East and Midwest. The visiting players, in fact, will find the change peppy.

"But say the Giants, or Los Angeles to a lesser degree, have had a long stay at home. They're used to cold days and nights.

"So what happens when they end their long home stay and in a matter of a few hours they land in St. Louis and hit the heat and intense humidity?

"They're going to suffer a lot more than the teams that live and get used to this kind of weather.

"There'll be a contrast, of course, as far as Los Angeles is concerned. It can get cool at night, but the Dodgers, from what I hear, will encounter plenty of hot weather. They tell me the floor of the Coliseum can get as hot as an oven in July and August."

Bob could have added September to the calendar, too. Some of Los Angeles' hottest days occur then.

The Giants have 21 night games at home, Los Angeles about 35. Scheffing predicted also there will be more full-game performances by the pitchers at San Francisco.

"Once a starter gets loosed up it's fine. But the coolness is hard on the bull-pen pitchers.

REBEL GRID GAME

Seniors Humble Undergrads, 33-0

The "old grads" crushed the 1958 edition of the West Monroe Rebels, 33-0, last night at Brown Stadium in the Rebs spring training intrasquad football game.

The graduating seniors halted the underclassmen's only serious threat on the six, in the first quarter and rammed home two touchdowns in the second period, another in the third and two in the final quarter.

All of them members of last year's Rebel first team that won 7 games and lost 3 for the school's best record in history, the seniors held the juniors well in check after the first quarter and had a big edge in first downs, 11-4. They scored twice on runs, twice with passes and got their other TD on Harry Barfoot's 40-yard jaunt with a loose ball.

After the juniors had gone to the four in the first quarter on the running of Jerry Stovall and the passing of Ronnie Farmer, the seniors pushed them back to the 6 and took over. From there they drove 94 yards for a touchdown with Robert Perkins going three yards around end for the six points. Mickey Bass went over tackle to make it 7-0.

Guard Larry Green recovered a fumble on the juniors' 34 to set up the seniors second touchdown. Perkins passed 34 yards to Don Hudson for the score and it was 13-0 at the half.

The seniors took the second half kickoff and went 69 yards for their third score with Johnny Huntsman throwing 19 yard to James Farmer to make it 19-0. Huntsman kicked the point-after and it was 20-0.

A beautiful punt return by Huntsman set up the seniors next TD and Ford went five yards around left end to score it. Giant tackle Joe Watts attempted to run for the PAT but didn't make it and it was 26-0.

Barfoot added the last TD in the fourth when he picked up Ronnie Farmer's attempted pitchout on the 40 and rambled all the way. Perkins passed to Ford for the final point to make it 33-0.

VENTURI ON HEELS

Fine 65 Puts Doug Ford In Front At Pensacola

By STAN ATKINS

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Everything went right for Doug Ford Friday and the veteran Mohapac, N. Y., pro jumped into the lead in the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament with a flashy seven under par 65.

The round gave Ford a 36-hole total of 70-65—135 and a one stroke lead over young Ken Venturi.

Venturi, who "learned" the course Friday, had a 33-33—66 to go with his opening round 70. He and Ford had been in a nine-way tie for 13th place going into the round.

Ford's hot round spelled a definite end to the slump the 1957 Masters champion had encountered on the winter pro circuit. The 32-33—65 card, Ford's best of the year, came on seven birdies and the rest even pars.

Venturi, the 26-year-old San Francisco stylist, shot a round that was a model of consistency. He had three birdies on the front nine, three on the back, and was never over par on the other 12 holes.

"I'm knocking at the door now," the confident Venturi said after coming off the course. "I've learned the course. I was surer of myself."

The slender 6-foot star's first round 70 was remarkable in that it was the first time he had ever played the 6,325-yard par 36-36—72 course.

Ted Kroll, the Sarasota, Fla., veteran, also had a 33-32—65 for a second round total of 74-65—139.

Art Wall Jr., the defending champion, played in the same threesome with Venturi and came home with a 32-35—67. Wall, from Pocono Manor, Pa., now has 71-67—138.

Another at the 138 level was Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, with 68-70. Also in the upper brackets was Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill., the 1956 Pensacola champion, who had 71-69—140.

The leaders:

Doug Ford	70-65—135
Ken Venturi	70-66—136
Frank Stranahan	68-70—138

It was the second state title in five years of existence of the north Louisiana school.

Miss Smith, looking like a sure thing for all-state, counted 27 points on nine field baskets and nine gift shots for high scoring honors of the game. Miss Chapman supported her with 19 points. Judy Price, without benefit of a field goal, was high scorer for Terrebonne as she had a perfect night at the foul line, hooping 16 one-pointers. Judy Lirette was No. 2 for the Houma girls with 14.

West Monroe, given an even battle by Terrebonne in the first and last quarter, piled up its advantage in the middle periods by leading 13-10 in second quarter scoring and 10-5 in third quarter counting. The rivals were 13-13 for the first quarter and 14-14 for the final period.

Ruby McLin and Patricia May shared forward responsibilities for West Monroe which had excellent guarding from Glenda Goyne, Patsy Rigers, Ruth Gilbert, and Judy Hicks.

VENTURI ON HEELS

Fine 65 Puts Doug Ford In Front At Pensacola

By STAN ATKINS

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Everything went right for Doug Ford Friday and the veteran Mohapac, N. Y., pro jumped into the lead in the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament with a flashy seven under par 65.

The round gave Ford a 36-hole total of 70-65—135 and a one stroke lead over young Ken Venturi.

Venturi, who "learned" the course Friday, had a 33-33—66 to go with his opening round 70. He and Ford had been in a nine-way tie for 13th place going into the round.

Ford's hot round spelled a definite end to the slump the 1957 Masters champion had encountered on the winter pro circuit. The 32-33—65 card, Ford's best of the year, came on seven birdies and the rest even pars.

Venturi, the 26-year-old San Francisco stylist, shot a round that was a model of consistency. He had three birdies on the front nine, three on the back, and was never over par on the other 12 holes.

"I'm knocking at the door now," the confident Venturi said after coming off the course. "I've learned the course. I was surer of myself."

The slender 6-foot star's first round 70 was remarkable in that it was the first time he had ever played the 6,325-yard par 36-36—72 course.

Ted Kroll, the Sarasota, Fla., veteran, also had a 33-32—65 for a second round total of 74-65—139.

Art Wall Jr., the defending champion, played in the same threesome with Venturi and came home with a 32-35—67. Wall, from Pocono Manor, Pa., now has 71-67—138.

Another at the 138 level was Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, with 68-70. Also in the upper brackets was Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill., the 1956 Pensacola champion, who had 71-69—140.

The leaders:

Doug Ford	70-65—135
Ken Venturi	70-66—136
Frank Stranahan	68-70—138

Shortstop Harry "Red" Rushing, beginning his third year as a member of Coach George Luffey's Northeast State baseball team, has been named captain of the Redskin diamond crew that opens its season Monday against Missippi College at Clinton, Miss.

Rushing, a product of Pioneer High School where he was coached by Buddy Head, was elected by popular vote of the Northeast baseball club. He is a major in health and physical education at Northeast and is due to graduate next year.

A third baseman before he was moved to shortstop by Coach Luffey last year, Rushing, a 21-year-old, is married and is the father of one child.

"Harry is looking mighty good," Coach Luffey said. "He's really an improved ball player with a lot more confidence this year. He will certainly do us a lot of good."

After the Mississippi College game Monday, the Tribe will return to Monroe to prepare for its home opener March 22 against Arkansas A. and M.

Italian Upsets Barry MacKay In Egypt Meet

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy upset top-seeded Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, Friday, 17-19, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, for a finalist berth in Egypt's International Tennis Tournament.

The tall, hard-hitting MacKay lost much of his resistance after the long first set, which lasted one hour and 20 minutes and provoked heated disputes.

Pietrangeli, rated one of the best players in Europe, will meet an Italian Davis Cup teammate, Giuseppe Merlo, for the championship Sunday. Merlo won over Badr Eldin of Egypt 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., and Miss Vassiliadis of Egypt won the women's doubles title.

NAIA Schools Take Pro Football Rules

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Friday changed its football rules to conform with those of the professional game, including free substitution.

Heretofore, the NAIA football code generally paralleled that of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA).

The new rules also are used by junior colleges and high schools. Since 1957, the NAIA has been allied in all sports except football with the National Junior College Athletic Assn., and the National Federation of State High Schools Activities Assn.

The action, adopted at an NAIA membership meeting, completes the cooperative tie-up, known officially as the National Alliance Athletic Assn.

One of the strongest reasons for the rules alliance, an NAIA source said, is to achieve consistency.

"We have been teaching high school football players under one set of rules. When they got to college, they played under another set of rules. Then, when they graduated, if they became high school coaches they changed back to the rules they played under there. The same has been true if they entered professional football where the rules closely approximate those used in high school. It was highly confusing."

A noticeable difference in the new NAIA football code is the platoon system, or free substitution rule. The modified code also allows one player on a team to confer with a coach at the sideline during time outs; a fumble or backward pass may be recovered and advanced by any player, and a successful try-for - point after touchdown is scored as one point, no matter how made.

TITLEHOLDERS

Mrs. Hagge Nabs Lead At Augusta

By JACK SIMMS

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Marlene Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla., rammed home an 18-foot putt on the 18th hole Friday to grab a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the 72-hole womens Titleholders Golf Tournament.

The 5-foot, 3-inch, professional covered the windswept Augusta Country Club course in 75 shots, three over men's par. Her opening round 74 gave the 24-year-old Mrs. Hagge a 149 total.

Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, was second with a 74-76—150.

Then came Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., at 154.

Gusty winds and cool weather combined to send more scores into the 80s.

Mrs. Hagge had her putter working to perfection. She took only 35 putts on the 6,290 - yard course. And she was on the green in the regulation number of strokes on all but three holes.

Miss Crocker, who was tied with Mrs. Hagge and Miss Dodd at 74 going into Friday's play, got home in 37 strokes after going out in 39. She had one birdie on a par-three hole to go with 5 bogies and 12 par holes.

Miss Berg stood a stroke off the pace with a 73 after the first round. She injured a knee and ankle when she fell shortly before the start. A doctor said the 40-year-old veteran sprained both the knee and ankle. He taped the injured areas and she played the round in 79.

Miss Hanson was limping badly with pain when she finished. The 5-9 blonde said the cold weather had brought on a recurrence of back ailment. She shot an 80.

The best round of the day came from the clubs of Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga. She shot a sizzling one-under par 35 on the back nine after going out in 39. Her 74 was one shot better than Mrs. Hagge's card.

Miss Faulk was second from the bottom in the field of 55. She was penalized 36 strokes for having more clubs in her bag during first round play than the limit of 14. Her card was 118-74—192.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., clung to her lead in the battle for amateur honors. She had a 75-83—158 for 10th position and five strokes ahead of the next amateur.

COAST-TO-COAST

Big League Weather Changes With Shift

By BOB MYERS

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The sharp contrast in weather between the East and Midwest and the West Coast may pose a problem, and the hardest hit might be the San Francisco Giants.

That was the prediction of Bob Scheffing, manager of the Chicago Cubs, who can speak with personal experience.

Big Bob was in and out of San Francisco in 1955-56 when he managed Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast League. And his major league experience includes the years 1941 to 1950 catching for the Cubs.

Scheffing doesn't intend to get into a controversy with any of the various chambers of commerce involved in the National League.

But since the Giants left New York for San Francisco and the Brooklyn Dodgers now are in Los Angeles, playing conditions will be different in the coast-to-coast circuit.

"It can get awfully hot and muggy in the summer in St. Louis or Philadelphia, and it can get very cold and windy in San Francisco," Scheffing observed.

"It won't be too bad for a club to go into a series on the Coast after bucking a heat wave in the East and Midwest. The visiting players, in fact, will find the change peppy.

"But say the Giants, or Los Angeles to a lesser degree, have had a long stay at home. They're used to cold days and nights.

"So what happens when they end their long home stay and in a matter of a few hours they land in St. Louis and hit the heat and intense humidity?

"They're going to suffer a lot more than the teams that live and get used to this kind of weather.

"There'll be a contrast, of course, as far as Los Angeles is concerned. It can get cool at night, but the Dodgers, from what I hear, will encounter plenty of hot weather. They tell me the floor of the Coliseum can get as hot as an oven in July and August."

Bob could have added September to the calendar, too. Some of Los Angeles' hottest days occur then.

The Giants have 21 night games at home, Los Angeles about 35. Scheffing predicted also there will be more full-game performances by the pitchers at San Francisco.

"Once a starter gets loosed up it's fine. But the coolness is hard on the bull-pen pitchers.

REBEL GRID GAME

Seniors Humble Undergrads, 33-0

The "old grads" crushed the 1958 edition of the West Monroe Rebels, 33-0, last night at Brown Stadium in the Rebs spring training intrasquad football game.

The graduating seniors halted the underclassmen's only serious threat on the six, in the first quarter and rammed home two touchdowns in the second period, another in the third and two in the final quarter.

All of them members of last year's Rebel first team that won 7 games and lost 3 for the school's best record in history, the seniors held the juniors well in check after the first quarter and had a big edge in first downs, 11-4. They scored twice on runs, twice with passes and got their other TD on Harry Barfoot's 40-yard jaunt with a loose ball.

After the juniors had gone to the four in the first quarter on the running of Jerry Stovall and the passing of Ronnie Farmer, the seniors pushed them back to the 6 and took over. From there they drove 94 yards for a touchdown with Robert Perkins going three yards around end for the six points. Mickey Bass went over tackle to make it 7-0.

Guard Larry Green recovered a fumble on the juniors' 34 to set up the seniors second touchdown. Perkins passed 34 yards to Don Hudson for the score and it was 13-0 at the half.

The seniors took the second half kickoff and went 69 yards for their third score with Johnny Huntsman throwing 19 yard to James Farmer to make it 19-0. Huntsman kicked the point-after and it was 20-0.

A beautiful punt return by Huntsman set up the seniors next TD and Ford went five yards around left end to score it. Giant tackle Joe Watts attempted to run for the PAT but didn't make it and it was 26-0.

Barfoot added the last TD in the fourth when he picked up Ronnie Farmer's attempted pitchout on the 40 and rambled all the way. Perkins passed to Ford for the final point to make it 33-0.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Vols' McLendon 'Coach Of Year'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics installed 10 sportsmen in its hall of fame Friday and named John B. McLendon of Tennessee as basketball coach of the year.

The award and installations take place each year during the annual NAIA Basketball Tournament.

Also announced today was a poll to be made of NAIA coaches on whether they wish to adopt the 24-second rule and 2-shot penalty for backcourt defensive fouls now used by professional basketball.

Under the 24-second rule, the offensive team must shoot within 24 seconds or lose possession of the ball.

NAIA coaches will have a choice of voting either for 24 seconds, 30 seconds or against any change. They also will be asked their opinions on present use of the zone defense.

As an experiment, tomorrow night's game for third place in the tournament will use a 30-second possession rule. The zone defense will not be allowed and back court defense fouls will draw the two-shot penalty. Professional basketball has used these rules for several years in an attempt to eliminate stalling tactics by the leading team.

The new members of the hall of fame are:

Coaches—Hamlet Peterson, Luther College, Decorah, Iowa; Glenn Martin, Southern Illinois University of Carbondale and Ed Hickox, Springfield, Mass. College.

Former players—Scotty Steagall, Millikan University of Decatur, Ill.; Ron Bontemps, Beloit, Wis. College; C. F. Thomas, Northwestern State College of Natchitoches, La., and Belus Smawley, Appalachian College, Boone, N. C.

Contributors—L. W. Zorn, Wisconsin State Teachers of Eau Claire; Harrison J. Kaiser, New Britain, Conn. State Teachers and the late Paul Helms Sr.

Paper Tiger, Turf Favored In Bowie Run

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Prospects of an "off" track figure to boost the chances of Mr. Turf, Jack J. Amiel's venerable entry, but Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Paper Tiger still rated as the early choice tonight for Saturday's $25,000 - added Bowie Handicap.

Seven other thoroughbreds were listed as probable starters in the mile-and - sixteenth race over a track left sloppy Friday by recent snow and rain.

Besides Paper Tiger, topweighted at 115, and Mr. Turf, 114, the expected line-up included Arthur H. Bowen's Fabricator, 113; Jan Burke's Field of Honor, 112; Livingston Stable's Ournav, 110; Flamingo Farm's Madok, 109; John S. Kelly's We Trust, 108; Peter A. Issaris' Greek Admiral, 105, and Wayne Kendrick's King Challa, 100.

All but Greek Admiral have also been nominated for the $100,000-added John B. Campbell Handicap, which will climax the Bowie spring meeting March 29.

A victory by Paper Tiger in the 41st running of the Bowie would bring veteran trainer Hirsch Jacobs his fourth score in the fixture. His others were in 1955 and 1956 with Joe Jones, owned by Mrs. Jacobs, and in 1940 with Isidor Bieber's Conde Rico, which finished in a dead heat for first.

Paper Tiger, a late runner like his sire, Stymie, came from last place to win a seven-furlong race Monday in his most recent start. The added distance should favor his chances to pick up his first stakes triumph of the year.

Mr. Turf finished second, three lengths behind Flying Chief, in the Southern Maryland Handicap, his lone start of the year. But the 9-year-old campaigner was credited by jockey Dave Gorman with running his "gamest race" in that one and likes gooey going. His only stakes victory was over a sloppy track when he won the 1955 Wilson Handicap.

Howard Grant will ride Paper Tiger and Gorman will be up on Mr. Turf. The other assignments are Fabricator, Nick Shuk; Field of Honor, Benny Green; Ournav, Dick Lawless; We Trust, Joe D'Augustino; Greek Amiral, Colin Shaw; King Challa, Augie Catalano, and Madok, Joe Snyder.

One Horse Lost In Hot Springs Race Track Fire

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — A wind - whipped fire destroyed a large barn here Friday and for a time threatened to spread to adjacent Oaklawn race track where more than 1,200 thoroughbreds are quartered for the current racing season.

One horse was lost in the flames. Nineteen other animals in the frame barn were led to safety by trainers and grooms.

The unidentified horse, owned by H. S. "Dixie" Mitchell, a Maryland owner and trainer, was the only casualty reported.

Fire Chief Alfred Nichols said the blaze was touched off by the explosion of a butane stove in the tack room of the barn, owned by Otis Green and G. R. Morris. Green estimated the loss at $6,000, partly covered by insurance.

Basilio Nearing End Of Training

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio went seven rounds Friday as he neared the end of training here for his March 25 title defense against Ray Robinson in Chicago.

The world's middleweight champion boxed four rounds against Chicago's Archie Whitfield and three against Willie Johnson of Miami Beach, Fla.

After his workout Saturday, Basilio will move to New York City for a Sunday night television appearance and then on to Chicago.

Demon Tennis Play Starting On March 21

NATCHITOCHES, La. (Special) — Coach Huey Cranford's 1958 tennis Demons, possessing their greatest amount of depth in almost 18 years, will swing into action on the local college court against Centenary on March 21.

This will be the first of 12 collegiate matches scheduled for Northwestern State season.

Wade Parsons, former Fair Park ace, Charles Bice, Winnfield and Levi Thompson, Waterproof, are the only returning veterans from last year. Parsons and Bice were number one and two players last year, respectively while Thompson played number four.

Players that should make the Demons have the strongest team in over a decade will be Jim Dowden, a freshman who played number one for Fair Park last year; Mike LeLong, Coushatta, who played number two in 1953, and Bill Chamberlain, Elizabeth, 1956 GSC champion at the number five position.

Other players who should also bolster the squad's depth are David Cole, Jena; Jerry Cornerly and Paul Jenison, both of Leesville, and Don Rucker, Natchitoches.

Utah, runner-up to Wyoming for the Skyline Conference crown and holder of a 20-6 overall record, plays St. John's of Brooklyn (17-6) at 4:30 p.m., EST in a game to be televised nationally by CBS.

St. Bonaventure (19-4), the Middle Eastern Conference titleholder makes its tournament debut at 9 p.m. against St. Joseph's of Philadelphia (18-8).

Two other games are scheduled but they are first round frays which will put victors in the quarter-finals. Niagara (18 - 6) and Xavier of Cincinnati (15-11) clash at 2:30 p.m. Fordham (14-8) plays St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., (20-4) at 7:15 p.m.

Five of the team's six losses have been by four points or less.

The Utah-St. John's game may develop into a battle between Utah's 6-5 Milton Kane, averaging 21.2 points a game, and the Redmen'h backcourt ace, Alan Seiden, who scored 23 against Butler.

St. Bonaventure, from Olean, N. Y., is led by Ken Fairfield, a 6-3 jump shot specialist, and John Connors, 6-5, who is deadly with hook and tip-in shots. The Bonnies have virtually the same team which gained the semifinals last year.

PRO BASKETBALL

Yardley, Russell Set Three Records Each

NEW YORK (UP) — George Yardley of the Detroit Pistons and Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics —two National Basketball Association players who played the college game in California—each produced three of the nine individual records set in the professional league this season.

A total of 36 marks were set in the biggest record-setting spree in NBA history.

Yardley, former Stanford University player, scored 2,001 points to erase the previous season high of 1,932 set during the 1951-52 campaign by George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers. Yardley attempted 808 free throws to top the former high of 794 set during the 1952-53 season by Neil Johnston of the Philadelphia Warriors and sank 655 of them to top the previous mark of 625 set last season by Adolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals.

Russell, the All-America from the University of San Francisco who has virtually revolutionized play in the NBA in less than two seasons, set three rebound records. Firmly establishing himself as the game's top defensive player. Russell collected 1,564 rebounds to surpass by far the old NBA mark of 1,256 set last season by Maurice Stokes. Russell's average of 22.7 rebounds per game topped the mark of 17.4 set last season by Stokes. Russell also set an all - time NBA single game mark of 49 rebounds to wipe out the mark of 39 set by Johnston in 1954.

Bob Cousy of the Celtics led in assists for the sixth straight year with 463, Schayes snapped Bill Sharman's five-year grip on the free throw efficiency title by sinking 629 of 696 for a percentage of .904. Jack Twyman of the Cincinnati Royals led in field goal accuracy, sinking 465 of 1,028 for a .452 percentage.

Schayes scored 1,791 points during the campaign to run his career total to 11,764 and erase Mikan's former league mark of 10,156.

Cliff Hagan of the St. Louis Hawks and Dick Garmaker of the Lakers each scored 26 points in one quarter to top the former high of 23 set by Bob Pettit of the Hawks last season. Clyde Lovellette of Cincinnati sank 679 field goals, breaking the mark of 678 set by Mikan in 1951.

The New York Knickerbockers set seven offense records, including most points scored by a team in a season (6,068) but finished in the Eastern Division cellar. Boston set three offense records as the pro circuit's point-production hit an all-time high of 106.6 points per game.

Boston, with Russell dominating its defense, had the best balance, averaging 109.9 points per start and allowing 104.4, a difference of 5.5 points.

New York has the highest point average per game (11.20), Boston collected the most field goals (3,006), New York led in free throws scored (2,300), St. Louis in rebounds (5,445), New York scored 100 or more points in 37 straight games and scored 109 or more in a total of 67. All these figures are league records.

Snowfall Keeps Robinson From His Road Work

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (AP) —For the second time within a month, a heavy snowfall kept Sugar Ray Robinson from doing his road work.

Robinson expects to wind up his boxing here on Saturday and Sunday. He will leave for Chicago by train on Monday night. He gets his return shot at middleweight champion Carmen Basilio at the Chicago Stadium, March 25.

The 28-year-old Fort Smith, Ark., pro, who jumped into a two stroke lead with a 66 yesterday, faltered to one-over-par 72 for a 138 total.

Frase, 31-year-old Memphis, Tenn., player who turned professional last year, matched the record on the first nine holes of 6,016-yard Great Southern golf course with a 31, then shot par 36 for a 67 and a tie for the lead.

Bosox Skipper Thinks Yanks' Ready To Sink

SARASOTA, Fla., (AP) — Mike Higgins believes the New York Yankee bubble is ready to be exploded and the Boston manager believes his Red Sox could set off the blast.

"They could have been taken easily last year," said the Red Sox skipper. "There was a while there when they didn't play great ball but no one could put together a drive and overtake them."

Higgins got the good news that Don Buddin is getting out of the Army early and be ready in plenty of time to take over the job at shortstop.

"Everyone talked last year about our infield problem," said Higgins, "but it isn't so much of a problem this year. Dick Gernert is set at first, Frank Malzone—I think—is the best third baseman in the league, Buddin will be at shortstop and we have four guys battling for the second base job.

"Right now, I don't know who'll get it, but it's awfully nice to have some competition going on."

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Talbert, captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team for the last five years, was awarded the Mary Chess Trophy today as "America's most distinguished tennis ambassador."

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Vols' McLendon 'Coach Of Year'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics installed 10 sportsmen in its hall of fame Friday and named John B. McLendon of Tennessee as basketball coach of the year.

The award and installations take place each year during the annual NAIA Basketball Tournament.

Also announced today was a poll to be made of NAIA coaches on whether they wish to adopt the 24-second rule and 2-shot penalty for backcourt defensive fouls now used by professional basketball.

Under the 24-second rule, the offensive team must shoot within 24 seconds or lose possession of the ball.

NAIA coaches will have a choice of voting either for 24 seconds, 30 seconds or against any change. They also will be asked their opinions on present use of the zone defense.

As an experiment, tomorrow night's game for third place in the tournament will use a 30-second possession rule. The zone defense will not be allowed and back court defense fouls will draw the two-shot penalty. Professional basketball has used these rules for several years in an attempt to eliminate stalling tactics by the leading team.

The new members of the hall of fame are:

Coaches—Hamlet Peterson, Luther College, Decorah, Iowa; Glenn Martin, Southern Illinois University of Carbondale and Ed Hickox, Springfield, Mass. College.

Former players — Scotty Steagall, Millikan University of Decatur, Ill.; Ron Bontemps, Beloit, Wis. College; C. F. Thomas, Northwestern State College of Natchitoches, La., and Belus Smawley, Appalachian College, Boone, N. C.

Contributors—L. W. Zorn, Wisconsin State Teachers of Eau Claire; Harrison J. Kaiser, New Britain, Conn. State Teachers and the late Paul Helms Sr.

Paper Tiger, Turf Favored In Bowie Run

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Prospects of an "off" track figure to boost the chances of Mr. Turf, Jack J. Amiel's venerable entry, but Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Paper Tiger still rated as the early choice tonight for Saturday's $25,000 - added Bowie Handicap.

Seven other thoroughbreds were listed as probable starters in the mile-and - sixteenth race over a track left sloppy Friday by recent snow and rain.

Besides Paper Tiger, topweighted at 115, and Mr. Turf, 114, the expected line-up included Arthur H. Bowen's Fabricator, 113; Jan Burke's Field of Honor, 112; Livingston Stable's Ournav, 110; Flamingo Farm's Madok, 109; John S. Kelly's We Trust, 108; Peter A. Issaris' Greek Admiral, 105, and Wayne Kendrick's King Challa, 100.

All but Greek Admiral have also been nominated for the $100,000-added John B. Campbell Handicap, which will climax the Bowie spring meeting March 29.

A victory by Paper Tiger in the 41st running of the Bowie would bring veteran trainer Hirsch Jacobs his fourth score in the fixture. His others were in 1955 and 1956 with Joe Jones, owned by Mrs. Jacobs, and in 1940 with Isidor Bieber's Conde Rico, which finished in a dead heat for first.

Paper Tiger, a late runner like his sire, Stymie, came from last place to win a seven-furlong race Monday in his most recent start. The added distance should favor his chances to pick up his first stakes triumph of the year.

Mr. Turf finished second, three lengths behind Flying Chief, in the Southern Maryland Handicap, his lone start of the year. But the 9-year-old campaigner was credited by jockey Dave Gorman with running his "gamest race" in that one and likes gooey going. His only stakes victory was over a sloppy track when he won the 1955 Wilson Handicap.

Howard Grant will ride Paper Tiger and Gorman will be up on Mr. Turf. The other assignments are Fabricator, Nick Shuk; Field of Honor, Benny Green; Ournav, Dick Lawless; We Trust, Joe D'Augustino; Greek Amiral, Colin Shaw; King Challa, Augie Catalano, and Madok, Joe Snyder.

One Horse Lost In Hot Springs Race Track Fire

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — A wind - whipped fire destroyed a large barn here Friday and for a time threatened to spread to adjacent Oaklawn race track where more than 1,200 thoroughbreds are quartered for the current racing season.

One horse was lost in the flames. Nineteen other animals in the frame barn were led to safety by trainers and grooms.

The unidentified horse, owned by H. S. "Dixie" Mitchell, a Maryland owner and trainer, was the only casualty reported.

Two other games are scheduled but they are first round frays which will put victors in the quarter-finals. Niagara (18 - 6) and Xavier of Cincinnati (15-11) clash at 2:30 p.m. Fordham (14-8) plays St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., (20-4) at 7:15 p.m.

The two top-seeded entries, Dayton and Bradley, do not make an appearance until Tuesday night. Dayton, No. 1, plays the Fordham-St. Francis winner; Bradley, No. 2, opposes the Niagara - Xavier victor.

Semifinals are scheduled Thursday night with the finals meet Saturday afternoon.

St. John's and St. Joseph's won first round games Thursday night. St. John's, coached by Joe Lapchick, eliminated Butler, 76-69. St. Joseph's beat St. Peter's of Jersey City, 83-72.

Niagara and St. Francis have been labelled the "dark horses" of the tournament which traditionally is loaded with surprises.

Niagara is led by 6-5 Alex "Boo" Ellis, the nation's leading rebounder and 19th best scorer.

Five of the team's six losses have been by four points or less.

St. Francis prides itself on being "one of the jumpingest teams in basketball." The team's coach, Dr. William T. "Skip" Hughes, says eight of his 10 men can dunk the ball.

The Utah-St. John's game may develop into a battle between Utah's 6-5 Milton Kane, averaging 21.2 points a game, and the Redmen'h backcourt ace, Alan Seiden, who scored 23 against Butler.

St. Bonaventure, from Olean, N. Y., is led by Ken Fairfield, a 6-3 jump shot specialist, and John Connors, 6-5, who is deadly with hook and tip-in shots. The Bonnies have virtually the same team which gained the semifinals last year.

PRO BASKETBALL

Yardley, Russell Set Three Records Each

NEW YORK (UP) — George Yardley of the Detroit Pistons and Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics —two National Basketball Association players who played the college game in California—each produced three of the nine individual records set in the professional league this season.

A total of 36 marks were set in the biggest record-setting spree in NBA history.

Yardley, former Stanford University player, scored 2,001 points to erase the previous season high of 1,932 set during the 1951-52 campaign by George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers. Yardley attempted 808 free throws to top the former high of 794 set during the 1952-53 season by Neil Johnston of the Philadelphia Warriors and sank 655 of them to top the previous mark of 625 set last season by Adolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals.

Russell, the All-America from the University of San Francisco who has virtually revolutionized play in the NBA in less than two seasons, set three rebound records. Firmly establishing himself as the game's top defensive player, Russell collected 1,564 rebounds to surpass by far the old NBA mark of 1,256 set last season by Maurice Stokes. Russell's average of 22.7 rebounds per game topped the mark of 17.4 set last season by Stokes. Russell also set an all - time NBA single game mark of 49 rebounds to wipe out the mark of 39 set by Johnston in 1954.

Bon Cousy of the Celtics led in assists for the sixth straight year with 463, Schayes snapped Bill Sharman's five-year grip on the free throw efficiency title by sinking 629 of 696 for a percentage of .904. Jack Twyman of the Cincinnati Royals led in field goal accuracy, sinking 465 of 1,028 for a .452 percentage.

Schayes scored 1,791 points during the campaign to run his career total to 11,764 and erase Mikan's former league mark of 10,156.

Cliff Hagan of the St. Louis Hawks and Dick Garmaker of the Lakers each scored 26 points in one quarter to top the former high of 23 set by Bob Pettit of the Hawks last season. Clyde Lovelette of Cincinnati sank 679 field goals, breaking the mark of 678 set by Mikan in 1951.

The New York Knickerbockers set seven offense records, including most points scored by a team in a season (6,068) but finished in the Eastern Division cellar. Boston set three offense records as the pro circuit's point-production hit an all-time high of 106.6 points per game.

Boston, with Russell dominating its defense, had the best balance, averaging 109.9 points per start and allowing 104.4, a difference of 5.5 points.

New York has the highest point average per game (11.20), Boston collected the most field goals (3,006), New York led in free throws scored (2,300), St. Louis in rebounds (5,445), New York scored 100 or more points in 37 straight games and scored 100 or more in a total of 67. All these figures are league records.

Snowfall Keeps Robinson From His Road Work

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (AP) —For the second time within a month, a heavy snowfall kept Sugar Ray Robinson from doing his road work.

The former middleweight champion, however, made up for that by extra drills in the gym and by boxing four rounds Friday. He went two each with Lee Williams and Irish Bobby Lee.

Robinson expects to wind up his boxing here on Saturday and Sunday. He will leave for Chicago by train on Monday night. He gets his return shot at middleweight champion Carmen Basilio at the Chicago Stadium, March 25.

PUTTER HURTS BUSTER

Fraze, Cline Catch Cupit In Gulf Coast Tournament

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Buster Cupit's stumbling putter threw him into a three-way tie with Gene Frase and Dick Cline Friday after 36 holes of the $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational golf tournament.

The 28-year-old Fort Smith, Ark., pro, who jumped into a two stroke lead with a 66 yesterday, faltered to one-over-par 72 for a 138 total.

Frase, 31-year-old Memphis, Tenn., player who turned professional last year, matched the record on the first nine holes of 6,016-yard Great Southern golf course with a 31, then shot par 36 for a 67 and a tie for the lead.

Cline, 33-year-old Lanett, Ala., professional, shot his second 69 for his 138 total.

However, Jim Barfield had all three looking back as he roared into fourth place, one stroke back, with a six-under-par 65, finest round of the tournament.

After a one-under-par 34 on the first nine, the 52-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich., veteran matched the 31 record on the back nine. Barfield sank a tremendous 50-foot putt from the far edge of the green on the 12th hole for a three on the par five hole.

Five pros and one amateur were bunched two strokes off the lead.

Tied at 140 were Dale Morey of Indianapolis, Ind., low amateur with a 69; Leonard Warran of Bastrop, La., with 71; Charles Harper of Columbus, Ga., with his second 70; Elmer Reed of Atlanta, Ga., with 67; and Pat Abbott of Memphis, Tenn., with a 73.

Bob Below of Neenah, Wis., who had a 69 yesterday, soared to 80 today to fall out of contention.

Defending champion Dick Metz of Fort Worth, Tex., shot his second par 71 for a 142 total, four strokes back of the leaders.

Bosox Skipper Thinks Yanks' Ready To Sink

SARASOTA, Fla., (AP) — Mike Higgins believes the New York Yankee bubble is ready to be exploded and the Boston manager believes his Red Sox could set off the blast.

"They could have been taken easily last year," said the Red Sox skipper. "There was a while there when they didn't play great ball but no one could put together a drive and overtake them."

Higgins got the good news that Don Buddin is getting out of the Army early and be ready in plenty of time to take over the job at shortstop.

"Everyone talked last year about our infield problem," said Higgins, "but it isn't so much of a problem this year. Dick Gernert is set at first, Frank Malzone—I think—is the best third baseman in the league, Buddin will be at shortstop and we have four guys battling for the second base job.

"Right now, I don't know who'll get it, but it's awfully nice to have some competition going on."

TALBERT HONORED

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Talbert, captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team for the last five years, was awarded the Mary Chess Trophy today as "America's most distinguished tennis ambassador."

The trophy is awarded periodically for outstanding contributions to the game of tennis.

Donaldson To Introduce New Absentee Bill

BATON ROUGE — UP —State Rep. Charles Fred Donaldson of New Orleans announced Thursday he plans to introduce a bill in the 1958 Legislature to insure secrecy in Louisiana's absentee voting.

The recently defeated New Orleans mayoralty candidate said as the system presently works there are no ballot boxes for absentee votes. He said "after a personal check of absentee ballots in New Orleans, it became evident to me that the administration of absentee voting in Louisiana does not insure secrecy of ballots."

Donaldson said that in the present law, the Legislature stated that absentee ballots "shall" be opened by the election commissioners at the poles and "shall at that time place the ballots in a ballot box without unfolding the ballot or revealing in any manner" how a vote was cast.

He contended that the present law is unconstitutional in that the Legislature provided no funds for ballot boxes.

Donaldson said that his bill will probably provide for a common voting machine that all absentee voters use to further provide for secrecy.

"If only one absentee ballot is cast in a precinct, it isn't very secret," he said.

"Candidates have never been afforded an opportunity to have representation of commissioners at the place absentee voting is conducted," he said.

At present, the balloting in New Orleans is done in the office of civil sheriff Lou Scanlon, who appoints five commissioners to conduct the absentee voting.

A voter casts his ballot and places it in a sealed envelope which is signed by the voter and a commissioner. Then the ballot is taken to the voter's precinct on election day. Since there is no ballot boxes, the commissioner checks the ballot, replaces it in the envelope and sends it to the parish voting machine commission—still in the signed envelope.

"It isn't hard to find how a person cast his vote when the envelope is still with the ballot," Donaldson said.

He said that his bill will also provide for voters to cast ballots in the registrar of voters office where eligibility can be immediately checked, and that candidates are given an opportunity to be represented during absentee balloting.

Bus Driver Dies In Oregon Crash

REEDSPORT, Ore. (AP)—A school bus, which only a short time before had been loaded with some 50 grade school pupils, plunged over a high bank into a field near here Thursday.

The bus driver, Harold Andrews, 55— the only occupant — was dead inside. He apparently suffered a fatal heart seizure, said Deputy Coroner Jack Ungar.

First reports, relayed here by radio, that the bus had plunged into nearby Smith River sent a wave of panic through this southern Oregon coastal town. It was though that the children might still have been aboard.

The children had been let off earlier, however, and Andrews was en route to pick up another load when he was stricken.

Variety, Ease To Be Offered In Subdivision

A wide variety of designs, beautiful exteriors, comfort and the lowest down payment ever permitted under FHA financing — these are the features distinguishing the homes in the West Heights Subdivision, now in the initial stages of construction by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. "Red" Gross, owners of Suburban Homes Incorporated.

Consisting of 500 one hundred-foot lots, the West Heights area in West Monroe is located south of Highway 80, two miles from the city limits.

The homes in the subdivisions are lower priced than those in previous projects of the Grosses. "This price bracket is something entirely new to us," Gross, who is president of the organization, said. "In the past, we haven't built homes costing less than $12,000 up." These homes, although conforming to every standard of good construction and design, will cost considerably less, with the most popular style priced at approximately $9800.

The overall design of the houses in West Heights will be colonial. Each house will have three bedrooms. "There is more house than you would ordinarily expect to find in this price range," Gross commented.

Variety is being stressed in the building of the homes. Gross pointed out that many different designs, exterior finishes, elevations, locations, window arrangements and colors will be available.

The homes will have "extra livability," according to the builders, which means they will feature larger living and dining areas, insulation for year - round comfort, and attractive decorations inside and out.

Housewives will be interested in the roomy, convenient kitchens which have extra large, one-piece work surfaces on the cabinets.

The problem of heating the West Heights homes will be solved by economical forced-air heating and weather - stripped doors which cut heat losses.

Using well - known and reliable materials throughout the house, the builder is offering a one-year guarantee against latent defects in materials and workmanship.

In commenting on the buying of the homes, the president pointed out that non - veterans as well as veterans can finance their homes with a down payment of only $300, including closing costs. The monthly payments of $65 includes taxes and insurance.

Desirability of the community in which the subdivision is located is another big factor in determining the advantages of the new homes.

"A 20-acre school site right in the middle of West Heights has been purchased by the school board," Gross said, "and two shopping centers, one at each end of the subdivision, will be under construction soon."

All utilities will be available on the lots, and service lines will be behind the houses to avoid tearing up the lawns. Water will be supplied from a public deep well system.

"Industry has to expand out this way," the president emphasized, "so this will be an ideal location for the families of men working in these various plants."

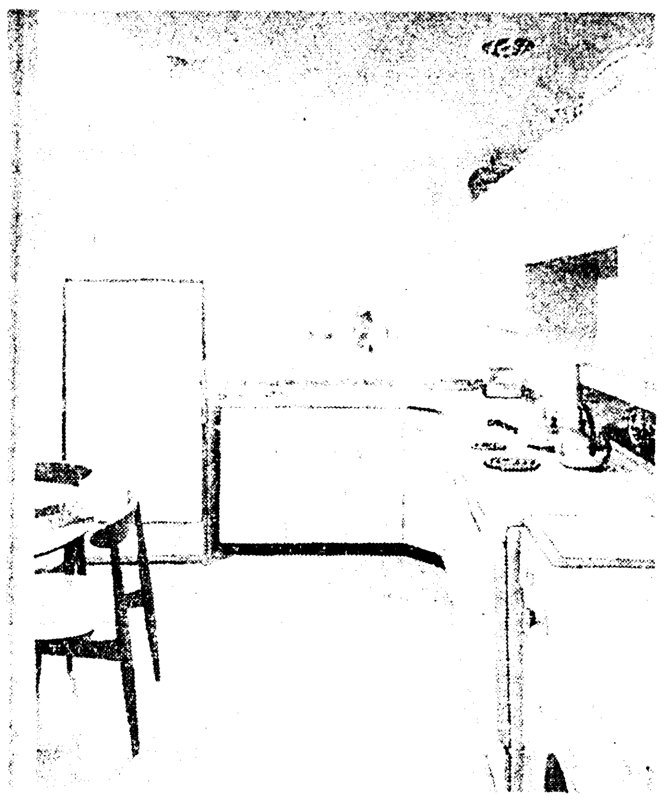
"We are planning to build 50 houses this year," Gross said, "and many more in the future. Ou. company is growing fast, and we hope it will continue to grow through the purchases of these moderately priced, beautiful homes."

'Shocking' Waste

WASHINGTON UP — Sen. Ralph Yarborough Friday said the Defense Department policy of purchasing cheap foreign petroleum products is "a shocking waste of Americans' tax dollars to support cheap foreign labor."

He said such purchases "are no bargain, particularly while we have over five million men walking the streets unemployed and have great surplus stocks of domestic petroleum.

"We have been voting to accelerate public works programs to build up employment on the one hand, and the Defense Department on the other hand spends tax dollars to buy products that help contribute to unemployment."



THE KITCHEN in the new Fairlane homes has a wealth of wall cabinets with natural birch doors. Base cabinets have one-piece formica work surfaces. Laundry space is handily located in the kitchen. There is also eating space for the family meals. The Fairlane is one of the many types of homes available in he new West Heights Sub-division in West Monroe. The subdivision is being developed by Suburban Homes, Incorporated.

Hundreds See Large Balloon

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (AP)—Hundreds of residents of this Gulf Coast city streamed outside today to watch a huge pink balloon float overhead.

Viewers said the balloon appeared to be 200 feet long and 100 feet in diameter.

Telescopes at St. Stanislaus College observatory were trained on the object, and Brother Roland, school president, said he believed it was a plastic weather balloon.

However, the New Orleans weather bureau said a balloon of the size reported would not be a regular weather balloon. A spokesman said it may be a high level plastic balloon launched at some distant U.S. Air Force base.

Cites Pleasures Of Home Owners

The joy of home ownership is a wonderful experience that is today enriching the lives of three out of every five American families.

By fulfilling their desire to own a home, they are now enjoying a happier life in the kind of environment that strengthens family ties and gives rise to lasting friendships.

For the children, a home of their own presents a glorious opportunity to grow strong, in body and in character. There is all the space they need to play, safe from traffic hazards, and the companionship of other happy children etches unforgettable memories into their lives.

Homemaking becomes a pleasant experience for the mother. With a home of her very own, she can do all the things that she has planned for so long, perhaps ever since earlier days when she just "played house." For the first time, she can decorate as she pleases and move the furniture around until the placement suits her fancy.

The enthusiasm with which the father approaches his chores about the house has given rise to a booming do - it - yourself industry. He takes great pride in being the handy man around the home, and the work that he does to beautify his house and lot reflects a genuine interest in the attractiveness of his community.

More importantly, the roominess of a home permits the whole family to live more comfortably, either in the spirit of "togetherness" or in the pursuit of individual activities. There is always companionship or privacy in the home, whenever either is desired.

Finally, there is the thrill of entertaining in the home — the opportunity to extend hospitality to friends and relatives. This is the proud moment when a family shares with those who are near and dear its most cherished possession.

The ownership of a home is a sound investment, not only in the immediate happiness of the family but in its future security.

The equity that is gained as the monthly payments are made represents an asset that can be realized easily in the event the home is ever sold or traded for another.

For this reason, making an investment in a home is much wiser than continuing to pay rent. For, on the latter, there is never any possibility of a cash return: a family is paying merely to use someone else's property.

West Heights To Feature Budget Colonial Homes

THE BEDROOMS in the new Fairlane homes have double-hung windows and floor-to-ceiling closets with natural finish mahogany folding doors. This is one of the many types of homes that will be available in the new West Heights Subdivision in West Monroe. The subdivision is being developed by Suburban Homes, Incorporated, headed by Mr. M. E. "Red" Gross.

New Fairlane Is One Of Best Buys

A charming Fairlane home designed by noted architect Royal Barry Wills, of Boston, Mass., will be shown to the public Saturday and Sunday in the new West Heights subdivision in West Monroe which is being developed by Suburban Homes, Inc., which is headed by M. E. "Red" Gross.

The home is complete with three bedrooms, living room, dining room kitchen, and bath. The Fairlane model is only one of many styles which will be available in the new addition.

This new 1958 home, with its attractive bay window, will delight those who favor traditional design. Wills, a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects, has captured beautifully the characteristic simplicity of styling.

Functional details, such as the double-hung, wood windows, with their attractive muntin bars and shutters, the large chimney, and the steep roof pitch, are distinguishing features of this style of architecture.

Though extremely practical in their application, these attractive details provide interesting contrast to the simple lines of styling. The overall effect is a pleasing appearance and an enduring quality.

Home buyers may select from the hundred or more plans offered by Suburban Homes, Inc., the one that satisfies their tastes and meets their living needs, and then choose an exterior designed by one of these four great architects. All are members of the American Institute of Architects and are outstanding in their respective fields.

"This charming Fairlane represents the biggest home value we have ever put on the market," said Mr. Gross. "It offers the finest in structural quality and styling, plus the savings that have been achieved through the most efficient and economical home building methods ever developed. The price and terms will be welcome news to families, who have seen their dreams of home ownership shattered by continual rises in building costs. A great many of them will now find that their incomes are sufficient to qualify them to buy this home."

Among the features of the home, listed by Mr. Gross, are: ceiling-high closets, inside and outside storage, fully insulated sidewalls and ceilings, a kitchen large enough to accomodate family meals, Youngstown cabinets with birch doors, extra-large, one-piece Formica work surfaces on base cabinets, weather-stripped window and doors, attractive decoration, inside and out, and economical, forced-air heating, with outlets in every room. The homes are guaranteed for one year against latent defects in materials and workmanship.

An outstanding design feature is the convenient traffic flow plan, based on recommendations of the Women's Housing Congress. It permits the family to move between the bedroom and kitchen areas, without going through the living room. This lessens the housewife's cleaning chores and keeps the living room ready to receive visitors at all times.

Correct Heating Is Important In All New Homes

Today's comfortable homes have a heating plant installed according to a carefully designed layout. Such a layout, prepared by heating engineers, insures the right capacity furnace for every home, the correct heat distribution system and proper location of returns for even heating throughout the home.

Every home owner will enjoy the smooth gentle flow of warm air throughout every home built by Suburban Home, Inc., in the new West Heights subdivision in West Monroe.

Suburban Homes, Inc., headed by M. E. "Red" Gross, will give the public a chance to see the new subdivision this week end.

ROMANCE RANCH

By ANNE ALLISON

Chapter 29

There was a body covered by a gray blanket. Liza looked at it. Her heart constricted.

"It's all right, Miss," a fireman said kindly. "He's not burned beyond recognition or anything like that."

She nodded. "Go ahead."

He turned back the blanket and Liza almost cried out in relief. "Roger Baxter"

"You know him?"

"Yes, of course. He owns the Bar Three — the ranch next to this one."

She was vaguely aware of a man standing there in the smoke. He flashed a badge — a police badge. "What business would he have over here, Miss Trent?"

"Business? I don't know what you mean?"

"Was he accustomed to visiting here?"

"Sometimes," Liza replied slowly, organizing her thoughts, finally putting her suspicions into words. "At one time he tried to buy some of the Flying A from my father."

"Were there hard feelings between Baxter and anyone at this ranch? Al Nichols — for example?"

"Al? What do you mean? Has something happened to Al?"

"I don't know, Miss Trent. I haven't seen him. I do know that murder has been committed here this afternoon."

The smoke completely obscured the sun and the blueness of the Arizona sky. Liza felt a shiver run down her spine. "Murder?"

"I'm Detective Lieutenant Williams, Miss Trent. Homicide Squad. Let me show you something." He bent over the figure wrapped in the blanket. "See this bullet hole? Right through the heart — from the back. Roger Baxter did not die from the fire. He was shot."

She stared at him. "You said you went through the house—or the firemen did. They didn't find anyone . . ."

"Baxter was apparently hidden—but he was here. Whoever shot him hoped to destroy all the evidence in the fire. They miscalculated the efficiency of the fire department." He glanced toward the house. "The east wing is the only one damaged."

She followed his glance toward the beautiful rambling house where once she and Al had planned to make their home.

"You'd best let me take you back to Phoenix to a hotel," the detective suggested. "There's nothing you can do here."

She shook her head. "I have to find Al. He may be hurt."

"He's probably out on the range. Most of the ranch boys are, I understand."

She could not explain her personal problems to him. "Do you think Al shot Roger Baxter?" she demanded. "Is that why you're staying?"

"It's possible," he admitted. "Perhaps Al found Baxter trying to set fire to the ranch."

"And the motive?" she asked cautiously, not wishing to mention the uranium.

He glanced at her keenly. "Perhaps you could supply the motive."

"I don't understand."

"I think you do. You're an extremely attractive young woman. Perhaps both of them were in love with you."

Her laugh was sincere.

"No?" He continued, "Then there's a deeper reason—such as Baxter wanting the ranch. Someone tried to shoot you once, Miss Trent, remember? I believe the same person killed Baxter, but for a different reason."

She thought of Patricia Bradbury but she was too tired and confused to discuss that phase of the problem at the moment. "Can't we do something?" she demanded.

"What would you suggest?"

"Go out on the desert and see what happened to the men!" Liza cried. "If there aren't any horses, we can drive."

"An ambulance truck has already gone," he assured her. "Should be back any moment."

Sht raised her eyes to the smoky horizon. The heat was insufferable.

"I'm staying here," Liza said quietly, "until I find out about Al. I don't care how long it takes."

It grew darker. Somewhere behind the curtain of smoke the desert sunset was taking place. Closing her eyes Liza could imagine its familiar loveliness and the purple twilight which would follow. Nature unchanging in her moods and cycles. Only man made his own ugliness, she decided, sipping a cup of coffee which someone put in her hand.

Then there was the ambulance truck, roaring like a white animal out of the night; its sirens screaming. Liza ran toward the truck, knowing before the doors were opened that Al Nichols was inside.

Good Color Important In New Homes

Good color styling can work magic with your home.

Light colors tend to make a house look larger; dark ones, smaller.

The front door may be highlighted by making it a striking accent color; the importance of the kitchen door lessened by making it a trim color or a shade different than the body color. A storage door may appear to be completely hidden when painted the same color as the body of the house.

Colors can change the character of one house or a whole group of houses. And they can change the mood of the people living in them, too.

Entering a room where bright colors, such as yellow or orange have been used, makes you feel gay. But in a room where the colors are dark and heavy, you are likely to find yourself speaking in hushed tones and feeling a little depressed.

These are the interesting discoveries of Barbara Brooks, color stylist for National Homes Corporation. She color styles more than 15,000 National Homes every year, using 18 basic color schemes in 90 different variations.

An outstanding authority in her field, Miss Brooks has found that the colors of nature are all that she needs for her pallet to achieve color schemes of lasting beauty.

"In the last ten years," she says ."we Americans have gone through a technicolor revolution. We have suddenly realized the tremendous beauty of the colors in nature and are more and more appreciating their potential. We want to have them in our homes, in our automobiles, our clothes, and even in our appliances.

"Once the pallet of colors was fairly standard; if there was any change it caused raised eyebrows and pained expressions. Suddenly, the resistance to the use of new colors has evaporated. Today, color is an exciting element in our lives."

Miss Brooks recalls how automobiles were once available in only the prosaic black, gray or maroon colors. Now, car buyers demand striking colors such as Capri blue, seafoam green, or cactus yellow.

"For the same reason," she points out, "our homes are no longer just a solid white frame or red brick with white trim.

"The exterior color is our first impression of a home. The wise selection and use of it can result in an intriguing introduction. It has the same effect as the interior color in setting the style. It is the first part of the house to express the owner's personality."

Professional styling such as that done by Miss Brooks will be available in all homes in the new West Heights subdivision in West Monroe, which is being developed by Suburban Homes, Inc. The president of the firm is M. E. "Red" Gross.

ACCIDENTALLY JAILED

SALEM, N.J. (UP)— Thomas McGrellis, 31, Newark, Del., was imprisoned accidentally for nearly four hours Thursday when a cell door shut on him at a county jail now under construction.

Comfort, Economy Are Stressed In New W.M. Homes

Extra comfort and economy are assured by the floor - to - ceiling insulation found in the many style homes available in the new West Heights Subdivision in West Monroe. The subdivision being developed by Suburban Homes, Inc., headed by M. E "Red" Gross, will be open to the public Saturday and Sunday.

This outstanding feature gives the family year - round protection against the extremes of heat and cold and makes possible considerable savings in fuel and air-conditioning costs.

Liberal use of Styrofoam in the foundation of the new homes insulates that part of the home thoroughly against the chill of the ground. In addition, a Visqueen blanket is used to keep moisture from entering the house through the foundation.

As a further protection against the weather, Fiberglas insulation is applied around the perimeter of the foundation to eliminate heat loss and to keep the floors warm and comfortable in the coldest of weather.

All exterior walls of the homes are insulated with Fiberglas. This is applied between the 2x4 studs. An aluminum foil backing on the gypsum boards protects the walls against vapor moving from inside the house.

When the house is erected, at the building site, Fiberglas also is applied in the ceiling sections to prevent heat loss in the winter and to insulate against the burning rays of the sun in the summer.

INDUSTRY, FINALLY

ARCADIA — UP — After three years of effort to gain new industry for this town the Arcadia Development Co. Inc., has gained one. The Western Hatchieries of Dallas, Tex., plans to build a poultry - processing plant which will employ 150 persons, Curt Siegelin, director of the department of commerce and industry said.

ROMANCE RANCH

By ANNE ALLISON

Chapter 29

There was a body covered by a gray blanket. Liza looked at it. Her heart constricted.

"It's all right, Miss," a fireman said kindly. "He's not burned beyond recognition or anything like that."

She nodded. "Go ahead."

He turned back the blanket and Liza almost cried out in relief. "Roger Baxter"

"You know him?"

"Yes, of course. He owns the Bar Three — the ranch next to this one."

She was vaguely aware of a man standing there in the smoke. He flashed a badge — a police badge. "What business would he have over here, Miss Trent?"

"Business? I don't know what you mean?"

"Was he accustomed to visiting here?"

"Sometimes," Liza replied slowly, organizing her thoughts, finally putting her suspicions into words. "At one time he tried to buy some of the Flying A from my father."

"Were there hard feelings between Baxter and anyone at this ranch? Al Nichols — for example?"

"Al? What do you mean? Has something happened to Al?"

"I don't know, Miss Trent. I haven't seen him. I do know that murder has been committed here this afternoon."

The smoke completely obscured the sun and the blueness of the Arizona sky. Liza felt a shiver run down her spine. "Murder?"

"I'm Detective Lieutenant Williams, Miss Trent. Homicide Squad. Let me show you something." He bent over the figure wrapped in the blanket. "See this bullet hole? Right through the heart — from the back. Roger Baxter did not die from the fire. He was shot."

She stared at him. "You said you went through the house—or the firemen did. They didn't find anyone . . ."

"Baxter was apparently hidden—but he was here. Whoever shot him hoped to destroy all the evidence in the fire. They miscalculated the efficiency of the fire department." He glanced toward the house. "The east wing is the only one damaged."

She followed his glance toward the beautiful rambling house where once she and Al had planned to make their home.

"You'd best let me take you back to Phoenix to a hotel," the detective suggested. "There's nothing you can do here."

She shook her head. "I have to find Al. He may be hurt."

"He's probably out on the range. Most of the ranch boys are, I understand."

She could not explain her personal problems to him. "Do you think Al shot Roger Baxter?" she demanded. "Is that why you're staying?"

"It's possible," he admitted. "Perhaps Al found Baxter trying to set fire to the ranch."

"And the motive?" she asked cautiously, not wishing to mention the uranium.

He glanced at her keenly. "Perhaps you could supply the motive."

"I don't understand."

"I think you do. You're an extremely attractive young woman. Perhaps both of them were in love with you."

Her laugh was sincere.

"No?" He continued, "Then there's a deeper reason—such as Baxter wanting the ranch. Someone tried to shoot you once, Miss Trent, remember? I believe the same person killed Baxter, but for a different reason."

She thought of Patricia Bradbury but she was too tired and confused to discuss that phase of the problem at the moment. "Can't we do something?" she demanded.

"What would you suggest?"

"Go out on the desert and see what happened to the men!" Liza cried. "If there aren't any horses, we can drive."

"An ambulance truck has already gone," he assured her. "Should be back any moment."

Sht raised her eyes to the smoky horizon. The heat was insufferable.

"I'm staying here," Liza said quietly, "until I find out about Al. I don't care how long it takes."

It grew darker. Somewhere behind the curtain of smoke the desert sunset was taking place. Closing her eyes Liza could imagine its familiar loveliness and the purple twilight which would follow. Nature unchanging in her moods and cycles. Only man made his own ugliness, she decided, sipping a cup of coffee which someone put in her hand.

Then there was the ambulance truck, roaring like a white animal out of the night; its sirens screaming. Liza ran toward the truck, knowing before the doors were opened that Al Nichols was inside.

Good color styling can work magic with your home.

Light colors tend to make a house look larger; dark ones, smaller.

The front door may be highlighted by making it a striking accent color; the importance of the kitchen door lessened by making it a trim color or a shade different than the body color. A storage door may appear to be completely hidden when painted the same color as the body of the house.

Colors can change the character of one house or a whole group of houses. And they can change the mood of the people living in them, too.

Entering a room where bright colors, such as yellow or orange have been used, makes you feel gay. But in a room where the colors are dark and heavy, you are likely to find yourself speaking in hushed tones and feeling a little depressed.

These are the interesting discoveries of Barbara Brooks, color stylist for National Homes Corporation. She color styles more than 15,000 National Homes every year, using 18 basic color schemes in 90 different variations.

An outstanding authority in her field, Miss Brooks has found that the colors of nature are all that she needs for her pallet to achieve color schemes of lasting beauty.

"In the last ten years," she says ."we Americans have gone through a technicolor revolution. We have suddenly realized the tremendous beauty of the colors in nature and are more and more appreciating their potential. We want to have them in our homes, in our automobiles, our clothes, and even in our appliances.

"Once the pallet of colors was fairly standard; if there was any change it caused raised eyebrows and pained expressions. Suddenly, the resistance to the use of new colors has evaporated. Today, color is an exciting element in our lives."

Miss Brooks recalls how automobiles were once available in only the prosaic black, gray or maroon colors. Now, car buyers demand striking colors such as Capri blue, seafoam green, or cactus yellow.

"For the same reason," she points out, "our homes are no longer just a solid white frame or red brick with white trim.

"The exterior color is our first impression of a home. The wise selection and use of it can result in an intriguing introduction. It has the same effect as the interior color in setting the style. It is the first part of the house to express the owner's personality."

Professional styling such as that done by Miss Brooks will be available in all homes in the new West Heights subdivision in West Monroe, which is being developed by Suburban Homes, Inc. The president of the firm is M. E. "Red" Gross.

ACCIDENTALLY JAILED

SALEM, N.J. (UP)— Thomas McGrellis, 31, Newark, Del., was imprisoned accidentally for nearly four hours Thursday when a cell door shut on him at a county jail now under construction.

Comfort, Economy Are Stressed In New W.M. Homes

Extra comfort and economy are assured by the floor - to - ceiling insulation found in the many style homes available in the new West Heights Subdivision in West Monroe. The subdivision being developed by Suburban Homes, Inc., headed by M. E. "Red" Gross, will be open to the public Saturday and Sunday.

This outstanding feature gives the family year - round protection against the extremes of heat and cold and makes possible considerable savings in fuel and air-conditioning costs.

Liberal use of Styrofoam in the foundation of the new homes insulates that part of the home thoroughly against the chill of the ground. In addition, a Visqueen blanket is used to keep moisture from entering the house through the foundation.

As a further protection against the weather, Fiberglas insulation is applied around the perimeter of the foundation to eliminate heat loss and to keep the floors warm and comfortable in the coldest of weather.

All exterior walls of the homes are insulated with Fiberglas. This is applied between the 2x4 studs. An aluminum foil backing on the gypsum boards protects the walls against vapor moving from inside the house.

When the house is erected, at the building site, Fiberglas also is applied in the ceiling sections to prevent heat loss in the winter and to insulate against the burning rays of the sun in the summer.

INDUSTRY, FINALLY

ARCADIA — UP — After three years of effort to gain new industry for this town, the Arcadia Development Co. Inc., has gained one. The Western Hatchieries of Dallas, Tex., plans to build a poultry - processing plant which will employ 150 persons, Curt Siegelin, director of the department of commerce and industry said.

AT SESSION HERE

Economist Lashes At Food Faddists

Dr. Miriam Lowenberg, head of foods and nutrition department of the College of Home Economics, Pennsylvania State University, speaking here last night lashed out at food faddists as "mostly interested in dollars."

Dr. Lowenberg, addressing approximately 300 persons at the convention of Louisiana Home Economics Association being held at the Frances Hotel, told the gathering that persons become upset when they are given "bits of knowledge."

She cited young mothers who notice different behaviors in their children than is brought out in nutrition books.

"If your youngster wants a ham sandwich for breakfast, maybe a ham sandwich would be best for him."

Dr. Miriam brought out, however, that she does not advocate giving children everything they want to eat, when they want it.

But she made her point by stressing that "no one eats sterotyped diet as set down in books." The foods, she pointed out, have to be adapted to the people, considering the circumstances. If followed along this line, she said, diet and nutrition books are very useful.

Topic of Mrs. Loenberg's discussion was "Food is for people." She said much research is needed in the field of child nutrition along such lines as "why children do not eat breakfast and certain foods."

The convention, which opened yesterday, will continue through today.

Examiner Says UG Should Be Granted Permit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Power Commission examiner ruled Friday that United Gas Pipe Line Co., Shreveport, La., should be authorized to build and operate facilities to permit purchase of natural gas from the Bayou Rambio field in Terrebonne Parish, La. Estimated construction cost is $126,000.

Examiner Edward B. Marsh also held that three independent gas producers should be authorized to sell gas to United at an initial rate of 21.3 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The producers are the Superior Oil Co., and Texas Gulf Producing Co., both of Houston; and Olin Gas Transmission Corp., Monroe, La.

Marsh's decision will become a final commission order if no review is initiated within 30 days.

'Quickie' Divorce

JUAREZ, MEXICO (UP)—Singer Jaye P. Morgan got a "quickie" divorce Friday from actor Mike Baiano and said she had no plans for another marriage.

"I just wanted to get out of this one first," she said. Neither Miss Morgan nor her attorney, Areliano Vargas, would comment on the grounds for the divorce.

The couple was married April 14, 1954, in Beverly Hills, Calif., and separated Aug. 21, 1956.

NOTIFIES LONG

Public Safety Director Quits

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Forrest C. Pendleton, state public safety director, Friday made public his letter of resignation sent to Gov. Earl Long.

The 75-year-old safety director, appointed by Long May 15, 1956, said he wants to spend more time with his three sons going into military service.

And he added he has been away too long from his two businesses in New Orleans. He wants to quit March 31.

As Safety director, he has overall supervision of the state police department, the drivers license bureau and state traffic safety efforts.

Pendleton is owner and operator of Pendleton, Inc., a private detective agency, and National Service Corp., Inc., a nightwatching service.

Pendleton said Goldman Grant, a state police lieutenant colonel on his staff, retired two weeks ago because of heart trouble.

Until Grant entered a beer business, he was Long's public safety director during the 1948-52 administration. He formerly served as a campaign driver for Long.

In his letter to Long, Pendleton said "I am very proud of my position as director of public safety, an honor you so generously conferred on me . . . I trust I have filled the position in a manner that pleases you. Now I feel I should give more time to my business in New Orleans."

On March 31, date the resignation is effective at close of business, the state Civil Service Commission has called a rehearing in the Alva H. King case.

The Supreme Court caused the rehearing when it ruled the commission, which has upheld Pendleton's dismissal of King, should have listened to King's attempts to show political influence was involved.

Pendleton has fired King on eight charges ranging from insubordination to talking out of turn to a news reporter.

More Snow In Texas Forecast

By UNITED PRESS

The Texas Panhandle may be in for more snow before the week end is over.

As the last remains of this week's snowfall melted, forecasters predicted that snow flurries from the Rockies might reach into the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles by Sunday.

An inch of snow remained on the ground at Dalhart at dawn Friday but was melting off rapidly.

Skies were cloudy along the coast Friday and in the Panhandle and South Plains. Skies were generally clear elsewhere.

Low temperatures ranged from 20 at Lubbock to 47 at Brownsville, and maximum temperatures were from 30 at Dalhart and Amarillo to 60 at Presidio.

Forecasters predicted the mercury would drop as low as 18 degrees in the Panhandle and South Plains early Saturday.

New Homes To Feature Wide Use Of Glass

Apart from the purely functional advantages of large windows, people like the feeling of spaciousness and freedom provided by extensive use of glass.

It is, therefore, no temporary fancy that more and more glass is finding its way into modern housing. Residents just naturally like the ample daylighting ease of maintenance, beauty and long life which glass gives to their homes.

In keeping with the increasing demand for open living styling, National Homes Corporation has included large picture windows and entire window walls of sliding glass doors in many of their new models.

All of these various styles will be available in new homes by Suburban Homes, Inc., which is developing the West Heights subdivision in West Monroe. A public showing of the new subdivision will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Time was when little or no consideration was given to window placement in homes, the degree of fenestration they would ultimately provide, or their effect on the overall appearance of the house. To all indications, they were placed haphazardly here and there at the designer's whim. Now, however, windows are considered an important component in home construction, and like doorways, fireplaces and rooms, they are located with care to provide the greatest contribution to living enjoyment.

Oppenheimer Defended By Von Braun

WASHINGTON (UP) — Dr. Wernher von Braun agreed Friday it was tragic that the United States was not using the services of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, the atomic physicist whose security clearance was withdrawn four years ago.

Von Braun, the "father of the Explorer satellite," spoke up in behalf of Oppenheimer the "father of the A-bomb," in response to a congressman's question at a House hearing. He was called to give his ideas on education problems.

The German-born rocket expert, who commented that "people must have the courage to be eggheads," said the circumstances under which Oppenheimer was dismissed as a government consultant had hurt the scientific community as a whole.

Later, he said the United States must emphasize quality rather than quantity in its educational programs if it wants to "surpass" Russia. "Let's face, it," he said, "we are outnumbered by the Communist world."

His comments on Oppenheimer came during an exchange with Rep. Fran Thompson Jr. (D-N.Y.)

"Don't you think it is somewhat tragic that because of political considerations, the country has been deprived of the services of Dr. Oppenheimer?" Thompson asked.

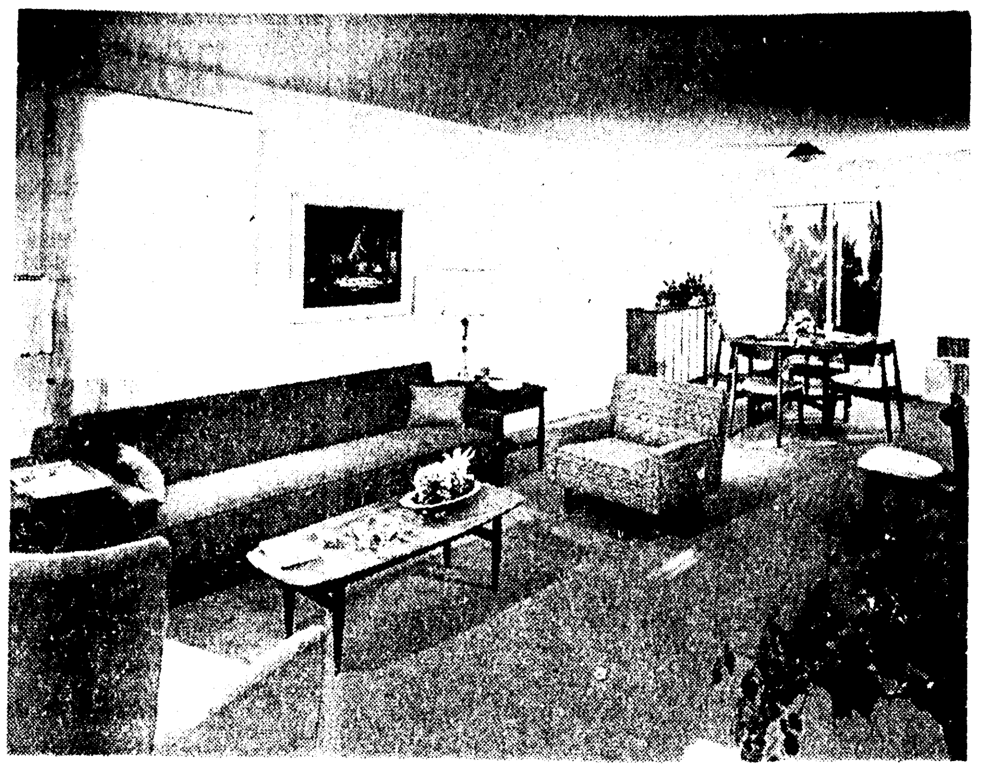
"Very much so," Von Braun replied. "Particularly the circumstances under which he was dismissed hurt the whole scientific community very badly."

"I agree, " Thompson said. "I think it has been an outrage."

"Yes, the way the whole thing was handled," Von Braun said.

He added that he was not in a position to comment on "security aspects" but: "I think the British would have knighted him."

Oppenheimer, who headed the World War II atomic bomb project was found loyal but labelled a security risk by a special panel of the Atomic Energy Commission in 1954.



ONE OF THE most attractive features of the Fairlane home is the living-dining rooms. These rooms flow together to give an unusual feeling of spaciousness. Sliding glass doors at rear afford access to patio or back yard. The Fairlane is one of many models that will be available in the new West Heights Subdivision, which is being developed by Suburban Homes, Incorporated, headed by Mr. M. E. "Red" Gross.

Called on bond when he failed to appear on charges of driving while intoxicated was Cecil A. Jiles.

Todot H. LaFleur drew a six months suspended sentence yesterday when he admitted theft of cash and merchandise.

Omer House and John Henry Williams were fined $25 for disturbing the peace, and John W. Wilson was fined $50 for driving with switched license plates.

Remanded for sentencing after he pleaded guilty to vagrancy was Kenneth J. Cekander. Cliff Pryor was fined $100 for speeding.

Man Is Charged With Car Arson

J. D. Johnson, 25-year-old Monroe Negro was arrested here yesterday on a charge of auto arson, Dep. State Fire Marshall Garland May announced.

May said Johnson was arrested following an investigation by fire authorities and city Police. The man, who listed his address as 113 Magnolia St., was lodged in the parish jail.

Johnson is charged with allegedly burning a truck Friday Mar. 7.

Tight Gun Rule Keeps Cuba Quiet

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Tight gun rule was enforced throughout this island Friday night. An unprecedented wave of violence subsided, at least for the moment.

Only one bomb explosion was reported near Havana contrasted to the usual daily menu of burnings, train holdups, wrecking communications, kidnapings and killings.

President Fulgencio Batista kept the 7,700-strong national police, and the army, navy and air forces in a state of alert.

Police, troops and coastguardsmen patrolled streets in rebellious Santiago de Cuba, in Pinar del Rio, Matanzas, Cienfuegos, Havana and other rebel hot spots. Police and other forces, clothed with extraordinary powers, broke up groups of Cubans wherever they attempted to congregate.

Under the suspension of constitutional guarantees, effective until April 26, they could arrest and toss thousands of Cubans into jail if necessary, without charging them, and hold them indefinitely. They also were empowered to raid homes without warrants and disperse public meetings.

Authorities rigidly enforced censorship of press, radio and television and international telephonic communications. Censors clipped out all Cuban items from American newspapers before they were allowed on newsstands. They required operators in telephone exchanges to sever connections when anyone tried to relay to the United States news of the situation in Cuba.

Insurance Co. Business Ended

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—State Insurance Commissioner Joe B. Hunt disclosed Friday the Highway Insurance Underwriters, Austin, Tex., has been ordered to cease soliciting insurance in Oklahoma.

He said the order was issued Feb. 28 because examiners found the firm had a deficit of $510,607. Hunt also revoked the licenses of two agents of the firm. The insurance company was organized in 1935 and has been selling insurance in 17 states.

'Quickie' Divorce

JUAREZ, MEXICO (UP)—Singer Jaye P. Morgan got a "quickie" divorce Friday from actor Mike Baiano and said she had no plans for another marriage.

"I just wanted to get out of this one first," she said. Neither Miss Morgan nor her attorney, Areliano Vargas, would comment on the grounds for the divorce.

The couple was married April 14, 1954, in Beverly Hills, Calif., and separated Aug. 21, 1956.

Baiano is the son of Sollt Baiano, talent chief at Warner Brothers.

New Homes To Feature Wide Use Of Glass

Apart from the purely functional advantages of large windows, people like the feeling of spaciousness and freedom provided by extensive use of glass.

It is, therefore, no temporary fancy that more and more glass is finding its way into modern housing. Residents just naturally like the ample daylighting ease of maintenance, beauty and long life which glass gives to their homes.

In keeping with the increasing demand for open living styling, National Homes Corporation has included large picture windows and entire window walls of sliding glass doors in many of their new models.

All of these various styles will be available in new homes by Suburban Homes, Inc., which is developing the West Heights subdivision in West Monroe. A public showing of the new subdivision will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Time was when little or no consideration was given to window placement in homes, the degree of fenestration they would ultimately provide, or their effect on the overall appearance of the house. To all indications, they were placed haphazardly here and there at the designer's whim. Now, however, windows are considered an important component in home construction, and like doorways, fireplaces and rooms, they are located with care to provide the greatest contribution to living enjoyment.

Oppenheimer Defended By Von Braun

WASHINGTON (UP) — Dr. Wernher von Braun agreed Friday it was tragic that the United States was not using the services of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, the atomic physicist whose security clearance was withdrawn four years ago.

Von Braun, the "father of the Explorer satellite," spoke up in behalf of Oppenheimer the "father of the A-bomb," in response to a congressman's question at a House hearing. He was called to give his ideas on education problems.

The German-born rocket expert, who commented that "people must have the courage to be eggheads," said the circumstances under which Oppenheimer was dismissed as a government consultant had hurt the scientific community as a whole.

Later, he said the United States must emphasize quality rather than quantity in its educational programs if it wants to "surpass" Russia. "Let's face, it," he said, "we are outnumbered by the Communist world."

His comments on Oppenheimer came during an exchange with Rep. Fran Thompson Jr. (D-N.Y.)

"Don't you think it is somewhat tragic that because of political considerations, the country has been deprived of the services of Dr. Oppenheimer?" Thompson asked.

"Very much so," Von Braun replied. "Particularly the circumstances under which he was dismissed hurt the whole scientific community very badly."

"I agree, " Thompson said. "I think it has been an outrage."

"Yes, the way the whole thing was handled," Von Braun said.

He added that he was not in a position to comment on "security aspects" but: "I think the British would have knighted him."

Oppenheimer, who headed the World War II atomic bomb project was found loyal but labelled a security risk by a special panel of the Atomic Energy Commission in 1954.

ONE OF THE most attractive features of the Fairlane home is the living-dining rooms. These rooms flow together to give an unusual feeling of spaciousness. Sliding glass doors at rear afford access to patio or back yard. The Fairlane is one of many models that will be available in the new West Heights Subdivision, which is being developed by Suburban Homes, Incorporated, headed by Mr. M. E. "Red" Gross.

DISTRICT COURT ACTION

6 Are Sentenced To State Prison

Penitentiary terms totalling 44 years were handed out to six men yesterday by Judge David I. Garrett in Fourth District Court.

Armed robbery netted two Negroes a total of 30 years. General Williams Jr., 29, drew 20 years on three counts of armed robbery, and Henry Hollinquest received 10 years on one count.

Three counts of forgery admitted by Lynn W. Williams Jr. resulted in seven years at Angola, and one count of forgery by Elmas Hopper drew a three year sentence.

Four years in the penitentiary were meted out to Crayton Broadnax Jr. for two counts of simple burglary.

None of the sentences were concurrent, and each person sentenced to more than one term must serve the first completely and part of the others before he is eligible for parole.

In other court action, Judge Garrett sentenced Paul F. Brown to six months in jail on each of two counts of theft, with the terms to run concurrently. Jessie Slaughter drew two years for theft.

For unauthorized use of a movable, Larry Jim White and Jimmy Miles Willis each received six months suspended jail sentences.

Remanded for pre-sentence investigation, after they admitted simple burglary, were Albert Green, James Tramble, Andrew Riley and Willie H. Jackson.

Thomas Byrd and John Marvin Miller each denied charges of simple burglary.

Nathan C. RRoberts was sentenced to 125 days in jail plus $400 or 90 days for second offense, driving while intoxicated.

Roberts also came before Juvenile court, where a case of criminal neglect of family was continued until a later date. Others tried in juvenile court included Harry Edd Burt, alias Henry A. Burt, who was given six months in jail for desertion, and Ed Dowdy, who will serve one year in the parish jail for indecent behavior with a juvenile.

Among other cases in criminal court, Joe N. Taylor was remanded for sentencing after he admitted driving while intoxicated.

Charges of driving while intoxicated against Menton E. Whittington have been continued until April 25.

Ida Smith was fined $25 for disturbing the peace. George Armstrong, charged with vagrancy, pleaded not guilty in court.

Wilmer Williams, arraigned on a charge of simple burglary, also denied guilt.

Driving while intoxicated resulted in $300 fines for James L. Davis, Meredith R. Arrant, William G. Rylee and William D. Younse. Rylee was also fined $50 for driving without a license and Younse was fined $50 or 30 days for hit and run driving.

James S. Platt drew a fine of $400 or 90 days for driving while intoxicated and 30 days compulsory for driving without a license.

Trial Slated

Pleading not guilty to driving while intoxicated were Edwin D. Brooks slated for trial on May 16; James E. Purifoy, trial on April 11; and Robert N. Roberts, who will be tried as a second offender on May 16. Roberts will also be tried on charges of driving without a license.

Kenneth L. Franklin was fined $400 or 90 days, plus 125 days compulsory in jail for second offense, drunk driving.

Called on bond when he failed to appear on charges of driving while intoxicated was Cecil A. Jiles.

Dallas Ray Hammonds, arrested earlier this week, will be tried on May 5 on charges of possession of narcotic drugs — marijuana. A large amount of the dope was found in his trailer home when he was taken into custody.

Todot H. LaFleur drew a six months suspended sentence yesterday when he admitted theft of cash and merchandise.

Omer House and John Henry Williams were fined $25 for disturbing the peace, and John W. Wilson was fined $50 for driving with switched license plates.

Remanded for sentencing after he pleaded guilty to vagrancy was Kenneth J. Cekander. Cliff Pryor was fined $100 for speeding.

Trial is set for May 21 for Dave Houston Jackson, charged with theft of $81.02, and Mrs. William W. Summers, charged with issuing a worthless check for $353.70.

Cartinus Rollins (Roblow) and Jimmie Foster were each fined $25 for driving without a chauffeur's license. Foster was also fined $25 or 10 days for reckless driving.

Called on bond were William L. Anderson, charged with reckless driving and failure to post bond; John Gabriel, speeding; Mildred L. Litzenberger, reckless driving; Jack Parker Terry, speeding.

Man Is Charged With Car Arson

J. D. Johnson, 25-year-old Monroe Negro was arrested here yesterday on a charge of auto arson, Dep. State Fire Marshall Garland May announced.

May said Johnson was arrested following an investigation by fire authorities and city Police. The man, who listed his address as 113 Magnolia St., was lodged in the parish jail.

Johnson is charged with allegedly burning a truck Friday Mar. 7.

Tight Gun Rule Keeps Cuba Quiet

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Tight gun rule was enforced throughout this island Friday night. An unprecedented wave of violence subsided, at least for the moment.

Only one bomb explosion was reported near Havana—contrasted to the usual daily menu of burnings, train holdups, wrecking communications, kidnapings and killings.

President Fulgencio Batista kept the 7,700-strong national police, and the army, navy and air forces in a state of alert.

Police, troops and coastguardsmen patrolled streets in rebellious Santiago de Cuba, in Pinar del Rio, Matanzas, Cienfuegos, Havana and other rebel hot spots. Police and other forces, clothed with extraordinary powers, broke up groups of Cubans wherever they attempted to congregate.

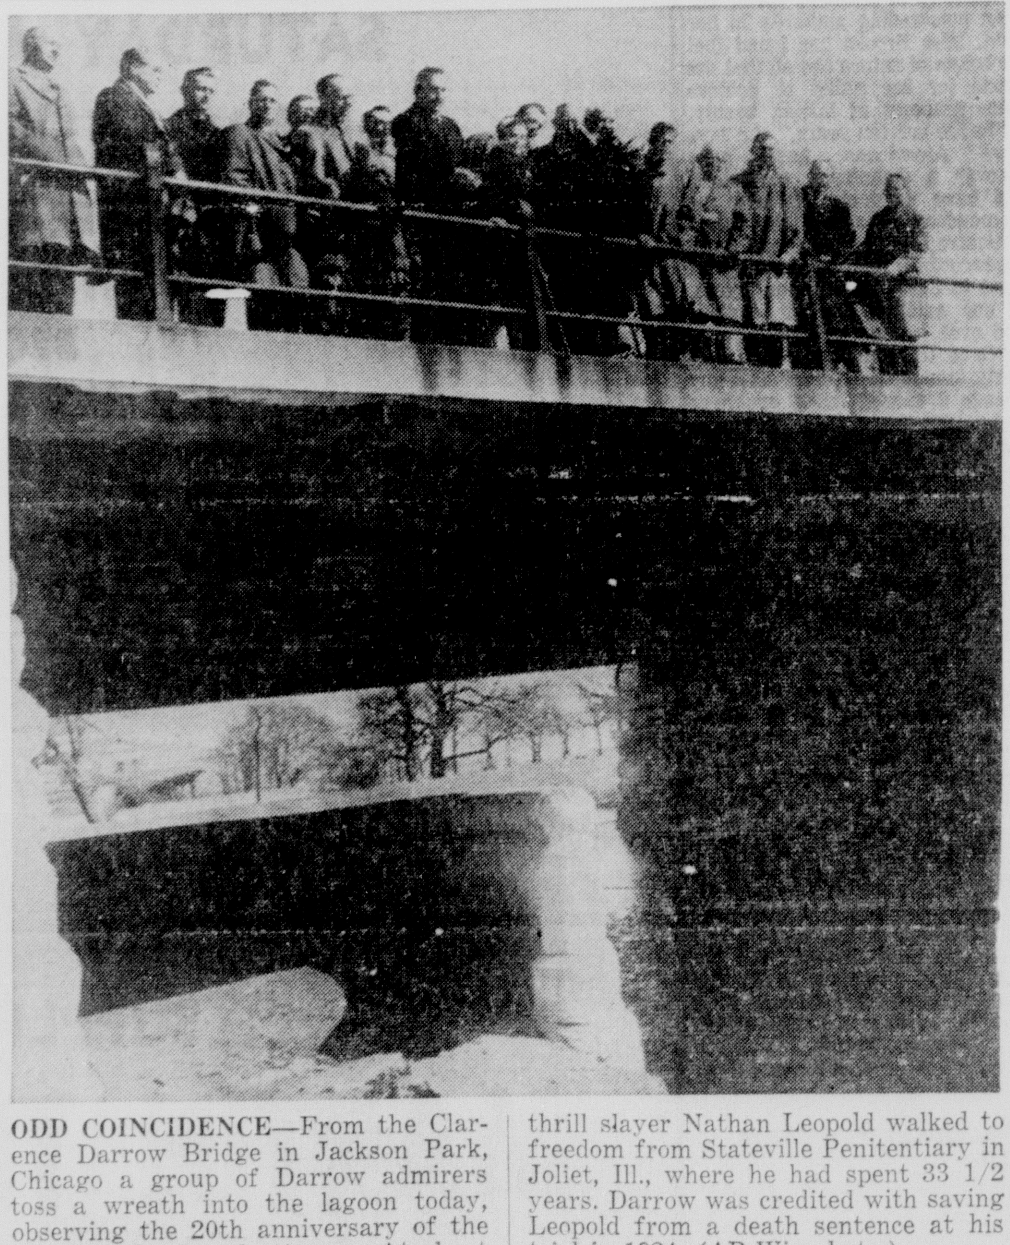
Under the suspension of constitutional guarantees, effective until April 26, they could arrest and toss thousands of Cubans into jail if necessary, without charging them, and hold them indefinitely. They also were empowered to raid homes without warrants and disperse public meetings.

Authorities rigidly enforced censorship of press, radio and television and international telephonic communications. Censors clipped out all Cuban items from American newspapers before they were allowed on newsstands. They required operators in telephone exchanges to sever connections when anyone tried to relay to the United States news of the situation in Cuba.

Insurance Co. Business Ended

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—State Insurance Commissioner Joe B. Hunt disclosed Friday the Highway Insurance Underwriters, Austin, Tex., has been ordered to cease soliciting insurance in Oklahoma.

He said the order was issued Feb. 28 because examiners found the firm had a deficit of $510,607. Hunt also revoked the licenses of two agents of the firm. The insurance company was organized in 1935 and has been selling insurance in 17 states.



ODD COINCIDENCE—From the Clarence Darrow Bridge in Jackson Park, Chicago a group of Darrow admirers toss a wreath into the lagoon today, observing the 20th anniversary of the death of the famed attorney. At about the same time, by a strange coincidence, thrill slayer Nathan Leopold walked to freedom from Stateville Penitentiary in Joliet, Ill., where he had spent 33 1/2 years. Darrow was credited with saving Leopold from a death sentence at his trial in 1924. (AP Wirephoto.)

Estate Life's License Void For Operation

AUSTIN (UP)—Insurance Commissioner William A. Harrison Friday cancelled the license of Estate Life Insurance Co. of Amarillo to operate in Texas and recommended legal action seeking to put the firm back on its feet financially.

Harrison in a formal order called upon the attorney general to take legal steps to put the company in receivership for the purpose of "rehabilitating" and conserving the company's financial affairs.

This procedure generally is known as a conservatorship, under which the state insurance liquidator controls a company but permits it to continue operation until such time as it may be able to manage its own affairs. In standard receiverships, the liquidator disposes of the assets and puts the company out of business.

Conserve Firm's Assets

Harrison asked for the court action "to the principal end that the assets of the company may be conserved and its financial condition be rehabilitated to tht point that it meets the minimum requirements of the Texas insurance code, whereby it might then be relicensed to act as an insurance company in this state. . ."

However, Harrison's order said that "failing in this end and objective, the liquidator. . . could then proceed to totally liquidate the affairs of the company and seek a cancellation of its corporate charter and existence."

Harrison said that efforts of Estate Life officials have reduced the company's insolvency from $1,215,290 to a present deficit of $190,105.

Done Three Ways

He said this was accomplished in three ways:

—The company produced evidence showing it had its home office building under construction prior to the effective date of a legislative act requiring permission of the board of insurance for such building, thus exempting Estate Life's home office building from the provision and allowing it to be counted as an asset, cutting the deficit by $278,984.

—Estate Life stockholders last Tuesday voted to reduce the firm's capitalization from $500,000 to $100,000, releasing $400,000 in obligations.

—The company replaced a non-admissible mortgage loan secured by real estate with a warranty deed actually conveying and placing title to the real estate in Estate Life. The real estate has an appraised value of about $346,200, the order said.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Manufacturers Would Support Tex. Sales Tax

HOUSTON (UP) — The Texas Manufacturers Association Friday indicated it would support a state sales tax if the extra revenue is needed by Texas.

The association, in a brief filed before the State Tax Study Commission meeting Friday in Houston, urged the Legislature to trim non-essential and "useless frills" from government costs first, then broaden the tax base if new revenue is needed.

"The sales tax is a widely used method of revenue gathering," the brief said. "It is most satisfactory when levied at the retail level and has the advantage of being broad - based and therefore one of the most stable sources of revenue for the government."

The brief was read before the commission which Friday held its third meeting. The commission was created by the last Legislature and is composed of lawmakers and laymen who are studying the state tax structure.

The Manufacturers Association did not actually recommend any tax, but it voiced strong opposition to any suggestion of a graduated state income tax, corporate income tax and gross receipts tax.

In addition to the Manufactures Association, the Texas Brewers Institute and the Tax Research Association of Houston and Harris county appeared before the group.

Estate Life's License Void For Operation

AUSTIN (UP)—Insurance Commissioner William A. Harrison Friday cancelled the license of Estate Life Insurance Co. of Amarillo to operate in Texas and recommended legal action seeking to put the firm back on its feet financially.

Harrison in a formal order called upon the attorney general to take legal steps to put the company in receivership for the purpose of "rehabilitating" and conserving the company's financial affairs.

This procedure generally is known as a conservatorship, under which the state insurance liquidator controls a company but permits it to continue operation until such time as it may be able to manage its own affairs. In standard receiverships, the liquidator disposes of the assets and puts the company out of business.

Conserve Firm's Assets

Harrison asked for the court action "to the principal end that the assets of the company may be conserved and its financial condition be rehabilitated to tht point that it meets the minimum requirements of the Texas insurance code, whereby it might then be relicensed to act as an insurance company in this state..."

However, Harrison's order said that "failing in this end and objective, the liquidator... could then proceed to totally liquidate the affairs of the company and seek a cancellation of its corporate charter and existence."

Harrison said that efforts of Estate Life officials have reduced the company's insolvency from $1,215,290 to a present deficit of $190,105.

Done Three Ways

He said this was accomplished in three ways:

—The company produced evidence showing it had its home office building under construction prior to the effective date of a legislative act requiring permission of the board of insurance for such building, thus exempting Estate Life's home office building from the provision and allowing it to be counted as an asset, cutting the deficit by $278,984.

—Estate Life stockholders last Tuesday voted to reduce the firm's capitalization from $500,000 to $100,000, releasing $400,000 in obligations.

—The company replaced a nonadmissible mortgage loan secured by real estate with a warranty deed actually conveying and placing title to the real estate in Estate Life. The real estate has an appraised value of about $346,200, the order said.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

X S Q Y S B Z E X X F Y B X A Y V Q S
O C V - R S B F S G O S G — X F C A Y V E.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Manufacturers Would Support Tex. Sales Tax

HOUSTON (UP) — The Texas Manufacturers Association Friday indicated it would support a state sales tax if the extra revenue is needed by Texas.

The association, in a brief filed before the State Tax Study Commission meeting Friday in Houston, urged the Legislature to trim non-essential and "useless frills" from government costs first, then broaden the tax base if new revenue is needed.

"The sales tax is a widely used method of revenue gathering," the brief said. "It is most satisfactory when levied at the retail level and has the advantage of being broad - based and therefore one of the most stable sources of revenue for the government."

The brief was read before the commission which Friday held its third meeting. The commission was created by the last Legislature and is composed of lawmakers and laymen who are studying the state tax structure.

The Manufacturers Association did not actually recommend any tax, but it voiced strong opposition to any suggestion of a graduated state income tax, corporate income tax and gross receipts tax.

In addition to the Manufactures Assciation, the Texas Brewers Institute and the Tax Research Association of Houston and Harris county appeared before the group.

PLANT DEDICATED

Industry March Seen By Frazar

WINNSBORO (Special) —Louisiana is changing from solely an agricultural state to a state with both agricultural and industrial interests, Lt. Gov. Lether E. Frazar said yesterday.

He addressed a large crowd when a mile-long parade and hour-long ceremony marked the formal dedication of the Sustan Garment Factory, Inc.

Frazar said that the Louisiana legislative industrial committee, of which he is chairman, will meet Thursday in Monroe, "to try to do for other towns what Winnsboro has done for itself."

He complimented the Winnsboro businessmen for their initiative in getting the industry for their town and said that his committee has made a state-wide survey and is contacting small industries throughout the nation in an effort to attract them to smaller Louisiana towns.

New Industry

"During the past three years, $800 million in industry has located in Louisiana, and since Jan. 1, a total of $180 million has moved into our state," Frazar told the group.

He added that unemployment in Louisiana is at 4 per cent whereas the national average is 7 per cent and in some places has reached 10 per cent.

"The factory is the salvation of the state's economy," Frazar stressed. "Winnsboro residents have used incentive in getting industry, and incentive is simply doing the right thing at the right time without being told."

He added that it is going to take something besides "back patting" to keep the industry and to keep in step with progress.

"There has been some agitation for repeal of the 10-year tax exemption law but we won't entertain any idea of repealing this law," Frazar declared to the group.

Forerunner

"This plant may be a forerunner of others, and on behalf of Gov. Long and other officials, I want to welcome this industry and the people who moved here with it," Frazar said in closing.

The day was also celebrated as Finis C. Howard Day. Howard was chairman of the Winnsboro Businessmen's Industrial Committee at the time Sustan decided to locate in Winnsboro.

Monday the plant will begin production, after being idle for two months, and within a year is expected to employ about 200 people.

Long Parade

Included in the parade were Boy Scouts, bands from Winnsboro High School, West Monroe High, Crowville High and Mangham High, civic and industrial floats, the Confederate Canoneers from Oak Grove, horses, decorated bicycles and cars and a fleet of farm and industrial equipment.

In band competition, the West Monroe High School Band took the first prize of $50, with Crowville in second place for $35 and Mangham taking third for $25. The Winnsboro band did not enter competition.

Copping first place in the division of floats was the Winnsboro Garden Club, which was presented with $25. Second was Crowville High School for $15 and third was the Garden Gate Garden Club of Winnsboro for $10.

Butch Robinson won the first prize of $5 in the decorated bicycles division, while J. W. Dean took second position for $3 and Judy Faye Robinson was judged third for $2.

Trophies Given

Trophies were presented to horsemen, with M. A. Dailey named to the top position. Ivy Simon was second and Larry Russell was third. A trophy also went to the Confederate Canoneers.

At the plant building, Cale Martin, president of the Winnsboro Businessmen's Association, called the meeting to order and Mulhearn welcomed the group. Don K. Mayer was master of ceremonies and program chairman for the event and introduced Howard who spoke briefly to the crowd. Frazar then made his address.

Mrs. Mabel Lynch, representing the plant employees, gave a jacket to Frazar and Howard, and sent one to Long, all of which were made from Louisiaiana cotton by Louisiana labor and produced in Winnsboro.

Robert Wade Martin, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Cale Martin, unveiled the plaque on the building, and the mayor cut the ribbon. A tour was then taken of the plant and refreshments were served.

A banquet was held last night at the First Methodist Church in Winnsboro, with Frazar speaking about industry.

Two Sides In Mississippi To Try Again

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Opposing legislative factions gave final agreement Friday to another effort at economy in state government to help provide money for teacher pay raises.

In asking the Senate to join the House in the request, Sen. William Burgin of Columbus revealed a joint effort by administration and opposition forces to cut the budget by five million dollars.

Sen. Earl Evans of Canton expressed doubt any good results would be realized but Burgin argued: "At least we can make an effort."

Both houses have agreed to the teacher pay and provide a ninth month of school, but so far no source of revenue has been provided.

The House Thursday rejected, by one vote, a bill removing exemptions from the sales tax laws. Legislative observers said passage of the bill would have opened the doors to other forms of taxation that would have provided most of the money.

The teacher pay raise bill and ninth month would cost 20 million dollars more than the 81 million approved by the House for education in 1958-60.

Burgin, administration leader in the Senate, said he had conferred with Gov. J. P. Coleman and Rep. Hilton Waits of Washington County, an opposition leader, about the budget cut.

One result was appointment of four senators and five House members to meet with the Budget Commission in an advisory capacity while the commission discusses the budget with department heads.

Late Thursday, Coleman told a news conference "nothing short of a miracle" could produce the revenue for school improvements. But he promised continued efforts toward that goal.

The try for a budget cut was one result of continued effort and negotiations.

The Senate Friday quickly passed 22 House bills appropriating more than 36 million dollars but declined to release them to the governor pending outcome of the budget study.

All House-passed appropriations bills either are in the Senate Finance Committee or are held on motions to reconsider their passing votes.

PLANT DEDICATED

Industry March Seen By Frazar

WINNSBORO (Special) —Louisiana is changing from solely an agricultural state to a state with both agricultural and industrial interests, Lt. Gov. Lethar E. Frazar said yesterday.

He addressed a large crowd when a mile-long parade and hour-long ceremony marked the formal dedication of the Sustan Garment Factory, Inc.

Frazar said that the Louisiana legislative industrial committee, of which he is chairman, will meet Thursday in Monroe, "to try to do for other towns what Winnsboro has done for itself."

He complimented the Winnsboro businessmen for their initiative in getting the industry for their town, and said that his committee has made a state - wide survey and is contacting small industries throughout the nation in an effort to attract them to smaller Louisiana towns.

New Industry

"During the past three years, $800 million in industry has located in Louisiana, and since Jan. 1, a total of $180 million has moved into our state," Frazar told the group.

He added that unemployment in Louisiana is at 4 per cent, whereas the national average is 7 per cent and in some places has reached 10 per cent.

"The factory is the salvation of the state's economy," Frazar stressed. "Winnsboro residents have used incentive in getting industry, and incentive is simply doing the right thing at the right time without being told."

He added that it is going to take something besides "back patting" to keep the industry and to keep in step with progress.

"There has been some agitation for repeal of the 10-year tax exemption law, but we won't entertain any idea of repealing this law," Frazar declared to the group.

Forerunner

"This plant may be a forerunner of others, and on behalf of Gov. Long and other officials, I want to welcome this industry and the people who moved here with it," Frazar said in closing.

The day was also celebrated as Finis C. Howard Day. Howard was chairman of the Winnsboro Businessmen's Industrial Committee at the time Sustan decided to locate in Winnsboro.

Monday the plant will begin production, after being idle for two months, and within a year is expected to employ about 200 people.

Long Parade

Included in the parade were Boy Scouts, bands from Winnsboro High School, West Monroe High, Crowville High and Mangham High, civic and industrial floats, the Confederate Canoneers from Oak Grove, horses, decorated bicycles and cars and a fleet of farm and industrial equipment.

In band competition, the West Monroe High School Band took the first prize of $50, with Crowville in second place for $35 and Mangham taking third for $25. The Winnsboro band did not enter competition.

Copping first place in the division of floats was the Winnsboro Garden Club, which was presented with $25. Second was Crowville High School for $15 and third was the Garden Gate Garden Club of Winnsboro for $10.

Butch Robinson won the first prize of $5 in the decorated bicycles division, while J. W. Dean took second position for $3 and Judy Faye Robinson was judged third for $2.

Trophies Given

Trophies were presented to horsemen, with M. A. Dailey named to the top position. Ivy Simon was second and Larry Russell was third. A trophy also went to the Confederate Canoneers.

At the plant building, Cale Martin, president of the Winnsboro Businessmen's Association, called the meeting to order and Mulhearn welcomed the group. Don K. Mayer was master of ceremonies and program chairman for the event and introduced Howard who spoke briefly to the crowd. Frazar then made his address.

Mrs. Mabel Lynch, representing the plant employees, gave a jacket to Frazar and Howard, and sent one to Long, all of which were made from Louisiaiana cotton by Louisiana labor and produced in Winnsboro.

Robert Wade Martin, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Cale Martin, unveiled the plaque on the building, and the mayor cut the ribbon. A tour was then taken of the plant and refreshments were served.

A banquet was held last night at the First Methodist Church in Winnsboro, with Frazar speaking about industry.

Two Sides In Mississippi To Try Again

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Opposing legislative factions gave final agreement Friday to another effort at economy in state government to help provide money for teacher pay raises.

In asking the Senate to join the House in the request, Sen. William Burgin of Columbus revealed a joint effort by administration and opposition forces to cut the budget by five million dollars.

Sen. Earl Evans of Canton expressed doubt any good results would be realized but Burgin argued: "At least we can make an effort."

Both houses have agreed to raise teacher pay and provide a ninth month of school, but so far no source of revenue has been provided.

The House Thursday rejected, by one vote, a bill removing exemptions from the sales tax laws. Legislative observers said passage of the bill would have opened the doors to other forms of taxation that would have provided most of the money.

The teacher pay raise bill and ninth month would cost 20 million dollars more than the 81 million approved by the House for education in 1958-60.

Burgin, administration leader in the Senate, said he had conferred with Gov. J. P. Coleman and Rep. Hilton Waits of Washington County, an opposition leader, about the budget cut.

One result was appointment of four senators and five House members to meet with the Budget Commission in an advisory capacity while the commission discusses the budget with department heads.

Late Thursday, Coleman told a news conference "nothing short of a miracle" could produce the revenue for school improvements. But he promised continued efforts toward that goal.

The try for a budget cut was one result of continued effort and negotiations.

The Senate Friday quickly passed 22 House bills appropriating more than 36 million dollars but declined to release them to the governor pending outcome of the budget study.

All House-passed appropriations bills either are in the Senate Finance Committee or are held on motions to reconsider their passing votes.
